Picard Reopens Portal Pay Case

Government, Labor, Industry Offer Views

Additional Testimony Scheduled Tomorrow

DETROIT, Jan. 30. (AP)—Federal Judge Frank A. Picard reopened today the controversial Mt. Clemens Pottery Company case which led to more than $4,000,000,000 in portal pay suits by labor against American industry.

His action followed testimony at a day-long hearing at which labor, industry and government offered their latest arguments for and against the portal pay theory outlined in the pottery case by the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Picard, who tried in vain to get the two sides to agree to a stipulation on the portal time involved in the Mt. Clemens case, said he would reopen the case Friday for additional testimony.

Discussing the duties of his federal district court, in view of the directive from the Supreme Court, Judge Picard declared:

"I have been told (by the court) that walking time is compensable, that (work) preliminaries are compensable but if they were so small as to be trifling in the light of the realities of the industrial world, then I am to disregard them."

The judge asked counsel for the pottery company and its workers if they would stipulate in the record certain amounts of time for each of the 13 preliminaries undertaken by the employes before they started working.

In each case, Attorney Edward Lamb, representing the plaintiff employes, objected.

Widely Divergent Views

Picard then commented, "I'm glad to get this on the record so all the people who think they know the answers to this lawsuit realize one or two of the problems."

The court then remarked, "Somebody's got to go out there and measure it (the time involved)." He said he would reopen the case to introduce further testimony on the measurements.

Originally the court had hoped to complete the hearing in one day but the inability to agree on the time stipulations made this impossible.

Spokesmen for the National Association of Manufacturers, the CIO and the federal government expressed widely divergent views as to the validity of portal pay claims.

Typical of their positions were these declarations:

1. The federal government:

Asst. Atty. Gen. John F. Sonnett warned that if portal pay claims were approved the "keeping of records of very short intervals of times would be likely to produce unpleasant working conditions for employes and serve as an irritant tending to disrupt industrial peace."

He added, "plainly an employer is not entitled to deduct trifling personal-pursuit periods during working hours in computing the work week under the (Fair Labor Standards) act, and by the same token, the employe should not be entitled to the addition of trifling periods of preliminary activity."

CIO Says Employers "Gambled"

2—The CIO:

It maintained in a brief that the flood of portal pay suits resulted because employers "in wholesale fashion gambled on evading the (wage-hour) act, hoping to escape the consequences."

3—The National Association of Manufacturers:

Declared that any portal pay damages granted by the court should be limited to time worked after June 10, 1946, the date of the Supreme Court ruling on the Mt. Clemens case. It added that if unlimited portal payments were made "employes in effect will be presented with a windfall, the economic consequences of which are impossible to estimate."

Judge Picard declared shortly after the hearing opened that he never had ruled flatly in favor of portal payments.

Truman To Visit Mexico And Texas Early In March

To Get Controversial Degree From Baylor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — President Truman mapped out a travel program today that will take him to Mexico, Texas, and Puerto Rico and cover an inspection of Atlantic Fleet maneuvers during the first two weeks in March.

The President will also visit Waco, Tex., to receive an honorary degree from Baylor University where a similar invitation stirred up a fiery Baptist controversy over bourbon and poker in 1945.

The original invitation prompted the Baptist convention of Texas to adopt a resolution asking Baylor, a Baptist school, to withhold the degree because of Mr. Truman's "reported attitude" toward "gambling and drinking."

Houston Pastor Assailed Move

Rev. W. L. Shuttlesworth, Houston, chairman of the convention's civic righteousness committee, took the floor to say that no Baptist school should confer a degree on any man who liked poker and drank bourbon.

Not even the President of the United States, Shuttlesworth asserted, "could be a good Baptist and drink his liquor."

Nevertheless, Baylor University went ahead with plans to award the degree until developments on the labor-management front led Mr. Truman to call off all travel plans. He was vigorously upheld by the Washington District Baptist Conference which assured him of its "earnest and continuous prayers."

Itinerary Is Outined

At the White House today, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross outlined the President's itinerary as follows:

March 3—By plane to Mexico City, where Mr. Truman will confer with President Miquel Aleman during a three-day stay. Side visits to points of interest are likely.

March 6—By plane to Waco, Tex., where Mr. Truman will receive his doctor of laws degree at 11 a. m. (Central Standard Time), make a brief speech and take off after lunch on non-stop flight to Washington.

20 Per Cent Tax Cut Still GOP's Goal, Martin Says

Makes Statement After "Family" Row

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Speaker Martin (R-Mass) reasserted today the Republican objective of cutting individual income taxes 20 per cent but added that the GOP is not committed to an "across the board" slash.

He made the statement at a news conference after a Republican family fight over the method of cutting taxes flared to the verge of fisticuffs in a Capitol cafeteria.

Rep. Knutson, of Minnesota, advocate of a 20 per cent slash for virtually all taxpayers, and Rep. Engle, of Michigan, who says that would benefit the rich and be little help to the small fellow, shouted angrily at each other, but colleagues stepped in before any punches were tossed.

Three-Way Objective

"A 20 per cent tax cut is definitely and positively our objective," Martin said. "I think every Republican I know is for a 20 per cent tax cut."

"We have a three-way objective: 1. Balance the budget; 2. Make a payment on the national debt; and 3. A 20 per cent cut in taxes."

Martin had just emerged from a closed door session with Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Knutson later issued a statement quoting Martin as saying "we have got to know how much money can be saved to be distributed before we can decide on the specific details of the tax cut." The statement added: "Mr. Knutson concurs in the above, as do the overwhelming majority of the membership."

McCormack Raps GOP "Shifts"

Rep. McCormack, of Massachusetts, House Democratic whip, recalled to reporters that the Republican slogan last fall was "Had Enough?" and added:

"I think the people have had enough of the consistent shifts in Republican promises."

Sharing Of Atom Secrets Is Opposed By Bricker

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) raised strong objection today to sharing the secret of the atomic bomb even with an internationally policed organization.

Bricker contended, in questioning one of President Truman's appointees to the new domestic Atomic Control Commission, that any move to deliver the A-bomb to a world organization might "head us right into the holocaust we're trying to prevent."

As an alternative, he suggested an international agreement to outlaw the bomb as a weapon of war.

William W. Waymack, Des Moines, Iowa, editor whose nomination was before the Senate Atomic Committee, replied that he was not prepared to "favor outlawry of the bomb as an answer, standing alone."

Waymack mentioned that Bricker's idea paralleled in some major respects the Russian proposals for outlawing the bomb.

NLRB Assailed By Taft; Labor Court Is Urged

Arbitrator Proposes Union Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Labor Committee, said today that the National Labor Relations Board had "tried to put a CIO union in every plant in the United States."

That was in its early days, Taft said, when the board "perpetrated some of the worst miscarriages of justice I ever saw."

The board was set up to rule on collective bargaining between unions and management under the Wagner Labor Act.

Taft made his remarks during testimony by Ludwig Teller, New York labor consultant and arbitrator who has been an adviser to the Army and Navy.

Teller proposed that Congress lay down a new labor policy imposing some restrictions on unions and establish a special court to enforce it.

Ball Sees Danger

Sen. Ball (R-Minn.) told Teller establishment of a labor court "might be dangerous in the light of the way the NLRB" has administered the Wagner Act. Ball said the board had "filled in the gaps" in a manner Congress had not intended.

Teller also proposed that to deal with "national paralysis" matters such as nationwide railroad and coal strikes, congress "ought to adopt a crisis policy for crisis problems."

He suggested government seizure as the policy.

The "labor court" he proposed would have no power to arbitrate disputes but would replace the National Labor Relations Board in enforcing the Wagner Act and additional measures. These, Teller suggested, should outlaw:

Bargaining "Rules" Proposed

1. Interference with maximum production or with the introduction of labor-saving inventions.

2. The closed shop, which requires a worker to join a union to get a job, but not its modifications, such as the union shop, preferential hiring and maintenance of membership.

Teller also proposed to regulate secondary boycotts so as to protect "third parties innocent of participation" in a dispute.

He also proposed a "set of rules" to govern industry-wide bargaining. The purpose would be to prevent restraint of trade and price-fixing practices.

C. Dickerman Williams, vice president of the American Locomotive Company, and James D. Francis, president of the Island Creek Coal Company, Huntington, W. Va., asked a ban on industry-wide collective bargaining.

Two Youths To Die For Target Slaying

CENTERVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 30 (AP)—Two young hitch-hikers were convicted today for the target slaying of a motorist who had given them a ride.

James D. Sandusky, 19, Nashville, Tenn., and John T. Kelly, 20, Marion, Ill., were sentenced to death by electrocution. The jury deliberated only five minutes.

The youths testified they had slain J. Edward Sprouse, 36, Clarksville, Tenn., after they held him up, tied him to a tree and made a human target of him, January 6.

AUSTIN MEETS CHAIRMEN—Shortly before a joint meeting of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees in Washington, Warren R. Austin (center), United States representative to the United Nations, speaks to Sen. Chan Gurney (left), (R-SD), and Rep. Walter G. Andrews (R-NY), chairmen of the committees. Austin later argued for the establishment of universal military training until world atomic controls are in effect.

State Picketing Bill Protested By Labor Groups

Would Exempt Homes Of Company Officials

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30 (AP) — Organized labor in Maryland came out in force today to protest a House bill which would bar picketing homes of officials of struck companies.

The protest was made before the House Judiciary Committee.

Besides union representatives, spokesmen for the American Veterans Committee, the Union for Democratic Action and a Baltimore City councilman also voiced their opposition to the measure.

The bill, a Legislative Council product, was introduced into the House by Speaker Sybert on January 7.

Conviction Carries Fine

It would abolish picketing "the place of residence of any officer or employe of any person, association or corporation in connection with any labor dispute or controversy, or to molest, in any manner, any such officer, employe or any member of their families."

Conviction would carry a maximum fine of $100.

Several times during the hearing the name of Joseph Allen, Baltimore attorney, was brought up in connection with the bill's origin

Walter H. Oakes, regional director of the CIO Shipbuilders Union, without naming Allen, said "the same lawyer involved in the only two cases of such picketing in this state communicated his ideas to the council, but is not here to support them."

No Support For Bill

City Councilman Jacob J. Edelman, who said he spoke as representative of several unions, asserted that the fact no one was present to support the bill indicated "management is not interested in seeing this bill made into law."

He and the others termed it a suppression of "fundamental liberties" and unconstitutional, in respect to both state and federal law.

Carrier-Launched Plane Takes Adm. Richard Byrd Back To Little America

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Adm. Richard E. Byrd returned to Little America today aboard a big transport plane launched from the carrier Philippine Sea.

"Well, back home again," said the commander of the Navy's Antarctic expedition.

Byrd's plane and a companion transport, the first of that type to be launched from a carrier, took off successfully, made the 600-mile flight without incident and landed gently on skiis on a snowstrip which had been carefully prepared here.

The weather around the carrier, outside the great icepack, was favorable but a 20-to 25-knot wind here drifted snow from two to four feet high on the airstrip.

The planes made a risky jet-assisted takeoff from the Philippine Sea and a risky landing on the bumpy snowstrip. They landed at 5:25 a. m. Little America time, or 11:25 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, after a six-hour flight.

Byrd and the pilots and navigators said the takeoffs were perfect,

Ex-Rep. Andrew May Engages Republican As Chief Counsel

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan 30 (AP)—Sawyer A. Smith, prominent Northern Kentucky attorney and a Republican, disclosed today he had been engaged as chief defense counsel by Andrew J. May, former Decocratic congressman from Kentucky indicted by a grand jury last week, on a charge of conspiring to defraud the government.

Smith, who served 15 years as assistant United States attorney and United States attorney for the Eastern Kentucky federal court district under appointments by Republican presidents, said:

"I would like to be excused from any statments on defense plans.

Divorce Bill Faces Fight In Assembly

Three-Year Separation Would Be Required

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30. (AP)—Nearing the one-third point in the 1947 session, the Legislature speeded up its tempo today, passing 45 bills and receiving 16 new ones, among them one which would reduce from five to three years the time requirements for obtaining an absolute divorce after voluntary separation.

The divorce bill, which was introduced in the House by Delegates Melnicove and Sklar, Democrats from the Baltimore Fourth District, probably will face a stormy battle.

An identical bill was passed two years ago after a bitter struggle in both the Senate and House, but was vetoed by Gov. O'Conor. That measure was sponsored by the late Sen. Parran, (R-Calvert).

Senate Passes 16 Bills

The Senate, which passed 16 bills and received five new measures, gave approval to one setting up of a nine-member State Planning Commission to replace the existing five-man agency. It was an amended Legislative Council bill, calling for 10 members.

The council had proposed that a member of the Senate and of the House be on the commission, but the Senate Judiciary Committee substituted the chairman of the Legislative Council.

Other members would be the roads commission chairman or engineer; the board of health chairman or director; the welfare board chairman or director; the state chief engineer; and one member each from Western Maryland, Southern Maryland, Central Maryland including Baltimore City and the Eastern Shore.

All would be appointed by the Governor for four years, except that the sectional member first be named for one, two, three and four year terms.

Oyster Situation

The Senate once more took the lead in the oyster situation, this time in the direction of accepting Virginia's invitation to set up a joint commission to study oyster laws as embodied in the revised Maryland-Virginia compact.

President Byrnes (D-Balto. 5th), Majority Leader Sothoron (D-Prince George's) and Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) introduced joint resolution proposing the commission.

Gen. Fleming May Solve Rent Order Mystery Today

To Testify Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senators looked tonight to Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming to provide an answer tomorrow to the question, "Who almost raised the nation's rents 10 per cent?"

Gen. Fleming, head of the Office of Temporary Controls, tonight sent word to Sen. Tobey (R-NH), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee now taking testimony on rent control, that he would be ready to testify tomorrow afternoon. Fleming is returning from a trip to Iowa.

Tobey, thwarted when administration officials failed to appear today without explanation, had already gone gunning for the answer on his own.

Tobey Guns For Follin

I'm just wondering who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder," he told reporters. "Somebody did."

His particular quarry was James W. Follin, deputy administrator of OTC and in charge, because of Gen. Fleming's absence, when the OPA unit of OCT last night prepared and almost—but not quite—issued an order increasing rents by 10 per cent.

President Truman killed the order. The White House explained he did not favor a blanket increase now.

Convinced that neither OTC nor OPA had drafted the order on its own, Tobey tried for nearly an hour last night to locate Follin, but was informed by the latter's office that the OTC administrator was in the White House for a meeting "not on this matter."

Sen. Tobey said Follin's prepared testimony was reported almost ready to be delivered to the committee last night, but suddenly — and simultaneously with the White House squelching of the rent increase order—word came that neither Follin nor his statement would be on hand.

"Comedy Of Errors"

Sen. Tobey described the affair as a "comedy of errors" and observed: "Somebody is embarrassed, to put it mildly. The explanation should be interesting."

The rent order apparently emanated from OTC, into which OPA has been absorbed. OPA alerted reporters to what was coming, but it never came. Instead, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told re-

Property Loss High; Twisters Injure Scores

New Cold Wave Heads For Midwest

[By The Associated Press]

Winter's most violent tricks—tornadoes, high winds, blinding snow storms, sleet and freezing rains — swept over the nation Thursday, playing havoc with lives, property, communications and transportation.

At least 25 deaths, scores of injuries and property losses in the hundreds of thousands of dollars were reported from storm-torn areas.

Hardest hit were the Montgomery, Ala., and North Central Arkansas and Southern Missouri areas, swept by separate tornadoes.

However, heavy snow ranging up to 16 inches in Milwaukee, impeded transportation and disrupted communications in Central Lower Michigan, Southern Wisconsin, North and Central Illinois, Southern Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

A thick sheet of ice glazed highways in Northern Indiana and Northern Ohio.

Meanwhile, a cold air mass moved slowly toward the midwest from Canada, bringing a forecast of "considerable colder" by Friday night.

Tornadic Winds Kill Six

Tornadic winds which cut through three Alabama communities Thursday were reported to have killed at least eight persons and injured some 40 others. Buildings collapsed and homes were flattened as a twister ripped into the outskirts of Montgomery, lifted, and then struck again at Kent, 30 miles northeast. At least three negroes were killed at Kent. Tornadic winds also killed three persons and injured several others at Bethel, a small south Alabama community near Georgia.

At Macon, Ga., winds wrecked the main hanger at the Herbert Smart airport, along with 11 planes and several houses, and injured a dozen persons. The storm also struck a nearby area known as Seven Bridges, wrecking several tourist cabins and injuring a dozen persons. The Herbert Smart airport is about five miles south of Macon near Camp Wheeler, wartime infantry training center.

At least six persons were killed and 14 injured Wednesday night when tornadic winds cut through several communities in North Central Arkansas and Southern Missouri. Estimates of damage to buildings, communications and homes ran into several thousand dollars.

Iowa Towns Snowbound

The storm in Iowa caused the heaviest general snow fall in five years. Eighty four Southern Iowa towns were without telephone communication and all roads in the northern part of the state were blocked by snow ranging up to 18 inches.

A storm which stirred up dust in the Texas panhandle Wednesday caused brown snow to fall in Chicago and brown rain in Cincinnati.

In Indiana, high winds demolished a hangar and two planes at Greenwood, tore off a 200-foot radio tower at Hammond and destroyed a brick home at London. Lightning, which accompanied heavy rains in Central Illinois and Indiana, started fires and damaged property. An ice coating on utility wires and roads reached a thickness of one to two inches in the Fort Wayne, Ind., and Toledo, O., areas.

A blowing 12-inch snow that piled up six foot drifts virtually paralyzed transportation in Southern Wisconsin. All highways in the Milwaukee area were blocked and no trains were running south of Green Bay.

The center of the midwest storm causing the heavy snowfall passed over Chicago at midday Thursday and was expected to pass over Lower Michigan and move up into Canada over Lake Huron.

Falling Chimney Kills Man

King, Discussing Secret Nazi Papers, Says U. S. Feared Warship Attacks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The failure of the German navy to make good use of its heavy ships was due to lack of the "sea-going habit," the wartime leaders of the United States Navy said today.

Discussing secret Nazi documents now on file here and in London, Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King disclosed a few United States secrets of the war.

The United States feared another raid by German warships such as that the Bismark and the Prince Eugene undertook in 1941, so a "heavy detachment" of ships was stationed at Argentia, Newfoundland, he told reporters.

The plan called for these ships to put to sea instantly in case German ships broke loose again and, under direction of the British forces, head the enemy off in the North Atlantic.

Details of Hitler's angry decision to scrap his "battleship admirals" and their high seas fleet in January, 1943, were contained in the German documents, which were made public here and in London tonight (some contents of these documents had been disclosed previously, however).

Hitler's secret order officially terminated the fighting life of every German warship larger than a destroyer more than two years before V-E Day.

The Nazi documents show a three-cornered fight in January 1943 among the air force, army and navy ended with Hitler berating his navy chiefs for leaving their ships "idle in the fjords, utterly useless like so much old iron."

He topped off a series of violent conferences with a flat order that

Communists Offer To Take Hand In GOP Family Housing Squabble

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Communist Party, which doesn't like to see anybody unhoused—not even a Republican, professed itself ready today to go to bat about the housing situation—even for a Republican.

Or, for that matter, a whole passel of Republicans.

What the GOP had to say about this, or rather, perhaps, what it more eloquently did not say, will be recounted in just a moment.

The minor-league political to-do started with a threat of the National Republican Club here to evict the New York county organization, which maintains its headquarters on the premises.

Nobody would say what prompted this family squabble, but it was reported to have stemmed from a disagreement between party leaders.

Anyhow, as county bigwigs pondered their plight, along came a telegram from S. W. Gersoon, New York state Communist Party legislative director, saying the GOP boys certainly had the sympathy of the Communists and that any request for "assistance in fighting the case would receive merited attention."

Then the telegram let go full blast.

"This eviction notice will have served a good purpose if it impresses upon your organization the tragic dilemma of the thousand already evicted, the 3,000 about to be evicted from housing projects (because their income exceeds the maximum permitted for occupants of low-rent public housing), the 220,000 homeless veterans and the millions who will suffer from a rent increase if OPA permits it."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Labor Committee, said today that the National Labor Relations Board had "tried to put a CIO union in every plant in the United States."

That was in its early days, Taft said, when the board "perpetrated some of the worst miscarriages of justice I ever saw."

The board was set up to rule on collective bargaining between unions and management under the Wagner Labor Act.

Taft made his remarks during testimony by Ludwig Teller, New York labor consultant and arbitrator who has been an adviser to the Army and Navy.

Teller proposed that Congress lay down a new labor policy imposing some restrictions on unions and establish a special court to enforce it.

Ball Sees Danger

Sen. Ball (R-Minn.) told Teller establishment of a labor court "might be dangerous in the light of the way the NLRB" has administered the Wagner Act. Ball said the board had "filled in the gaps" in a manner Congress had not intended.

Teller also proposed that to deal with "national paralysis" matters such as nationwide railroad and coal strikes, congress "ought to adopt a crisis policy for crisis problems."

He suggested government seizure as the policy.

The "labor court" he proposed would have no power to arbitrate disputes but would replace the National Labor Relations Board in enforcing the Wagner Act and additional measures. These, Teller suggested, should outlaw:

Bargaining "Rules" Proposed

1. Interference with maximum production or with the introduction of labor-saving inventions.

2. The closed shop, which requires a worker to join a union to get a job, but not its modifications, such as the union shop, preferential hiring and maintenance of membership.

Teller also proposed to regulate secondary boycotts so as to protect "third parties innocent of participation" in a dispute.

He also proposed a "set of rules" to govern industry-wide bargaining. The purpose would be to prevent restraint of trade and price-fixing practices.

C. Dickerman Williams, vice president of the American Locomotive Company, and James D. Francis, president of the Island Creek Coal Company, Huntington, W. Va., asked a ban on industry-wide collective bargaining.

Two Youths To Die For Target Slaying

CENTERVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 30 (AP)—Two young hitch-hikers were convicted today for the target slaying of a motorist who had given them a ride.

James D. Sandusky, 19, Nashville, Tenn., and John T. Kelly, 20, Marion, Ill., were sentenced to death by electrocution. The jury deliberated only five minutes.

The youths testified they had slain J. Edward Sprouse, 36, Clarksville, Tenn., after they held him up, tied him to a tree and made a human target of him, January 6.

AUSTIN MEETS CHAIRMEN—Shortly before a joint meeting of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees in Washington, Warren R. Austin (center), United States representative to the United Nations, speaks to Sen. Chan Gurney (left), (R-SD), and Rep. Walter G. Andrews (R-NY), chairmen of the committees. Austin later argued for the establishment of universal military training until world atomic controls are in effect.

State Picketing Bill Protested By Labor Groups

Would Exempt Homes Of Company Officials

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30 (AP) — Organized labor in Maryland came out in force today to protest a House bill which would bar picketing homes of officials of struck companies.

The protest was made before the House Judiciary Committee.

Besides union representatives, spokesmen for the American Veterans Committee, the Union for Democratic Action and a Baltimore City councilman also voiced their opposition to the measure.

The bill, a Legislative Council product, was introduced into the House by Speaker Sybert on January 7.

Conviction Carries Fine

It would abolish picketing "the place of residence of any officer or employe of any person, association or corporation in connection with any labor dispute or controversy, or to molest, in any manner, any such officer, employe or any member of their families."

Conviction would carry a maximum fine of $100.

Several times during the hearing the name of Joseph Allen, Baltimore attorney, was brought up in connection with the bill's origin.

Walter H. Oakes, regional director of the CIO Shipbuilders Union, without naming Allen, said "the same lawyer involved in the only two cases of such picketing in this state communicated his ideas to the council, but is not here to support them."

No Support For Bill

City Councilman Jacob J. Edelman, who said he spoke as representative of several unions, asserted that the fact no one was present to support the bill indicated "management is not interested in seeing this bill made into law."

He and the others termed it a suppression of "fundamental liberties" and unconstitutional, in respect to both state and federal law.

Ex-Rep. Andrew May Engages Republican As Chief Counsel

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan 30 (AP)—Sawyer A. Smith, prominent Northern Kentucky attorney and a Republican, disclosed today he had been engaged as chief defense counsel by Andrew J. May, former Democratic congressman from Kentucky indicted by a grand jury last week, on a charge of conspiring to defraud the government.

Smith, who served 15 years as assistant United States attorney and United States attorney for the Eastern Kentucky federal court district under appointments by Republican presidents, said:

"I would like to be excused from any statments on defense plans.

Three-Year Separation Would Be Required

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30. (AP)—Nearing the one-third point in the 1947 session, the Legislature speeded up its tempo today, passing 45 bills and receiving 16 new ones, among them one which would reduce from five to three years the time requirements for obtaining an absolute divorce after voluntary separation.

The divorce bill, which was introduced in the House by Delegates Melnicove and Sklar, Democrats from the Baltimore Fourth District, probably will face a stormy battle.

An identical bill was passed two years ago after a bitter struggle in both the Senate and House, but was vetoed by Gov. O'Conor. That measure was sponsored by the late Sen. Parran, (R-Calvert).

Senate Passes 16 Bills

The Senate, which passed 16 bills and received five new measures, gave approval to one setting up of a nine-member State Planning Commission to replace the existing five-man agency. It was an amended Legislative Council bill, calling for 10 members.

The council had proposed that a member of the Senate and of the House be on the commission, but the Senate Judiciary Committee substituted the chairman of the Legislative Council.

Other members would be the roads commission chairman or engineer; the board of health chairman or director; the welfare board chairman or director; the state chief engineer; and one member each from Western Maryland, Southern Maryland, Central Maryland including Baltimore City and the Eastern Shore.

All would be appointed by the Governor for four years, except that the sectional member first be named for one, two, three and four year terms.

Oyster Situation

The Senate once more took the lead in the oyster situation, this time in the direction of accepting Virginia's invitation to set up a joint commission to study oyster laws as embodied in the revised Maryland-Virginia compact.

President Byrnes (D-Balto. 5th), Majority Leader Sothoron (D-Prince George's) and Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) introduced joint resolution proposing the commission.

Gen. Fleming May Solve Rent Order Mystery Today

To Testify Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senators looked tonight to Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming to provide an answer tomorrow to the question, "Who almost raised the nation's rents 10 per cent?"

Gen. Fleming, head of the Office of Temporary Controls, tonight sent word to Sen. Tobey (R-NH), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee now taking testimony on rent control, that he would be ready to testify tomorrow afternoon. Fleming is returning from a trip to Iowa.

Tobey, thwarted when administration officials failed to appear today without explanation, had already gone gunning for the answer on his own.

Tobey Guns For Follin

I'm just wondering who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder," he told reporters. "Somebody did."

His particular quarry was James W. Follin, deputy administrator of OTC and in charge, because of Gen. Fleming's absence, when the OPA unit of OCT last night prepared and almost—but not quite—issued an order increasing rents by 10 per cent.

President Truman killed the order. The White House explained he did not favor a blanket increase now.

Convinced that neither OTC nor OPA had drafted the order on its own, Tobey tried for nearly an hour last night to locate Follin, but was informed by the latter's office that the OTC administrator was in the White House for a meeting "not on this matter."

Sen. Tobey said Follin's prepared testimony was reported almost ready to be delivered to the committee last night, but suddenly — and simultaneously with the White House squelching of the rent increase order—word came that neither Follin nor his statement would be on hand.

"Comedy Of Errors"

Sen. Tobey described the affair as a "comedy of errors" and observed: "Somebody is embarrassed, to put it mildly. The explanation should be interesting."

The rent order apparently emanated from OTC, into which OPA has been absorbed. OPA alerted reporters to what was coming, but it never came. Instead, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told re-

Property Loss High; Twisters Injure Scores

New Cold Wave Heads For Midwest

[By The Associated Press]

Winter's most violent tricks—tornadoes, high winds, blinding snow storms, sleet and freezing rains — swept over the nation Thursday, playing havoc with lives, property, communications and transportation.

At least 25 deaths, scores of injuries and property losses in the hundreds of thousands of dollars were reported from storm-torn areas.

Hardest hit were the Montgomery, Ala., and North Central Arkansas and Southern Missouri areas, swept by separate tornadoes.

However, heavy snow ranging up to 16 inches in Milwaukee, impeded transportation and disrupted communications in Central Lower Michigan, Southern Wisconsin, North and Central Illinois, Southern Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

A thick sheet of ice glazed highways in Northern Indiana and Northern Ohio.

Meanwhile, a cold air mass moved slowly toward the midwest from Canada, bringing a forecast of "considerable colder" by Friday night.

Tornadic Winds Kill Six

Tornadic winds which cut through three Alabama communities Thursday were reported to have killed at least eight persons and injured some 40 others. Buildings collapsed and homes were flattened as a twister ripped into the outskirts of Montgomery, lifted, and then struck again at Kent, 30 miles northeast. At least three negroes were killed at Kent. Tornadic winds also killed three persons and injured several others at Bethel, a small south Alabama community near Georgia.

At Macon, Ga., winds wrecked the main hanger at the Herbert Smart airport, along with 11 planes and several houses, and injured a dozen persons. The storm also struck a nearby area known as Seven Bridges, wrecking several tourist cabins and injuring a dozen persons. The Herbert Smart airport is about five miles south of Macon near Camp Wheeler, wartime infantry training center.

At least six persons were killed and 14 injured Wednesday night when tornadic winds cut through several communities in North Central Arkansas and Southern Missouri. Estimates of damage to buildings, communications and homes ran into several thousand dollars.

Iowa Towns Snowbound

The storm in Iowa caused the heaviest general snow fall in five years. Eighty four Southern Iowa towns were without telephone communication and all roads in the northern part of the state were blocked by snow ranging up to 18 inches.

A storm which stirred up dust in the Texas panhandle Wednesday caused brown snow to fall in Chicago and brown rain in Cincinnati.

In Indiana, high winds demolished a hangar and two planes at Greenwood, tore off a 200-foot radio tower at Hammond and destroyed a brick home at London. Lightning, which accompanied heavy rains in Central Illinois and Indiana, started fires and damaged property. An ice coating on utility wires and roads reached a thickness of one to two inches in the Fort Wayne, Ind., and Toledo, O., areas.

A blowing 12-inch snow that piled up six foot drifts virtually paralyzed transportation in Southern Wisconsin. All highways in the Milwaukee area were blocked and no trains were running south of Green Bay.

The center of the midwest storm causing the heavy snowfall passed over Chicago at midday Thursday and was expected to pass over Lower Michigan and move up into Canada over Lake Huron.

Besides the tornado victims, a Northwestern University student at Evanston, Ill., was swept into Lake

Carrier-Launched Plane Takes Adm. Richard Byrd Back To Little America

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Adm. Richard E. Byrd returned to Little America today aboard a big transport plane launched from the carrier Philippine Sea.

"Well, back home again," said the commander of the Navy's Antarctic expedition.

Byrd's plane and a companion transport, the first of that type to be launched from a carrier, took off successfully, made the 600-mile flight without incident and landed gently on skiis on a snowstrip which had been carefully prepared here.

The weather around the carrier, outside the great icepack, was favorable but a 20-to 25-knot wind here drifted snow from two to four feet high on the airstrip.

The planes made a risky jet-assisted takeoff from the Philippine Sea and a risky landing on the bumpy snowstrip. They landed at 5:25 a. m. Little America time, or 11:25 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, after a six-hour flight.

Byrd and the pilots and navigators said the takeoffs were perfect,

King, Discussing Secret Nazi Papers, Says U. S. Feared Warship Attacks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The failure of the German navy to make good use of its heavy ships was due to lack of the "sea-going habit," the wartime leaders of the United States Navy said today.

Discussing secret Nazi documents now on file here and in London, Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King disclosed a few United States secrets of the war.

The United States feared another raid by German warships such as that the Bismark and the Prince Eugene undertook in 1941, so a "heavy detachment" of ships was stationed at Argentia, Newfoundland, he told reporters.

The plan called for these ships to put to sea instantly in case German ships broke loose again and, under direction of the British forces, head the enemy off in the North Atlantic.

Details of Hitler's angry decision to scrap his "battleship admirals" and their high seas fleet in January, 1943, were contained in the German documents, which were made public here and in London tonight (some contents of these documents had been disclosed previously, however).

Hitler's secret order officially terminated the fighting life of every German warship larger than a destroyer more than two years before V-E Day.

The Nazi documents show a three-cornered fight in January 1943 among the air force, army and navy ended with Hitler berating his navy chiefs for leaving their ships "idle in the fjords, utterly useless like so much old iron."

He topped off a series of violent conferences with a flat order that

Communists Offer To Take Hand In GOP Family Housing Squabble

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Communist Party, which doesn't like to see anybody unhoused—not even a Republican, professed itself ready today to go to bat about the housing situation—even for a Republican.

Or, for that matter, a whole passel of Republicans.

What the GOP had to say about this, or rather, perhaps, what it more eloquently did not say, will be recounted in just a moment.

The minor-league political to-do started with a threat of the National Republican Club here to evict the New York county organization, which maintains its headquarters on the premises.

Nobody would say what prompted this family squabble, but it was reported to have stemmed from a disagreement between party leaders.

Anyhow, as county bigwigs pondered their plight, along came a telegram from S. W. Gersoon, New York state Communist Party legislative director, saying the GOP boys certainly had the sympathy of the Communists and that any request for "assistance in fighting the case would receive merited attention."

Then the telegram let go full blast.

"This eviction notice will have served a good purpose if it impresses upon your organization the tragic dilemma of the thousand already evicted, the 3,000 about to be evicted from housing projects (because their income exceeds the maximum permitted for occupants of low-rent public housing), the 220,000 homeless veterans and the millions who will suffer from a rent increase if OPA permits it."

Madrid Denies Franco Wounded By Army Colonel

Shot In Shoulder, Paris Paper Says

[By The Associated Press]

The Paris newspaper French Soir said yesterday (Thursday) that Generalissimo Francisco Franco had been wounded slightly in the left shoulder, but in Madrid a spokesman for the Spanish Foreign Ministry denied that the Generalissimo had been wounded or that an attempt had been made on his life.

According to the informant in Madrid, Franco has returned to the Spanish capital from a two-day hunting trip in Toledo province. The source added that the Generalissimo was enjoying perfect health and had not been the object of any attack.

French Soir's dispatch from Madrid said Franco was wounded slightly in the left shoulder on January 9 by a spanish army colonel who fired three shots as the Generalissimo walked down the steps of the palace.

The dispatch added that the colonel told police he "did not want to kill Franco" but had intended to fire into the air to protest against the exiling of Gen. Antonio Aranda Mata, Spanish monarchist leader.

With the dispatch French Soir carried a note saying the story was being "published with all the reserves it needs owing to the fact that it has been impossible to check it for obvious reasons."

Francis told the committee industry-wide bargaining would lead to a "cartel system in America," while Williams said it already had resulted in "labor cartelization."

Francis further urged that Congress outlaw all health and welfare funds, such as the five-cent a ton levy in the coal industry, which are negotiated through collective bargaining.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) objected, saying Francis was "asking us to go pretty far." He added that such a prohibition would outlaw some health insurance programs and other acceptable funds.

porters Mr. Truman has approved no 10 per cent boost.

Another high government official said privately that the President had killed the order as soon as it reached him, that it appears "quite definite there will be no across-the-board increase at this time."

Meanwhile a Senate Small Business Subcommittee recommended the abolition of rent control on new construction, while retaining ceilings on existing homes with adjustments where needed in individual cases.

Soaring Newsprint Prices Predicted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sen. Murray (D-Mont) predicted today "sky-high" prices for newsprint, with small users being denied a fair share of the short supply unless Congress acts to "break the bottlenecks."

Murray's views were outlined in a swan song report he made public today as retiring chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee. Sen. Wherry (R-Neb), who succeeds Murray as head of the group, has told reporters an investigation of the newsprint situation will be the committee's first project.

In a statement accompanying the report, Murray said "there is no such thing as an open newsprint market in which small papers may bid for and buy the paper they need."

He said a Federal Trade Commission study of conditions in 1939, made public as part of the committee's report, "shows that the prices of newsprint for part or all of the United States are set at private meetings in Canada, outside the jurisdiction of the anti-trust division (of the Justice Department) or the Federal Trade Commission."

W. Va. Teacher Pay Bill Is Unchanged

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP) — The House today made the SEA-sponsored teacher salary bill ready for passage without any attempt to change wage rates which would require nearly $11,000,000 a year of new revenues to finance.

The bill was held over on the amendment stage, however, to bring it up for passage early next week when all members are present. Some delegates indicated they would be absent tomorrow on tours of inspection to state institutions.

The teacher salary measure, approved without change by both the Senate and House Education Committees, would provide increases in basic salaries of from $30 to $60 a month, and in addition would double, to $6 a month, the added pay given for each year of experience up to certain maximums.

The House committee had sent the measure directly to the floor, but the Senate group referred it on to its Finance Committee.

Child Killed In Rooming House Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP) — A four-year-old negro girl was killed and four firemen were injured slightly today when a two-alarm fire badly damaged a four-story rooming house in the Baltimore waterfront section.

Ten persons narrowly escaped being trapped in the blazing structure, one 52-year-old woman dropping from a second floor window without injury.

Fire Department officials said the blaze started on the second floor, spread quickly through the upper stories and broke through the roof.

decommissioned every ship in the German navy larger than a destroyer.

The documents were released four years after the resignation of Grand Adm. Raeder, which swiftly followed Hitler's drastic order. Among them was an "essay" by Adm. Doenitz, the submarine chief who succeeded Raeder, presenting the first high-command picture of the six years of war. Raeder was sentenced to life imprisonment, Doenitz to 10 years, at the Nuernberg trials.

The documents stressed that Germany did not think she would have to fight England, at least not for about five years after the outbreak of war in 1939. A big German navy was planned but wouldn't be ready to attack the British until 1944 or 1945, Raeder said.

Communists Cut U. S. Evacuation Route In China

Delay In Withdrawal Of Americans Looms

PEIPING, Jan. 30 (AP) — Violent Communist attacks on the Peiping-Tientsin railway and freezing up of the Tangku and Chinwangtao harbors threatened tonight to delay the withdrawal of American personnel from China.

The Communists, in their most serious assault in weeks, burned stations and tore out rails a score of miles southeast of Peiping on the route to the sea.

The highway presumably remained open but it has been cut often in the past and is a poor road at best.

American members of the disbanding executive (truce) headquarters in Peiping completed a series of alternative plans for evacuation of nearly 2,000 Americans and dependents there.

No Difficulties Anticipated

Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., United States commissioner, declined to estimate the time necessary for the evacuation, saying "it will depend on the ships and air lifts made available."

Still awaiting explicit orders from Washington following the American decision to abandon China, Gillem said that despite the conflict he anticipated no difficulties in removing either the Americans in Peiping or those attached to 32 field teams scattered over North China and Manchuria.

"Extraordinary precautions appear unnecessary," Gillem said, explaining he believed the Communists would not actually attack Peiping or Tientsin before the Americans pulled out.

Headquarters personnel in Peiping includes 581 Army officers and men, 78 WACS, 134 civilian employes and about 1,000 wives and children.

(The number of United States Marines to be withdrawn from China is uncertain. Peiping dispatches mention 15,000; Washington estimates are 8,000. Withdrawal would leave the Navy's training school at Tsingtao and the military advisory group in Nanking as the only American forces in the country. The advisory group has not been approved by Congress, so its future is uncertain.)

Repairs To Be Attempted

Chinese government troops set out in an armored train to attempt to clear and restore the railway.

The Communists at truce headquarters said they would be ready to leave Peiping within a week, transferring their 70 men and women to Yenan and Hantan and their 13 representatives in Changchun to Harbin.

Under the agreement which established the headquarters last year, Gen. Marshall, now Secretary of State, pledged that the United States would return the Communists to their own territory if the truce effort failed.

Interrupting the CIO counsel's review of the case, the court told him:

"You are under the impression that I decided in favor of portal-to-portal pay. I held that judging from the time card x x x that these men, having gotten there early actually started to produce early. So far as the time spent going to the time clock, and walking to the bench, I ruled against the worker."

The court added, "This court is not going to be moved by any clamor about a threat to the public or anything else except the facts.

"The Supreme Court told me to find out how long the walking time was from the clock, not the time spent on the parking lot or not pillow-to-pillow as someone has said, but the time from the clock to the bench and then decide whether the doctrine of 'de minimis' applied."

(De minimis is the doctrine that the law does not concern itself with trifles).

Divorce Bill

Sothoron explained that this did not mean the state was backing down on the measure still pending in the House Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries Committee. This was passed by the Senate last week and would empower Maryland authorities to try Virginians caught violating oyster laws in the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay.

Of the measures introduced today, one by Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) would set up minimum wages and hours in Maryland in line with the federal statute.

His bill, referred to the Labor Committee, would limit the work day to eight hours, the week to 44 hours and the minimum wage to 65 cents an hour.

Among the other bills introduced, one was brought in by Sen. Bolton (D-Balto county) to provide that state workers would get legal holidays off or, if they worked, equivalent time off or time and a half time pay.

House approval was given a bill requiring that primary election candidates file by April 1 in presidential election years; by August 1 in gubernatorial election years, and March 1 in Baltimore City mayoral election years. The present law requires filing not less than 30 days before the primary in question.

Another house bill passed would extend from seven to 10 days the time which a candidate for election could petition for a recount.

and perfect landings were made with the skiis splashing snow like a seaplane landing in water and the taxiing planes then blowing up snow storms behind them.

Four other planes took off from the Philippine Sea within the next three hours to make the trip. Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, expedition task force commander here who set the time for the takeoffs, arranged for the planes to fly in pairs so that one could report the other's position if it were forced down.

The planes were big twin-engined ships which will be used for photographic flights from Little America.

The temperature at their arrival here was one degree below zero. The skies were a deep blue flecked by a few light clouds.

Byrd sailed from Norfolk, Va., aboard the Philippine Sea on January 2 to join his expedition. At that time advance units of the task force already were nearing the Little America base which Byrd set up on his first trip to the Antarctic in 1928.

The old Byrd camp was reached by a discovery party on January 16. They found it beneath 20 feet of snow while looking over a site for a big airfield, its ventilators sticking up from the snow. Underneath, the old camp had been perfectly preserved.

GOP comment upon receipt of the communication was brief.

Said an official: "The telegram requires no answer."

AFL Group Gives ITWF Invitation Sympathetic Nod

World Transit Union Seeks U. S. Affiliates

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30 (AP)—The AFL Executive Council turned a "sympathetic ear" today to invitations to United States railroaders, truck drivers and street car operators to join the British-born International Transport Workers Federation.

AFL President William Green told a news conference that while the 15-man council, in winter meeting here, could not directly pass on the invitations, it had thoroughly discussed the idea of AFL transport workers tying in with the British-dominated international group. The federation (ITWF) formerly was headed by Ernest Bevin, now Britain's foreign minister. Green said it probably was the world's largest union.

Up To Unions Themselves

Green said the unions involved would have to accept the invitation themselves, but expressed the view that AFL affiliates would act quickly so they could use their influence in combating the CIO's international activities in the World Federation of Trade Unions.

The AFL refused to go into the WFTU with the CIO and Soviet trade unions. It contends the CIO is an upstart labor organization in this country and that the WFTU will be dominated by the 27 million Soviet trade unionists who the AFL says are not "free" in the sense that American workers are.

Could Help Frame Policies

By joining in the International Transport Workers Federation, Green indicated he thought the AFL unions could take a hand in framing policies of that powerful world-wide labor organization, which up to now has refused to join the CIO-sponsored WFTU.

The unions invited include the 15 or more AFL-affiliates in the railroad industry, the Big Four brotherhoods on the railroads which—with the exception of A. F. Whitney's trainmen—usually lean toward AFL policy; Daniel J. Tobin's 800,000 teamsters, and the 100,000 members of the Amalgamated Street Electric Railray and Motor Coach Employes.

Tobin is an influential member of the executive council. All told, more than 2,000,000 workers would be affected by the deal.

Jews Released In Kidnap Probe

JERUSALEM, Jan. 30 (AP)—British soldiers and police rounded up several hundred Jews in hastily-erected screening pens in the Montefiore quarter of Jerusalem and combed through ancient Jewish tombs today in a relentless hunt for kidnapers who seized two English hostages, then set them free.

All the Jews were soon released.

The British rescinded an order for clamping martial law on three Jewish cities, Tel Aviv, Petah Tikvah and Ramat Gan, however, and tension eased somewhat throughout the Holy Land.

H. A. I. Collins, banker and retired army major, who was seized on Sunday, was released late last night. He spent 78 hours in a yet unlocated iron-barred cave where a doctor "stitched" his head wounds. A government hospital report said he was recovering from his ordeal. Previously the abductors released Judge Ralph Windham, who was taken from his court room on Monday.

Death Of Girl Is Called Accidental

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—City and state police investigators described as "accidental" tonight the death of Elizabeth Sattler after lie-detector examinations cleared of any blame in the case the last three persons known to have seen her prior to the fatal mishap.

City Detective Lt. L. B. Warren said both he and State Trooper R. G. Coen were of the opinion that the 28-year-old daughter of West Virginia's State Labor Commissioner, who was found in a dying condition early today at a street intersection near her home, was the victim of a hit-and-run accident.

Previously, Police Chief Harold B. Cornwell had said that indications were that Miss Sattler "was run over by an automobile and left unattended to die in the middle of the street. It is our opinion that this is a homicide."

Warren identified the three as Reginald Halstead, 24; Charles R. Parks, 28, and Miss Freda Sunderland, 22, all of Charleston, companions in an automobile drive that preceded the victim's death.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Treating an alcoholic, Paul, takes patience just like in fishing. What people have got to learn is that the alcoholic is a sick person, and that it takes patience and skill to correct the underlying causes of the disease."

ROGER: "Where I come from, Judge, all they ever do with alcoholics is throw them in jail, and keep them there 'til they sober up."

OLD JUDGE: "It's too bad, but that's what they do in a lot of places. And it's just a waste of the taxpayers' money. Medical and social scientists have been studying alcoholism very thoroughly the past few years, and they know now that most problem drinkers are suffering from some deep-rooted mental or physical condition that makes them incapable of dealing with life without some sort of crutch to lean on."

PAUL: "If it wasn't alcohol, I suppose it might be something worse, eh Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Exactly. But in more and more enlightened communities today they're providing special clinics for the study and treatment of alcoholics. So we're beginning to make some real scientific progress."

ROGER: "I'm glad to know about that, Judge. Sounds to me like the only intelligent way to tackle this problem."

Madrid Denies Franco Wounded By Army Colonel

Shot In Shoulder, Paris Paper Says

[By The Associated Press]

The Paris newspaper French Soir said yesterday (Thursday) that Generalissimo Francisco Franco had been wounded slightly in the left shoulder, but in Madrid a spokesman for the Spanish Foreign Ministry denied that the Generalissimo had been wounded or that an attempt had been made on his life.

According to the informant in Madrid, Franco has returned to the Spanish capital from a two-day hunting trip in Toledo province. The source added that the Generalissimo was enjoying perfect health and had not been the object of any attack.

French Soir's dispatch from Madrid said Franco was wounded slightly in the left shoulder on January 9 by a spanish army colonel who fired three shots as the Generalissimo walked down the steps of the palace.

The dispatch added that the colonel told police he "did not want to kill Franco" but had intended to fire into the air to protest against the exiling of Gen. Antonio Aranda Mata, Spanish monarchist leader.

With the dispatch French Soir carried a note saying the story was being "published with all the reserves it needs owing to the fact that it has been impossible to check it for obvious reasons."

Francis told the committee industry-wide bargaining would lead to a "cartel system in America," while Williams said it already had resulted in "labor cartelization."

Francis further urged that Congress outlaw all health and welfare funds, such as the five-cent a ton levy in the coal industry, which are negotiated through collective bargaining.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) objected, saying Francis was "asking us to go pretty far." He added that such a prohibition would outlaw some health insurance programs and other acceptable funds.

Another high government official said privately that the President had killed the order as soon as it reached him, that it appears "quite definite there will be no across-the-board increase at this time."

Meanwhile a Senate Small Business Subcommittee recommended the abolition of rent control on new construction, while retaining ceilings on existing homes with adjustments where needed in individual cases.

Soaring Newsprint Prices Predicted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sen. Murray (D-Mont) predicted today "sky-high" prices for newsprint, with small users being denied a fair share of the short supply unless Congress acts to "break the bottlenecks."

Murray's views were outlined in a swan song report he made public today as retiring chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee. Sen. Wherry (R-Neb), who succeeds Murray as head of the group, has told reporters an investigation of the newsprint situation will be the committee's first project.

In a statement accompanying the report, Murray said "there is no such thing as an open newsprint market in which small papers may bid for and buy the paper they need."

He said a Federal Trade Commission study of conditions in 1939, made public as part of the committee's report, "shows that the prices of newsprint for part or all of the United States are set at private meetings in Canada, outside the jurisdiction of the anti-trust division (of the Justice Department) or the Federal Trade Commission."

W. Va. Teacher Pay Bill Is Unchanged

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP) — The House today made the SEA-sponsored teacher salary bill ready for passage without any attempt to change wage rates which would require nearly $11,000,000 a year of new revenues to finance.

The bill was held over on the amendment stage, however, to bring it up for passage early next week when all members are present. Some delegates indicated they would be absent tomorrow on tours of inspection to state institutions.

The teacher salary measure, approved without change by both the Senate and House Education Committees, would provide increases in basic salaries of from $30 to $60 a month, and in addition would double, to $6 a month, the added pay given for each year of experience up to certain maximums.

The House committee had sent the measure directly to the floor, but the Senate group referred it on to its Finance Committee.

Child Killed In Rooming House Fire At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP) — A four-year-old negro girl was killed and four firemen were injured slightly today when a two-alarm fire badly damaged a four-story rooming house in the Baltimore waterfront section.

Ten persons narrowly escaped being trapped in the blazing structure, one 52-year-old woman dropping from a second floor window without injury.

Fire Department officials said the blaze started on the second floor, spread quickly through the upper stories and broke through the roof.

decommissioned every ship in the German navy larger than a destroyer.

The documents were released four years after the resignation of Grand Adm. Raeder, which swiftly followed Hitler's drastic order. Among them was an "essay" by Adm. Doenitz, the submarine chief who succeeded Raeder, presenting the first high-command picture of the six years of war. Raeder was sentenced to life imprisonment, Doenitz to 10 years, at the Nuernberg trials.

The documents stressed that Germany did not think she would have to fight England, at least not for about five years after the outbreak of war in 1939. A big German navy was planned but wouldn't be ready to attack the British until 1944 or 1945, Raeder said.

Communists Cut U. S. Evacuation Route In China

Delay In Withdrawal Of Americans Looms

PEIPING, Jan. 30 (AP) — Violent Communist attacks on the Peiping-Tientsin railway and freezing up of the Tangku and Chinwangtao harbors threatened tonight to delay the withdrawal of American personnel from China.

The Communists, in their most serious assault in weeks, burned stations and tore out rails a score of miles southeast of Peiping on the route to the sea.

The highway presumably remained open but it has been cut often in the past and is a poor road at best.

American members of the disbanding executive (truce) headquarters in Peiping completed a series of alternative plans for evacuation of nearly 2,000 Americans and dependents there.

No Difficulties Anticipated

Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., United States commissioner, declined to estimate the time necessary for the evacuation, saying "it will depend on the ships and air lifts made available."

Still awaiting explicit orders from Washington following the American decision to abandon China, Gillem said that despite the conflict he anticipated no difficulties in removing either the Americans in Peiping or those attached to 32 field teams scattered over North China and Manchuria.

"Extraordinary precautions appear unnecessary," Gillem said, explaining he believed the Communists would not actually attack Peiping or Tientsin before the Americans pulled out.

Headquarters personnel in Peiping includes 581 Army officers and men, 78 WACS, 134 civilian employes and about 1,000 wives and children.

(The number of United States Marines to be withdrawn from China is uncertain. Peiping dispatches mention 15,000; Washington estimates are 8,000. Withdrawal would leave the Navy's training school at Tsingtao and the military advisory group in Nanking as the only American forces in the country. The advisory group has not been approved by Congress, so its future is uncertain.)

Repairs To Be Attempted

Chinese government troops set out in an armored train to attempt to clear and restore the railway.

The Communists at truce headquarters said they would be ready to leave Peiping within a week, transferring their 70 men and women to Yenan and Hantan and their 13 representatives in Changchun to Harbin.

Under the agreement which established the headquarters last year, Gen. Marshall, now Secretary of State, pledged that the United States would return the Communists to their own territory if the truce effort failed.

Interrupting the CIO counsel's review of the case, the court told him:

"You are under the impression that I decided in favor of portal-to-portal pay. I held that judging from the time card x x x that these men, having gotten there early actually started to produce early. So far as the time spent going to the time clock, and walking to the bench, I ruled against the worker."

The court added, "This court is not going to be moved by any clamor about a threat to the public or anything else except the facts.

"The Supreme Court told me to find out how long the walking time was from the clock, not the time spent on the parking lot or not pillow-to-pillow as someone has said, but the time from the clock to the bench and then decide whether the doctrine of 'de minimis' applied."

(De minimis is the doctrine that the law does not concern itself with trifles).

Sothoron explained that this did not mean the state was backing down on the measure still pending in the House Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries Committee. This was passed by the Senate last week and would empower Maryland authorities to try Virginians caught violating oyster laws in the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay.

Of the measures introduced today, one by Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) would set up minimum wages and hours in Maryland in line with the federal statute.

His bill, referred to the Labor Committee, would limit the work day to eight hours, the week to 44 hours and the minimum wage to 65 cents an hour.

Among the other bills introduced, one was brought in by Sen. Bolton (D-Balto county) to provide that state workers would get legal holidays off or, if they worked, equivalent time off or time and a half time pay.

House approval was given a bill requiring that primary election candidates file by April 1 in presidential election years; by August 1 in gubernatorial election years, and March 1 in Baltimore City mayoral election years. The present law requires filing not less than 30 days before the primary in question.

Another house bill passed would extend from seven to 10 days the time which a candidate for election could petition for a recount.

and perfect landings were made with the skils splashing snow like a seaplane landing in water and the taxiing planes then blowing up snow storms behind them.

Four other planes took off from the Philippine Sea within the next three hours to make the trip. Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, expedition task force commander here who set the time for the takeoffs, arranged for the planes to fly in pairs so that one could report the other's position if it were forced down.

The planes were big twin-engined ships which will be used for photographic flights from Little America.

The temperature at their arrival here was one degree below zero. The skies were a deep blue flecked by a few light clouds.

Byrd sailed from Norfolk, Va., aboard the Philippine Sea on January 2 to join his expedition. At that time advance units of the task force already were nearing the Little America base which Byrd set up on his first trip to the Antarctic in 1928.

The old Byrd camp was reached by a discovery party on January 16. They found it beneath 20 feet of snow while looking over a site for a big airfield, its ventilators sticking up from the snow. Underneath, the old camp had been perfectly preserved.

The telegram added tartly that the eviction also perhaps would increase GOP efforts toward obtaining passage in the state legislature of bills calling for strengthening the state rent control law and lengthening stays of eviction notices from six to 12 months.

GOP comment upon receipt of the communication was brief.

Said an office secretary: "Amusing, indeed amusing."

World Transit Union Seeks U. S. Affiliates

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30 (AP)—The AFL Executive Council turned a "sympathetic ear" today to invitations to United States railroaders, truck drivers and street car operators to join the British-born International Transport Workers Federation.

AFL President William Green told a news conference that while the 15-man council, in winter meeting here, could not directly pass on the invitations, it had thoroughly discussed the idea of AFL transport workers tying in with the British-dominated international group. The federation (ITWF) formerly was headed by Ernest Bevin, now Britain's foreign minister. Green said it probably was the world's largest union.

Up To Unions Themselves

Green said the unions involved would have to accept the invitation themselves, but expressed the view that AFL affiliates would act quickly so they could use their influence in combating the CIO's international activities in the World Federation of Trade Unions.

The AFL refused to go into the WFTU with the CIO and Soviet trade unions. It contends the CIO is an upstart labor organization in this country and that the WFTU will be dominated by the 27 million Soviet trade unionists who the AFL says are not "free" in the sense that American workers are.

Could Help Frame Policies

By joining in the International Transport Workers Federation, Green indicated he thought the AFL unions could take a hand in framing policies of that powerful world-wide labor organization, which up to now has refused to join the CIO-sponsored WFTU.

The unions invited include the 15 or more AFL-affiliates in the railroad industry, the Big Four brotherhoods on the railroads which—with the exception of A. F. Whitney's trainmen—usually lean toward AFL policy; Daniel J. Tobin's 800,000 teamsters, and the 100,000 members of the Amalgamated Street Electric Railray and Motor Coach Employes.

Tobin is an influential member of the executive council. All told, more than 2,000,000 workers would be affected by the deal.

Edelman contended there are only two instances in Maryland history where homes have been picketed. They resulted from labor troubles at the Jacobs Brothers, Inc., clothing factory in Hancock in 1941, and the Comfort Spring Corporation in Baltimore.

Jews Released In Kidnap Probe

JERUSALEM, Jan. 30 (AP)—British soldiers and police rounded up several hundred Jews in hastily-erected screening pens in the Montefiore quarter of Jerusalem and combed through ancient Jewish tombs today in a relentless hunt for kidnapers who seized two English hostages, then set them free.

All the Jews were soon released.

The British rescinded an order for clamping martial law on three Jewish cities, Tel Aviv, Petah Tikvah and Ramat Gan, however, and tension eased somewhat throughout the Holy Land.

H. A. I. Collins, banker and retired army major, who was seized on Sunday, was released late last night. He spent 78 hours in a yet unlocated iron-barred cave where a doctor "stitched" his head wounds. A government hospital report said he was recovering from his ordeal. Previously the abductors released Judge Ralph Windham, who was taken from his court room on Monday.

Meanwhile, another Rudolph Valentino has popped up in Hollywood—Rudolph Valentino Freeman, so named because his mother was a fan of the late Great Screen Lover—who'll appear in Paramount's "Road to Rio." . . . Something for the Interesting If True Department: European film censors are again cutting all scenes showing meat or any food stuffs served too abundantly in Hollywood flickers. Afraid it's capitalistic propaganda, no doubt. . .Arthur Mahoney, recently appointed dance director at Jacob's Pillow, Vt., writes that he hasn't a pillow on which to lay his head, having recently been evicted, with Mrs. Mahoney (Thalia Mara) from his N. Y. apartment.

David Lilienthal, nominated for chairmanship of the Atomic Commission, will set up committees for discussions in foreign countries if his nomination is confirmed. . .The Government's national advisory committee for aeronautics is about to reveal that it is scientifically possible to fire one shot in Washington, D. C., and blow to smithereens Berlin or any equi-distant city. Something to do with a radar-guided missle directed by television. . . .One of our cafe playboys made the wise observation at Eddie Luckenbach's celebrity cocktail party (crashed by a hundred non-celebrities), "More dangerous than people who live in glass houses and throw stones are people who live in stone houses and throw glasses.'

Clears Away Any Lingering Smoke Over Use Of Atomics

Former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, in his comprehensive article in a national magazine, has cleared away any smoke which still may be lingering from the atomic bomb attacks on Japan. Mr. Stimson's article is a complete justification for the use of the bomb, as the obvious facts already had made clear. While it may not be incontrovertible, the evidence that the two bombs dropped on Japanese cities actually did end the war is highly convincing. On this basis alone, the results justified the means.

Without the bombs, Mr. Stimson discloses, it was the plan to begin the invasion of Japan in November, 1945, two months after the war actually ended. But the assault on the main Japanese islands was not scheduled until the Spring of 1946. In the natural order of things, and regardless of the ultimate success of these invasions, the cost in American lives would have been terrific. Mr. Stimson estimates a million casualties. Of course, there is one other school of thought—which Mr. Stimson's article does not mention. This school holds that the horror engendered by the atomic bombs cannot be wholly justified on the ground that it saved hundreds of thousands of American lives which would have been squandered in a land invasion.

Their opinions are based on the theory that the normal air attacks, which were being launched against Japan on an increasing scale, would have brought the enemy to his knees—without a direct land invasion prior to surrender.

While this is possible, it would have taken much longer, and the sum total of devastation, in lives and property destruction, wrought on the Japanese people certainly would have been no less. And the psychological effect of the new and terrifying weapon was sufficient to produce a prompt surrender—at vast savings in lives to us. There was this additional factor to be counted. The Germans were known to be ahead of us in the development of nuclear energy as a means of warfare. The fact that the Germans had been beaten before they could bring their weapons into use was no proof that the Japanese were not on the same road . The former secretary's sum-up tells the story:

"My chief purpose was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost in lives of the men in the armies I had helped to raise. In the light of the alternatives which on a fair estimate were open to us, I believe that no man in our position and subject to our responsibilities, holding in his hands a weapon of such possibilities for accomplishing this purpose and saving those lives, could have failed to use it and afterwards looked his countrymen in the face."

Crime, which costs the nation two billions annually, does not pay, but it is quite expensive.

Probe Of Professional Sports Not Congress Job

Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming has introduced a resolution calling for a broad investigation of professional sports, "with particular reference to attempts at bribery and other corruption." This would make a fascinating subject for inquiry but, in the present state of the world, there are other activities to which the Senate might more profitably devote its time.

Professional sports could undoubtedly stand some cleaning up. The gamblers will attempt to push their way into any game, where interest is high and there is big money to be made, unless a careful watch is kept. Nobody will ever put a stop to gambling in general, but enough curious details have emerged as a result of the attempted "fix" of a football game and of a boxing match to indicate that the situation among the professionals of the art is far from pretty.

But the job is already being handled by a number of highly competent agencies. In addition to the state and local police agencies and the FBI, many states maintain commissions to keep an eye on such sports as horse racing, boxing and wrestling. Professional baseball polices its own organization to make sure that no trace of corruption will creep in to mar the game. Other professional sports, while younger and not so highly organized, are doing the same sort of thing in self-protection.

It can hardly be said that these guardians of the public interest and sport's integrity are breaking down to an extent sufficient to warrant a senatorial investigation. The football scandal last December should be, and no doubt will be, followed by a general tightening up of precautions against gamblers and racketeers not only on the gridiron but in every other sport. The average follower of sport ought to be allowed a reasonable feeling that he is not being duped; he is by and large an honest fellow in his own dealings, and expects the same of the next man. No doubt it is naive to think that every sport could be completely on the up and up but it would seem that there is vast room for improvement. But it is not necessary for Congress to add this problem to a list that is already long.

Year Of Transition

It is entirely possible, as is now predicted in real estate circles, that housing will shift from a seller's to a buyer's market during 1947. Both the peak in prices and the worst in shortages seem to have been reached and passed. But the crucial question for both the public and the construction industry is how the transition is to be made.

The grave danger and one which the industry must consider with great seriousness is that it may price itself out of the huge market for housing which now exists. Both labor and material costs are very much higher than before the war. There is a possibility that the new houses will be out of reach of all but a small fraction of would-be home owners.

If this happens the seller's market may end before the industry has begun to satisfy the demand for residential housing. The construction industry may find itself running into a slump while there are still millions of families who need and want homes.

The alternative is to produce dwellings at prices which the mass of prospective home owners can afford. To do this, under present conditions, will be no easy task. It is doubtful whether it can be accomplished at all unless traditional methods and materials are tossed aside.

But the rewards of success in this field are glittering ones. The man who can show the way to produce an attractive, low cost home in quantity can both solves the critical housing shortage and assure the continuing prosperity of the construction industry and the continuing employment of its millions of workers for years to come.

TRUSS OR SURGERY IN HERNIA

HERNIA is a fairly common annoyance among working men and service personnel. Under ordinary circumstances the condition rarely leads to symptoms but its presence always constitutes a potential hazard that the individual will be incapacitated when he is most active, during the peak of his productive ability.

An inguinal rupture is most bothersome when lifting, straining, or during exertion, often causing a lump, or swelling, to appear in the groin. The peculiar muscle formation in this site makes the spot vulnerable, particularly in the male sex. Birth defects or injuries later in life may weaken the fibers so that the abdominal wall balloons out over this area. The protuberance obviously contains loops of bowels which are forced into the sac by anything which increases tension within the abdominal cavity. The bulge is inclined to disappear when lying down but recurs on standing, straining or coughing.

When a hernia develops suddenly, as on lifting a heavy object, immediate discomfort arises. Some feel a tearing sensation; in others, pain or aching is severe. As the disorder progresses the victim is aware of the abnormality and forms the habit of supporting the region with his hand if exercise is contemplated. A preacher or other orator may lean against a convenient corner of the pulpit or rostrum while speaking.

As a rule, no other distress is experienced. Sometimes, however, fluid or gas—in traveling thru the intestine—is partially obstructed and colic ensues. When a loop of the herniated colon is pinched off, a more definite blockage occurs and if repair is not prompt, strangulation may take place.

For the uncomplicated rupture, temporary help may be obtained by wearing a truss. This device is not curative, but, if properly fitted, protrusion will be prevented so that work is possible. Surgery, on the other hand, affords permanent relief.

Recent statistics reported by Pool on 345 patients with this type of hernia exemplify the value of the procedure. Only seven per cent were women. In the majority the right side was affected and most of the victims were in the middle or later decades of life. Twenty-three cases were emergencies because of strangulation. Recurrences were noted in less than 3 pere cent. The operation is usually not advised in the extremely obese or when the abdominal wall is damaged markedly. It is also difficult to obtain good results in a person with a chronic cough where healing is likely to be disturbed by the symptom.

Ten years ago many physicians were enthusiastic about the injection treatment but as time went by the method fell into disrepute because of the uncertainty of the outcome. In one series of 56 subjects, the defect returned in all but 11 and of these, 9 still had to wear a truss. When surgery was attempted after injections failed to cure, considerable difficulty was encountered; in 22 per cent, the procedure did not help at all. Had the patients been operated upon in the first place, the picture would have been entirely different.

HOARSENESS

F. G. writes: Why do I become hoarse in damp weather?

REPLY

Frogs like moisture. Excess humidity may cause the vocal cords to swell in the same way that the tissues about a joint become painful in such an environment.

RESULT OF INFECTION

G. A. writes: What is a thickened eardrum?

REPLY

In the presence of ear infection, the membrane may become thickened as it heals.

DEEP HEAT

R. V. writes: Will too many diathermy treatments dry out the bones?

REPLY

Not as long as the structures are receiving their normal supply of blood. Living tissues do not dry out.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

It seems the detectives in the movies are getting tougher and tougher. The movies are no longer made on celluloid. I've heard they're running them off on old sheet metal so the dialogue won't eat through the film. Of course, these films all follow a similar pattern.

The story opens in the office of Sam "I Ain't Packin' a Rod Tonight" Barlow, private investigator, man about manslaughters, and known in the trade as "Rocket Buster Buster."

Barlow enters the office, filing his knuckles, and says "You're wastin' your time, instructor," to the cop hanging outside the window hoping to overhear Barlow mention the killer's name.

He buzzes for his secretary and, while waiting, gulps four quick jiggers of 90 proof sulphuric acid with cyanide for a chaser.

Secretary come in and says "Hello, Sam, got a cigarette?"

Just then Peter Lorre runs in screaming, "Hide me hide me".

Barlow whips out his .45 and it speaks three times. Each time it speaks it says "Sydney Greenstreet."

Barlow jumps down the 12 flights of stairs, runs back up again to get a cigarette, which he dangles from his lower lip, dashes over to Greenstreet's house and is just in time to prevent Sydney from torturing Deborah mercilessly by sitting on her head. He solves the crime and saves the $47,000,000 collar button belonging to some guy who got knocked off in the first reel.

All of which goes to prove that things are tough all over and even Bogart has to answer the Bacall of the wild.

AN ANTIDOTE FOR COMMUNISM

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Doesn't Agree That Housing Program Has Broken Down; Stresses His "Two Big Jobs;" Long-Distance Distribution Of TVA Power Hot Potato

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—President Truman still doesn't seem to realize that the real heart was taken out of the veterans housing program when he pushed Wilson Wyatt to the sidelines. In fact he became quite provoked at American Veterans Committee chairman Charles Bolte last week when the question of housing came up.

Truman had asked the AVC leader what veterans are currently talking about and got the answer that the veterans were disillusioned, particularly about the housing program, with 4,000,000 veterans living doubled up because of the housing shortage. Bolte added they are pretty disillusioned about the entire breakdown. Angrily, Truman interrupted.

"It hasn't broken down," he said. "It's not fair to say that it has. We have to carry it out in a free market. I did everything I could to keep prices down. It wasn't I who raised the prices. It was the Congress."

Later in the discussion Truman gave his visitors a clue that he might not want to remain in the White House after 1948.

"I have only two big jobs," he said. "The first is to keep the world peaceful, the second is to get the productive machinery of this country running smoothly."

Will TVA Light Brooklyn?

Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington made a startling prediction to President Truman during an off-the-record White House conference last week when he indicated that electric power from the Tennessee Valley might be used in Washington, Philadelphia or New York.

Magnuson, who urges more Government power projects, especially in the Northwest, told Truman that electric energy from these projects soon would be distributed all over the country.

"The ability to transmit hydroelectric power scientifically and cheaply at great distances is fast becoming a reality," said the Washington Senator. "It's a question of progress that has to be met and we should begin laying the groundwork now for our battles in Congress," he added.

Chief reason for the limiting of power distribution by sections, such as the Tennessee Valley, Magnuson explained, was the cost factor. At present, the construction of booster stations to transmit power from a project like TVA is expensive and makes the cost of long-range transmission prohibitive.

"However, we are in a position where we can lick this problem through scientific improvements in the booster system," Magnuson continued. "It won't be very long until we are able to distribute power over great distances at relatively cheap rates to consumers.

"In other words, hydroelectric power is fast growing out of its sectional pants and we've got to begin thinking of legislating some national trousers for it."

"You don't have to sell me on that," replied Truman. "I am aware that this problem of power distribution is one of the most vital problems we have got to face. It would only be false economy for us to overlook the potentialities of our hydroelectric resources.

"We have only begun to harness them for the good of the whole country," the President added.

Both men agreed it was a Federal job; that the construction of additional dams and booster networks was too big and costly for private industry. However, they also agreed that power trust opposition in Congress would make the tumultuous battle over the TVA look like a circus sideshow.

"Well, I am convinced that we can triple or quadruple the distance of power transmission from those public hydroelectric projects at no greater cost to Government," Magnuson told the President. "Eventually it will mean cheap power for consumers everywhere, not just in certain sections and I am sure a great many members of Congress will support such a program."

Truman promised to back Magnuson's fight for appropriations but it remains to be seen if he is still of that opinion when this hot potato is dropped on Congress amid screams of "socialism" by Eastern Republicans.

Pappy O'Daniel Says No

It may never happen again but almost complete unity was achieved by Senate Democrats when the Senate voted on the creation of the special War Investigating Committee. Of the 42 Democrats on hand 41 voted against the special committee. Texas' "pass the biscuits" Pappy O'Daniel was the lone maverick.

No one has yet figured out any reason for O'Daniel's perversity other than pure cussedness. Several of his colleagues knew in advance he would bolt and Senators Byrd of Virginia, Russell of Georgia, Maybank of South Carolina, did their best to dissuade him.

Failing, they asked him to accept a pair with Senator Overton of Louisiana who had been called home by family illness. Pappy, however, refused.

During the vote Republican Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas took the floor to announce that he has a general pairing with Senator Wagner of New York and that he felt bound to honor it, but O'Daniel was not willing to reconsider and accept a pair with Overton.

After Pappy had voted, and while he still had time to change, Senators Hatch of New Mexico, Eastland of Mississippi and Ellender of Louisiana remonstrated with him. Behind O'Daniel stood minority secretary Les Biffle jabbing him in the back. A smile frozen on his face, the Texan kept saying no.

Capital Chaff

Henry Wallace will visit France and England in April. He will not go to Moscow. . . .Motion picture star Jack Carson, who pays taxes in the big brackets, has telegraphed President Truman urging that Congress cut taxes for the little fellow, not the big guy. . . .In February the Kaiser-Frazer Auto Company will show its first profit since it started making cars. . . .

Most important Congressional battle of the next two years will be between those who want the big companies to get bigger and those who favor old-fashioned American competition since the Federal courts have been upholding the anti-trust laws. Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois has introduced a bill to exempt newsgathering agencies like the Associated Press from the anti-trust laws, while Senator Reed of Kansas would exempt the railroads.

Are Workingmen Entitled To Bill Of Rights; Issue Up To Country

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Is a workingman entitled to a "bill of rights?" Something that protects him as an individual from the will of the majority. Rights that he can assert against everybody, just because he is a human being.

As a citizen of the United States, and of the state of his residence, he has such rights. He can assert them against Congress, against the President, against the Army, against petty tyrants on the police force giving him the "works."

He has such rights as a citizen. Does he have them as a workingman? As the Wagner Act has worked out these past twelve years; as it has been applied and extended by the National Labor Relations Board and by the courts of the land, his rights as an individual workingman, and not as a member of a group (to which he may or may not wish to belong) are visible only under a microscope.

Worker Loses His Rights

When a union is once selected as the bargaining representative of a majority of the workers in either a craft unit, plant unit, or industry-wide unit, the individual working man (whether he belongs or not) immediately loses every right he formerly had to have any voice whatever in deciding his (a) wages, (b) the hours he works, (c) every condition of his employment, including (d) the settlement of any grievance he may have.

If the majority and the boss agree to it, he must also (e) join the union, (f) continue as a member, (g) pay dues, (h) have his dues taken from his pay through the check-off, (i) be assessed to support strikes either in his own factory or in some distant plant, (j) be assessed to help elect to public office candidates or to support a political party he opposes. He cannot even see the books of accounts if the union decides to keep them hidden.

He many not want to belong to this union; he may want to join a different union; he may not want to strike; he may not want to support other strikers; he may want to do more, work harder and longer to earn more pay and a promotion.

After a union becomes the bargaining agent, this individual American workingman has just one right under the Wagner Act. He can "present a grievance" to his employer. But he cannot settle the grievance. That will be done by some one else, whether he likes it or not.

If he rebels against any decision of the union, and the union has a closed shop, or a union shop, or maintenance of membership, the union can demand that he be fired from his job, and the boss has to fire him. His bread and butter may be taken from him, but to whom can he appeal? To the courts? Oh, no, the courts do not protect him. They insist that he be fired!

If he belongs to a closed shop union which has industry-wide bargaining power, and he is fired, his firing goes way beyond his employer. No other employer in the whole industry (e.g. coal mining) can hire him. He is black-listed throughout the land. He must lose the skill of a lifetime, seek some new job somewhere. Perhaps be obliged to sell his home and move to distant parts.

Comes Under Majority Rule

All this is defended under the principle of "majority rule," even though that majority may be dominated by Communists, ex-convicts or embezzlers, or has won its power through violence or fraud.

Now majority rule is a useful and respected principle. But majority rule in electing a President of the United States or in the vastly more important business of earning a living are as different as night and day. As a citizen he has a bill of rights, as a workingman he has none. As a citizen there is a law superior to the majority. It is the Constitution with all its checks and balances to prevent the exercise of arbitrary power over him; to safeguard him in his fundamental rights as a human being.

The question before Congress and the country today is whether a workingman is entitled to a bill of rights. Or, shall I say, the question is whether Congress ever had the constitutional right to deprive him of a bill of rights in earning his daily bread.

Armed Forces Groups Should Formulate Defense Plan For U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Congress hasn't quite cleared up in its own mind just what the various committees are to do. The streamlining reorganization act achieved a good many reforms, but theory and actual working conditions are likely to conflict and only experience and evolution will furnish the right answer.

Thus, in the House of Representatives, the foreign affairs committee has just voted to make a study of State Department matters and so has the committee on expenditures in governmental agencies.

On the surface it would appear that this is a duplication of effort or perhaps a rivalry of interest between the two committees. Also the House armed services committee now is asking the secretary of state to testify as to the nature of foreign policies so that commitments can be examined in relation to the military side and appropriations needed.

Strictly speaking, the same reasoning that led to the merging of the committees on military affairs and naval affairs in both houses would seem to argue in favor of a consolidation of the foreign affairs committee and the armed services committee.

It could be argued quite logically that these subjects belong together and that one is interdependent on the other. For, after all, armies and navies and air forces are not needed to preserve domestic tranquility and have their uses only in foreign affairs when wars are threatened or break out.

Congress Groups Concern Limited

So far as the House or Senate foreign affairs committee is concerned, these units have no business except to help shape national policy in relation to other nations. What is done there has a bearing on the size of the armed services and the nature of the defense program that is to be established, but it is not up to the Senate or House committees to formulate a defense plan.

Congress made a serious mistake when it merged the Army and Navy committees because each branch of the armed services is important enough to have its own affairs watched by a committee of each house. But now that the armed services committee has been set up, it is natural that the cry for merger in other directions should be taken up.

Actually the House committee on foreign affairs has a duty to survey State Department policies and personnel and to give its judgment to the appropriations committee. As for the committee on expenditures, it has a right to inquire into methods of spending and handling of purchases, rentals of property and management of personnel matters abroad and auditing of accounts, but not to examine the broad policies of the secretary of state or his assistants in what is known as international relations or foreign policy.

As for the house and senate armed services committees, they may inquire concerning the nature of foreign policy and commitments but this is a thin reed on which to base a defense plan. What is said by the present secretary of state may or may not be pertinent in a year or so. The only way the armed services should function is to assume every hypothesis of war that is plausible and to develop defense plans accordingly.

It would be tragic, indeed, if the armed services committees after hearing Secretary Marshall in executive session, were to launch a program of expansion or reduction of the defense establishment. Undue significance internationally would be attached to such a session.

Foundation Of Defense Plan

Conversely, the armed services committees would be better off if they formulated a defense plan on the broad assumption that the United States, as a member of the U. N., must be prepared, for instance, to fight a war against Russia irrespective of what soothing words may come from Moscow or any other capital of the world. It is the business of military men to draw up hypothetical plans all the time and to prepare for any serious contingency. With a totalitarian government in power in Moscow, the peace of the world will be continuously unstable and the words of no foreign secretary or secretary of state should be taken in place of the advice of military and naval aerial experts as to what the United States needs to ward off attack, especially in this atomic age.

The U. S. has been caught napping before by ignoring this sort of thing. Whenever anybody in Congress or in the armed services mentioned the need for fortifying Guam, for example, prior to 1941, there was a hue and cry about disturbing relations with Japan. If the armed services committees are going to get instead of sticking to strictly militangled up in diplomacy once more, tary preparations, the defense of the U. S. may suffer accordingly and the U. S. may be caught with another Pearl Harbor attack some day.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Inward Peace

If people would create more inward peace, within their minds and hearts, they would be sure of that outward peace for which the whole world craves. All great movements have their inception within the individual. If men's hearts were right, nations would be right, and they would not have to worry about enemies about their borders.

Restlessness is always within ourselves. I believe that selfishness is at the core of it all. We drug our minds with evil medicine. We starve the heart, and clutter up our minds with false premises. We put a fence about our little world, eliminating the horizons of hope and of faith.

We cannot long separate ourselves from our kind and expect solace and peace of mind. We were meant to circulate, to spread out, to touch every chord of human feeling, and to be one with the world. Each one of us is a thread in the great fabric of human thought and human achievement.

The great enemy of this inward peace is worry—worry over things that rarely happen, and when they do happen, are rarely as serious as imagined. We need to keep armed with a simple courageous faith. People with religious convictions have more inward peace than those who do not have them. Even the savage has his beliefs to give him his kind of peace and assurance.

Our thoughts control our actions. They largely influence our health, as well. That is why it is important for us to think happy, pleasant thoughts, to be content with our lot, no matter what it may be, and strive to better it by right thinking and doing We can marvelously reshape our lives by willing to do so, with what we have in equipment. Mere possessions do not bring peace and contentment. It is in ourselves that we are conquerors!

We are always happiest after a day of good deeds in which someone else has shared. Such a day gives to us that inward peace, so essential to spiritual richness. John Adams was one of the most useful, and inspiring, of all the early American statesmen. His last words were: "This is the last of earth, and I am content."

Protected, 1947, by The George Matthew Adams Service.

My lawyer sent me a couple of neckties from a Park Avenue shop for Christmas. They were hand-painted and must have set him back twenty bucks. They looked as if they had been frightened by Technicolor—"Yule-be-sorry" ties

This afternoon, I finally got around to exchanging them. When I got to the shop, there were half a dozen other fellows with the same idea ahead of me. A fluttery clerk bowed me into a chair, handed me a copy of "Town and Country," and hoped I didn't mind waiting a few minutes.

Billy Rose

I started reading a piece about winter sports at Lake Placid. Suddenly the type went out of focus. It started snowing in the shop. A little fat gentleman in a red hat came from behind one of the counters. I couldn't see much of his face, but there was a nose like a cherry sticking out of a nest of white whiskers.

"What can I do for you?" he asked.

"I want to exchange some neckties," I said, "Santa Claus must have gotten me mixed up with Salvadore Dali."

"So you don't like what Santa Claus brought you?" he roared.

Why are you taking it so big?" I asked.

"Because I'm Santa Claus," said the little fat man.

G'wman, you old faker," I said. "Take that suit back to the Brooks Costume Company. I don't believe in Santa Claus."

"Well, I don't believe in people," he snapped.

He had me there. "Exchanges, exchanges, exchanges," he went on. "Nobody is satisfied with what he gets nowadays. It gets worse every year. I'm quitting. If anybody wants a cold-water flat near the North Pole, it's for rent cheap."

"What's biting you, Santa?" I asked. "Getting old?"

He glared. "I'm as good as ever," he thundered. "Trouble is, people aren't. I can remember when little girls were satisfied with a copy of 'The Bobbsey Twins.' Now they want 'Forever Amber.'"

"Take it easy, old-timer," I soothed. "People may be a little mixed up these days, but you still rate number one with them.' '

"Zatso!" he snarled. "Then why did they fire ack-ack at my reindeer over Yugoslavia? Why does the Teamsters' Union call me a scab and insist on a stand-by driver?"

"Times change," I said. "The world progresses."

"Progress, my eye!" he yelled. "Look at those Quonset huts. How can I get to a kid in a house without a chimney?"

I made a bum joke. "Christmas is going to be an awful frost without you," I said.

"Save the sweet talk," said Santa. "A man's entitled to a little peace in his old age. In England last month, a fello wnamed Churchill threw a brick at me because he didn't like the color of my suit."

He shook his head dolefully and snowflakes floated gently to the carpet.

"It can't be all bad," I argued. "Somebody must have been happy with what he got."

"The Republicans were all smiles for a few days," said Santa. "What worries me is 1948. About fifteen of them want the same present."

"Won't you try it just one more year?" I pleaded.

"What's the use?" said Claus. "A man can stand only so much. Last year I gave a fellow from Missouri the whole country. Now I understand he wants to trade it in for a piano."

"Well, you've got to eat," I said. "What are you going to do?"

"I thought I might go into the show business," said Santa. "Monty Woolley did all right. But enough of this chitchat. Go ahead and change your ties. I want to get out of here."

The fluttery clerk shook me awake. "It's your turn," he said. "Second counter on the left."

"Never mind," I told him. "I've reconsidered."

Clears Away Any Lingering Smoke Over Use Of Atomics

Former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, in his comprehensive article in a national magazine, has cleared away any smoke which still may be lingering from the atomic bomb attacks on Japan. Mr. Stimson's article is a complete justification for the use of the bomb, as the obvious facts already had made clear. While it may not be incontrovertible, the evidence that the two bombs dropped on Japanese cities actually did end the war is highly convincing. On this basis alone, the results justified the means.

Without the bombs, Mr. Stimson discloses, it was the plan to begin the invasion of Japan in November, 1945, two months after the war actually ended. But the assault on the main Japanese islands was not scheduled until the Spring of 1946. In the natural order of things, and regardless of the ultimate success of these invasions, the cost in American lives would have been terrific. Mr. Stimson estimates a million casualties. Of course, there is one other school of thought—which Mr. Stimson's article does not mention. This school holds that the horror engendered by the atomic bombs cannot be wholly justified on the ground that it saved hundreds of thousands of American lives which would have been squandered in a land invasion.

Their opinions are based on the theory that the normal air attacks, which were being launched against Japan on an increasing scale, would have brought the enemy to his knees—without a direct land invasion prior to surrender.

While this is possible, it would have taken much longer, and the sum total of devastation, in lives and property destruction, wrought on the Japanese people certainly would have been no less. And the psychological effect of the new and terrifying weapon was sufficient to produce a prompt surrender—at vast savings in lives to us. There was this additional factor to be counted. The Germans were known to be ahead of us in the development of nuclear energy as a means of warfare. The fact that the Germans had been beaten before they could bring their weapons into use was no proof that the Japanese were not on the same road . The former secretary's sum-up tells the story:

"My chief purpose was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost in lives of the men in the armies I had helped to raise. In the light of the alternatives which on a fair estimate were open to us, I believe that no man in our position and subject to our responsibilities, holding in his hands a weapon of such possibilities for accomplishing this purpose and saving those lives, could have failed to use it and afterwards looked his countrymen in the face."

Crime, which costs the nation two billions annually, does not pay, but it is quite expensive.

Probe Of Professional Sports Not Congress Job

Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming has introduced a resolution calling for a broad investigation of professional sports, "with particular reference to attempts at bribery and other corruption." This would make a fascinating subject for inquiry but, in the present state of the world, there are other activities to which the Senate might more profitably devote its time.

Professional sports could undoubtedly stand some cleaning up. The gamblers will attempt to push their way into any game, where interest is high and there is big money to be made, unless a careful watch is kept. Nobody will ever put a stop to gambling in general, but enough curious details have emerged as a result of the attempted "fix" of a football game and of a boxing match to indicate that the situation among the professionals of the art is far from pretty.

But the job is already being handled by a number of highly competent agencies. In addition to the state and local police agencies and the FBI, many states maintain commissions to keep an eye on such sports as horse racing, boxing and wrestling. Professional baseball polices its own organization to make sure that no trace of corruption will creep in to mar the game. Other professional sports, while younger and not so highly organized, are doing the same sort of thing in self-protection.

It can hardly be said that these guardians of the public interest and sport's integrity are breaking down to an extent sufficient to warrant a senatorial investigation. The football scandal last December should be, and no doubt will be, followed by a general tightening up of precautions against gamblers and racketeers not only on the gridiron but in every other sport. The average follower of sport ought to be allowed a reasonable feeling that he is not being duped; he is by and large an honest fellow in his own dealings, and expects the same of the next man. No doubt it is naive to think that every sport could be completely on the up and up but it would seem that there is vast room for improvement. But it is not necessary for Congress to add this problem to a list that is already long.

Year Of Transition

It is entirely possible, as is now predicted in real estate circles, that housing will shift from a seller's to a buyer's market during 1947. Both the peak in prices and the worst in shortages seem to have been reached and passed. But the crucial question for both the public and the construction industry is how the transition is to be made.

The grave danger and one which the industry must consider with great seriousness is that it may price itself out of the huge market for housing which now exists. Both labor and material costs are very much higher than before the war. There is a possibility that the new houses will be out of reach of all but a small fraction of would-be home owners.

If this happens the seller's market may end before the industry has begun to satisfy the demand for residential housing. The construction industry may find itself running into a slump while there are still millions of families who need and want homes.

The alternative is to produce dwellings at prices which the mass of prospective home owners can afford. To do this, under present conditions, will be no easy task. It is doubtful whether it can be accomplished at all unless traditional methods and materials are tossed aside.

But the rewards of success in this field are glittering ones. The man who can show the way to produce an attractive, low cost home in quantity can both solves the critical housing shortage and assure the continuing prosperity of the construction industry and the continuing employment of its millions of workers for years to come.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

TRUSS OR SURGERY IN HERNIA

HERNIA is a fairly common annoyance among working men and service personnel. Under ordinary circumstances the condition rarely leads to symptoms but its presence always constitutes a potential hazard that the individual will be incapacitated when he is most active, during the peak of his productive ability.

An inguinal rupture is most bothersome when lifting, straining, or during exertion, often causing a lump, or swelling, to appear in the groin. The peculiar muscle formation in this site makes the spot vulnearable, particularly in the male sex. Birth defects or injuries later in life may weaken the fibers so that the abdominal wall balloons out over this area. The protuberance obviously contains loops of bowels which are forced into the sac by anything which increases tension within the abdominal cavity. The bulge is inclined to disappear when lying down but recurs on standing, straining or coughing.

When a hernia develops suddenly, as on lifting a heavy object, immediate discomfort arises. Some feel a tearing sensation; in others, pain or aching is severe. As the disorder progresses the victim is aware of the abnormality and forms the habit of supporting the region with his hand if exercise is contemplated. A preacher or other orator may lean against a convenient corner of the pulpit or rostrum while speaking.

As a rule, no other distress is experienced. Sometimes, however, fluid or gas—in traveling thru the intestine—is partially obstructed and colic ensues. When a loop of the herniated colon is pinched off, a more definite blockage occurs and if repair is not prompt, strangulation may take place.

For the uncomplicated rupture, temporary help may be obtained by wearing a truss. This device is not curative, but, if properly fitted, protrusion will be prevented so that work is possible. Surgery, on the other hand, affords permanent relief.

Recent statistics reported by Pool on 345 patients with this type of hernia exemplify the value of the procedure. Only seven per cent were women. In the majority the right side was affected and most of the victims were in the middle or later decades of life. Twenty-three cases were emergencies because of strangulation. Recurrences were noted in less than 3 pere cent. The operation is usually not advised in the extremely obese or when the abdominal wall is damaged markedly. It is also difficult to obtain good results in a person with a chronic cough where healing is likely to be disturbed by the symptom.

Ten years ago many physicians were enthusiastic about the injection treatment but as time went by the method fell into disrepute because of the uncertainty of the outcome. In one series of 56 subjects, the defect returned in all but 11 and of these, 9 still had to wear a truss. When surgery was attempted after injections failed to cure, considerable difficulty was encountered; in 22 per cent, the procedure did not help at all. Had the patients been operated upon in the first place, the picture would have been entirely different.

Frogs like moisture. Excess humidity may cause the vocal cords to swell in the same way that the tissues about a joint become painful in such an environment.

Not as long as the structures are receiving their normal supply of blood. Living tissues do not dry out.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

It seems the detectives in the movies are getting tougher and tougher. The movies are no longer made on celluloid. I've heard they're running them off on old sheet metal so the dialogue won't eat through the film. Of course, these films all follow a similar pattern.

The story opens in the office of Sam "I Ain't Packin' a Rod Tonight" Barlow, private investigator, man about manslaughters, and known in the trade as "Rocket Buster Buster."

Barlow enters the office, filing his knuckles, and says "You're wastin' your time, instructor," to the cop hanging outside the window hoping to overhear Barlow mention the killer's name.

He buzzes for his secretary and, while waiting, gulps four quick jiggers of 90 proof sulphuric acid with cyanide for a chaser.

Secretary come in and says "Hello, Sam, got a cigarette?"

Just then Peter Lorre runs in screaming, "Hide me hide me".

Barlow whips out his .45 and it speaks three times. Each time it speaks it says "Sydney Greenstreet."

Barlow jumps down the 12 flights of stairs, runs back up again to get a cigarette, which he dangles from his lower lip, dashes over to Greenstreet's house and is just in time to prevent Sydney from torturing Deborah mercilessly by sitting on her head. He solves the crime and saves the $47,000,000 collar button belonging to some guy who got knocked off in the first reel.

All of which goes to prove that things are tough all over and even Bogart has to answer the Bacall of the wild.

AN ANTIDOTE FOR COMMUNISM

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Doesn't Agree That Housing Program Has Broken Down; Stresses His "Two Big Jobs;" Long-Distance Distribution Of TVA Power Hot Potato

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—President Truman still doesn't seem to realize that the real heart was taken out of the veterans housing program when he pushed Wilson Wyatt to the sidelines. In fact he became quite provoked at American Veterans Committee chairman Charles Bolte last week when the question of housing came up.

Truman had asked the AVC leader what veterans are currently talking about and got the answer that the veterans were disillusioned, particularly about the housing program, with 4,000,000 veterans living doubled up because of the housing shortage. Bolte added they are pretty disillusioned about the entire breakdown. Angrily, Truman interrupted.

"It hasn't broken down," he said. "It's not fair to say that it has. We have to carry it out in a free market. I did everything I could to keep prices down. It wasn't I who raised the prices. It was the Congress."

Later in the discussion Truman gave his visitors a clue that he might not want to remain in the White House after 1948.

"I have only two big jobs," he said. "The first is to keep the world peaceful, the second is to get the productive machinery of this country running smoothly."

Will TVA Light Brooklyn?

Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington made a startling prediction to President Truman during an off-the-record White House conference last week when he indicated that electric power from the Tennessee Valley might be used in Washington, Philadelphia or New York.

Magnuson, who urges more Government power projects, especially in the Northwest, told Truman that electric energy from these projects soon would be distributed all over the country.

"The ability to transmit hydroelectric power scientifically and cheaply at great distances is fast becoming a reality," said the Washington Senator. "It's a question of progress that has to be met and we should begin laying the groundwork now for our battles in Congress," he added.

Chief reason for the limiting of power distribution by sections, such as the Tennessee Valley, Magnuson explained, was the cost factor. At present, the construction of booster stations to transmit power from a project like TVA is expensive and makes the cost of long-range transmission prohibitive.

"However, we are in a position where we can lick this problem through scientific improvements in the booster system," Magnuson continued. "It won't be very long until we are able to distribute power over great distances at relatively cheap rates to consumers.

"In other words, hydroelectric power is fast growing out of its sectional pants and we've got to begin thinking of legislating some national trousers for it."

"You don't have to sell me on that," replied Truman. "I am aware that this problem of power distribution is one of the most vital problems we have got to face. It would only be false economy for us to overlook the potentialities of our hydroelectric resources.

"We have only begun to harness them for the good of the whole country," the President added.

Both men agreed it was a Federal job; that the construction of additional dams and booster networks was too big and costly for private industry. However, they also agreed that power trust opposition in Congress would make the tumultuous battle over the TVA look like a circus sideshow.

"Well, I am convinced that we can triple or quadruple the distance of power transmission from those public hydroelectric projects at no greater cost to Government," Magnuson told the President. "Eventually it will mean cheap power for consumers everywhere, not just in certain sections and I am sure a great many members of Congress will support such a program."

Truman promised to back Magnuson's fight for appropriations but it remains to be seen if he is still of that opinion when this hot potato is dropped on Congress amid screams of "socialism" by Eastern Republicans.

Pappy O'Daniel Says No

It may never happen again but almost complete unity was achieved by Senate Democrats when the Senate voted on the creation of the special War Investigating Committee. Of the 42 Democrats on hand 41 voted against the special committee. Texas' "pass the biscuits" Pappy O'Daniel was the lone maverick.

No one has yet figured out any reason for O'Daniel's perversity other than pure cussedness. Several of his colleagues knew in advance he would bolt and Senators Byrd of Virginia, Russell of Georgia, Maybank of South Carolina, did their best to dissuade him.

Failing, they asked him to accept a pair with Senator Overton of Louisiana who had been called home by family illness. Pappy, however, refused.

During the vote Republican Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas took the floor to announce that he has a general pairing with Senator Wagner of New York and that he felt bound to honor it, but O'Daniel was not willing to reconsider and accept a pair with Overton.

After Pappy had voted, and while he still had time to change, Senators Hatch of New Mexico, Eastland of Mississippi and Ellender of Louisiana remonstrated with him. Behind O'Daniel stood minority secretary Les Biffle jabbing him in the back. A smile frozen on his face, the Texan kept saying no.

Capital Chaff

Henry Wallace will visit France and England in April. He will not go to Moscow. . . Motion picture star Jack Carson, who pays taxes in the big brackets, has telegraphed President Truman urging that Congress cut taxes for the little fellow, not the big guy. . . In February the Kaiser-Frazer Auto Company will show its first profit since it started making cars. . . .

Most important Congressional battle of the next two years will be between those who want the big companies to get bigger and those who favor old-fashioned American competition since the Federal courts have been upholding the anti-trust laws. Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois has introduced a bill to exempt newsgathering agencies like the Associated Press from the anti-trust laws, while Senator Reed of Kansas would exempt the railroads.

Are Workingmen Entitled To Bill Of Rights; Issue Up To Country

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Is a workingman entitled to a "bill of rights?" Something that protects him as an individual from the will of the majority. Rights that he can assert against everybody, just because he is a human being.

As a citizen of the United States, and of the state of his residence, he has such rights. He can assert them against Congress, against the President, against the Army, against petty tyrants on the police force giving him the "works."

He has such rights as a citizen. Does he have them as a workingman? As the Wagner Act has worked out these past twelve years; as it has been applied and extended by the National Labor Relations Board and by the courts of the land, his rights as an individual workingman, and not as a member of a group (to which he may or may not wish to belong) are visible only under a microscope.

Worker Loses His Rights

When a union is once selected as the bargaining representative of a majority of the workers in either a craft unit, plant unit, or industry-wide unit, the individual working man (whether he belongs or not) immediately loses every right he formerly had to have any voice whatever in deciding his (a) wages, (b) the hours he works, (c) every condition of his employment, including (d) the settlement of any grievance he may have.

If the majority and the boss agree to it, he must also (e) join the union, (f) continue as a member, (g) pay dues, (h) have his dues taken from his pay through the check-off, (i) be assessed to support strikes either in his own factory or in some distant plant, (j) be assessed to help elect to public office candidates or to support a political party he opposes. He cannot even see the books of accounts if the union decides to keep them hidden.

He many not want to belong to this union; he may want to join a different union; he may not want to strike; he may not want to support other strikers; he may want to do more, work harder and longer to earn more pay and a promotion.

After a union becomes the bargaining agent, this individual American workingman has just one right under the Wagner Act. He can "present a grievance" to his employer. But he cannot settle the grievance. That will be done by some one else, whether he likes it or not.

If he rebels against any decision of the union, and the union has a closed shop, or a union shop, or maintenance of membership, the union can demand that he be fired from his job, and the boss has to fire him. His bread and butter may be taken from him, but to whom can he appeal? To the courts? Oh, no, the courts do not protect him. They insist that he be fired!

If he belongs to a closed shop union which has industry-wide bargaining power, and he is fired, his firing goes way beyond his employer. No other employer in the whole industry (e.g. coal mining) can hire him. He is black-listed throughout the land. He must lose the skill of a lifetime, seek some new job somewhere. Perhaps be obliged to sell his home and move to distant parts.

Comes Under Majority Rule

All this is defended under the principle of "majority rule," even though that majority may be dominated by Communists, ex-convicts or embezzlers, or has won its power through violence or fraud.

Now majority rule is a useful and respected principle. But majority rule in electing a President of the United States or in the vastly more important business of earning a living are as different as night and day. As a citizen he has a bill of rights, as a workingman he has none. As a citizen there is a law superior to the majority. It is the Constitution with all its checks and balances to prevent the exercise of arbitrary power over him; to safeguard him in his fundamental rights as a human being.

The question before Congress and the country today is whether a workingman is entitled to a bill of rights. Or, shall I say, the question is whether Congress ever had the constitutional right to deprive him of a bill of rights in earning his daily bread.

Armed Forces Groups Should Formulate Defense Plan For U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Congress hasn't quite cleared up in its own mind just what the various committees are to do. The streamlining reorganization act achieved a good many reforms, but theory and actual working conditions are likely to conflict and only experience and evolution will furnish the right answer.

Thus, in the House of Representatives, the foreign affairs committee has just voted to make a study of State Department matters and so has the committee on expenditures in governmental agencies.

On the surface it would appear that this is a duplication of effort or perhaps a rivalry of interest between the two committees. Also the House armed services committee now is asking the secretary of state to testify as to the nature of foreign policies so that commitments can be examined in relation to the military side and appropriations needed.

Strictly speaking, the same reasoning that led to the merging of the committees on military affairs and naval affairs in both houses would seem to argue in favor of a consolidation of the foreign affairs committee and the armed services committee.

It could be argued quite logically that these subjects belong together and that one is interdependent on the other. For, after all, armies and navies and air forces are not needed to preserve domestic tranquility and have their uses only in foreign affairs when wars are threatened or break out.

Congress Groups Concern Limited

So far as the House or Senate foreign affairs committee is concerned, these units have no business except to help shape national policy in relation to other nations. What is done there has a bearing on the size of the armed services and the nature of the defense program that is to be established, but it is not up to the Senate or House committees to formulate a defense plan.

Congress made a serious mistake when it merged the Army and Navy committees because each branch of the armed services is important enough to have its own affairs watched by a committee of each house. But now that the armed services committee has been set up, it is natural that the cry for merger in other directions should be taken up.

Actually the House committee on foreign affairs has a duty to survey State Department policies and personnel and to give its judgment to the appropriations committee. As for the committee on expenditures, it has a right to inquire into methods of spending and handling of purchases, rentals of property and management of personnel matters abroad and auditing of accounts, but not to examine the broad policies of the secretary of state or his assistants in what is known as international relations or foreign policy.

As for the house and senate armed services committees, they may inquire concerning the nature of foreign policy and commitments but this is a thin reed on which to base a defense plan. What is said by the present secretary of state may or may not be pertinent in a year or so. The only way the armed services should function is to assume every hypothesis of war that is plausible and to develop defense plans accordingly.

It would be tragic, indeed, if the armed services committees after hearing Secretary Marshall in executive session, were to launch a program of expansion or reduction of the defense establishment. Undue significance internationally would be attached to such a session.

Foundation Of Defense Plan

Conversely, the armed services committees would be better off if they formulated a defense plan on the broad assumption that the United States, as a member of the U. N., must be prepared, for instance, to fight a war against Russia irrespective of what soothing words may come from Moscow or any other capital of the world. It is the business of military men to draw up hypothetical plans all the time and to prepare for any serious contingency. With a totalitarian government in power in Moscow, the peace of the world will be continuously unstable and the words of no foreign secretary or secretary of state should be taken in place of the advice of military and naval aerial experts as to what the United States needs to ward off attack, especially in this atomic age.

The U. S. has been caught napping before by ignoring this sort of thing. Whenever anybody in Congress or in the armed services mentioned the need for fortifying Guam, for example, prior to 1941, there was a hue and cry about disturbing relations with Japan. If the armed services committees are going to get instead of sticking to strictly militangled up in diplomacy once more, tary preparations, the defense of the U. S. may suffer accordingly and the U. S. may be caught with another Pearl Harbor attack some day.

Today's Talk

Inward Peace

If people would create more inward peace, within their minds and hearts, they would be sure of that outward peace for which the whole world craves. All great movements have their inception within the individual. If men's hearts were right, nations would be right, and they would not have to worry about enemies about their borders.

Restlessness is always within ourselves. I believe that selfishness is at the core of it all. We drug our minds with evil medicine. We starve the heart, and clutter up our minds with false premises. We put a fence about our little world, eliminating the horizons of hope and of faith.

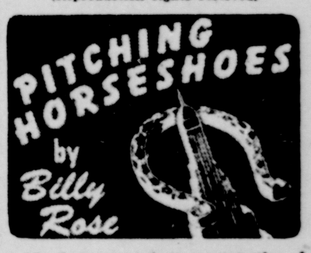
We cannot long separate ourselves from our kind and expect solace and peace of mind. We were meant to circulate, to spread out, to touch every chord of human feeling, and to be one with the world. Each one of us is a thread in the great fabric of human thought and human achievement.

The great enemy of this inward peace is worry—worry over things that rarely happen, and when they do happen, are rarely as serious as imagined. We need to keep armed with a simple courageous faith. People with religious convictions have more inward peace than those who do not have them. Even the savage has his beliefs to give him his kind of peace and assurance.

Our thoughts control our actions. They largely influence our health, as well. That is why it is important for us to think happy, pleasant thoughts, to be content with our lot, no matter what it may be, and strive to better it by right thinking and doing We can marvelously reshape our lives by willing to do so, with what we have in equipment. Mere possessions do not bring peace and contentment. It is in ourselves that we are conquerors!

We are always happiest after a day of good deeds in which someone else has shared. Such a day gives to us that inward peace, so essential to spiritual richness. John Adams was one of the most useful, and inspiring, of all the early American statesmen. His last words were: "This is the last of earth, and I am content."

Protected, 1947, by The George Matthew Adams Service.



My lawyer sent me a couple of neckties from a Park Avenue shop for Christmas. They were handpainted and must have set him back twenty bucks. They looked as if they had been frightened by Technicolor—"Yule-be-sorry" ties

This afternoon, I finally got around to exchanging them. When I got to the shop, there were half a dozen other fellows with the same idea ahead of me. A fluttery clerk bowed me into a chair, handed me a copy of "Town and Country," and hoped I didn't mind waiting a few minutes.

Billy Rose

I started reading a piece about winter sports at Lake Placid. Suddenly the type went out of focus. It started snowing in the shop. A little fat gentleman in a red hat came from behind one of the counters. I couldn't see much of his face, but there was a nose like a cherry sticking out of a nest of white whiskers.

"What can I do for you?" he asked.

"I want to exchange some neckties," I said, "Santa Claus must have gotten me mixed up with Salvadore Dali."

"So you don't like what Santa Claus brought you?" he roared.

Why are you taking it so big?" I asked.

"Because I'm Santa Claus," said the little fat man.

G'wman, you old faker," I said. "Take that suit back to the Brooks Costume Company. I don't believe in Santa Claus."

"Well, I don't believe in people," he snapped.

He had me there. "Exchanges, exchanges, exchanges," he went on. "Nobody is satisfied with what he gets nowadays. It gets worse every year. I'm quitting. If anybody wants a cold-water flat near the North Pole, it's for rent cheap."

"What's biting you, Santa?" I asked. "Getting old?"

He glared. "I'm as good as ever," he thundered. "Trouble is, people aren't. I can remember when little girls were satisfied with a copy of 'The Bobbsey Twins.' Now they want 'Forever Amber.'"

"Take it easy, old-timer," I soothed. "People may be a little mixed up these days, but you still rate number one with them.' '

"Zatso!" he snarled. "Then why did they fire ack-ack at my reindeer over Yugoslavia? Why does the Teamsters' Union call me a scab and insist on a stand-by driver?"

"Times change," I said. "The world progresses."

"Progress, my eye!" he yelled. "Look at those Quonset huts. How can I get to a kid in a house without a chimney?"

I made a bum joke. "Christmas is going to be an awful frost without you," I said.

"Save the sweet talk," said Santa. "A man's entitled to a little peace in his old age. In England last month, a fello wnamed Churchill threw a brick at me because he didn't like the color of my suit."

He shook his head dolefully and snowflakes floated gently to the carpet.

"It can't be all bad," I argued. "Somebody must have been happy with what he got."

"The Republicans were all smiles for a few days," said Santa. "What worries me is 1948. About fifteen of them want the same present."

"Won't you try it just one more year?" I pleaded.

"What's the use?" said Claus. "A man can stand only so much. Last year I gave a fellow from Missouri the whole country. Now I understand he wants to trade it in for a piano."

"Well, you've got to eat," I said. "What are you going to do?"

"I thought I might go into the show business," said Santa. "Monty Woolley did all right. But enough of this chitchat. Go ahead and change your ties. I want to get out of here."

The fluttery clerk shook me awake. "It's your turn," he said. "Second counter on the left."

"Never mind," I told him. "I've reconsidered."

Exercises To Be Held Monday

Allegany Hospital School of Nursing will hold capping exercises at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, for the group which entered September 1. The ceremony will be held in the Lady of the Mount nurses home, instead of in the chapel as is customary, because of the forty-hours devotions being held Sunday through Tuesday night.

Ralph Webster, principal of Allegany High School, will give the principal address. Dr. Linn Corson will speak for the Advisory committee; and Mrs. Louella Law, for the Alumnae Association. The class will be presented by Dr. W. Alfred VanOrmer, president of the staff; and Sister Vincent Marie, superintendent of the hospital, will confer the caps.

The program will open with a "Prayer for a Perfect Life," sung by the student body after which Father Noel, O.F.M.Cap., will offer the invocation. Other musical numbers will be "My Creed," a solo by Miss Stella Corliss; the hymn, "Heart of Mary," by a quartet composed of Miss Carmela Guarino, Miss Monica Mongan, Miss Corliss and Miss Ruth Yommer and the verses of "Keep Me Close To Thee," by the quartet with the student body singing the chorus.

For the nurses pledge the Alumnae, represented by Miss Anna Murphy, Mrs. Helen Allen, Miss Martha Lee Heron Miss Mary Louise Grassi and Miss Opal Kate Bonner, will serve as senior sponsors. The senior class will serve as junior sponsors, represented by Miss Ruth Johnson, Miss Ann Powers, Miss Margaret McMurdo, Miss Elva Sires and Miss Elsie Zimmerman.

Students to receive their caps will be Miss Mabel Brown, Miss Janet Reidel, Miss Delores Rowe, Miss Elma Stahle and Miss Virginia Weasenforth.

Approximately 315 pounds of alloy steel, including some 17 pounds of stainless steel, are contained in the average passenger automobile.

Recreational Area Planned At Park

An organization termed the Civic Recreation Committee was formed at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to study plans for providing a community recreation center for children at Constitution Park.

The temporary board includes Edgar M. Lewis, chairman; George P. Wolford, secretary, and Millard Hughes, treasurer. Nestor J. Licot, park recreation director, who called the meeting, said a recreational building might be provided by obtaining several Quonset huts as war surplus property, or by converting the present wildlife building at the park for that purpose.

Park facilities now include a sled-riding course, an area in which to conduct model airplane meets, and a natural amphitheater for staging boxing shows.

Other temporary appointments include Licot as recreation director; Robert V. Chisholm, athletic director, and J. Suter Kegg, publicity chairman, with E. A. Cosgrove, assistant. A second meeting for interested civic organizations will be held Monday, February 10, at the Legion home.

Purple Heart Seeking Vet's Hospital In Area

Members of Mountain Chapter No. 166, Military Order of the Purple Heart, want to see a veterans' hospital in Western Maryland, preferably in Allegany county, according to Duke Iles, Cumberland, newly elected Department of Maryland judge advocate.

Stating that "there doesn't seem to be much push for a veterans' hospital" in this county, Iles admitted that the membership of the local organization went along with a resolution calling for construction of a veterans' hospital in Washington county, submitted at a meeting Sunday in Hagerstown.

"Members of the Purple Heart here, numbering about 100, really need such a hospital and have about decided to support one for Washington county if there isn't enough pushs to get it built here." Iles explained.

No Local Drive Set For St. Lo Funds

No local participation is planned here in connection with a campaign in other Maryland communities to raise funds for a memorial Hospital at St. Lo, France, the point where the 29th Division helped break through the German lines in the Normandy invasion.

Washington County, with a goal of $3,537, has raised over $2,000. The hospital project is planned as a memorial to the Blue and Gray outfit.

Russler And Foote Talk To Delegation

Representatives of the Allegany and Garrett County Firemen's Association have recommended to the Allegany County Delegation in the Maryland General Assembly that there be no change in present legislation with reference to appropriations for volunteer fire companies in the two counties, except that the Ellerslie Department being organized receive the minimum appropriation of $575.

Nelson W. Russler, Cumberland and Felix Foote, Lonaconing, representing the Legislative committee of the association, met with the delegation in Annapolis Tuesday.

The Allegany County delegation said yesterday that House Bill No. 98, recently introduced appears to have been overlooked by sportsmen organizations of the county. The bill provides an extra fee of $1 for trout fishing in Maryland. According to the delegation no Allegany County group has protested the proposed measure.

Gas Company Hopes To Avert Any Shortage Next Year

It did happen, it might happen again soon, but it ought to be only a memory by next year.

That about sums up what the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has to say about the critical shortage of natural gas during last week's cold spell.

The company said it was well aware that it was entering the winter season of 1946-47 with largely prewar equipment. The company knew it faced a tremendous postwar demand for natural gas however, the exact peak of the demand for gas could not be accurately foreseen until the season's first cold snap occurred.

Officials of the company said they hope that by 1948 the company and its suppliers will have been able to secure enough materials to build transmission and distribution lines large enough to bring all the gas that everyone wants, at all times, even when the mercury takes sudden dips to zero.

Russler And Foote Talk To Delegation

Representatives of the Allegany and Garrett County Firemen's Association have recommended to the Allegany County Delegation in the Maryland General Assembly that there be no change in present legislation with reference to appropriations for volunteer fire companies in the two counties, except that the Ellersile Department being organized receive the minimum appropriation of $575.

Nelson W. Russler, Cumberland and Felix Foote, Lonaconing, representing the Legislative committee of the association, met with the delegation in Annapolis Tuesday.

The Allegany County delegation said yesterday that House Bill No. 98, recently introduced appears to have been overlooked by sportsmen organizations of the county. The bill provides an extra fee of $1 for trout fishing in Maryland. According to the delegation no Allegany County group has protested the proposed measure.

Gas Company Hopes To Avert Any Shortage Next Year

It did happen, it might happen again soon, but it ought to be only a memory by next year.

That about sums up what the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has to say about the critical shortage of natural gas during last week's cold spell.

The company said it was well aware that it was entering the winter season of 1946-47 with largely prewar equipment. The company knew it faced a tremendous postwar demand for natural gas, however, the exact peak of the demand for gas could not be accurately foreseen until the season's first cold snap occurred.

Officials of the company said they hope that by 1948 the company and its suppliers will have been able to secure enough materials to build transmission and distribution lines large enough to bring all the gas that everyone wants, at all times, even when the mercury takes sudden dips to zero.

Several Matters Discussed By Eckhart Legion

Teen-Agers Will Use Dance Floor

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Jan. 30 — Arthur Arnone Post, No. 212, American Legion of Eckhart, held a largely attended meeting Wednesday evening with Thomas Conlon, Cumberland, assistant state service officer; Samual Graham, Cumberland, vice-commander of the Mountain District and Frank T. Powers, past vice-commander of the Mountain District as the principal speakers. Conlon spoke on "Americanism and Comradship". Powers discussed baseball and Graham's subject related to the progress of the Mountain district.

During the business session eight new candidates were admitted, bringing the total membership to 81. Charles Lewis, membership chairman stated that the drive for additional members would be continued indefinitely.

The post voted to donate the use of its dance floor to teenagers of Eckhart and vicinity every Friday from 7 to 10 p. m. The first dance will be held Friday, February 7, with Eckhart Homemakers Club members as chaperons. It was also decided to organize a firing squad to confer military honors at funerals and to assume the responsibility of taking part in Memorial Day observances at the Eckhart, Porter and Vale Summit cemeteries. Ten new rifles and a supply of amunition have already been ordered.

The post's program for the young people will include a junior baseball team, with James Piper, Sr., a veteran of World War I, as manager. All boys under 17 desiring to join the baseball team will report to the post headquarters in Eckhart Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Each applicant must have a birth certificate and a snapshot of himself. The team will be an affiliate of the nationwide junior baseball circuit sponsored by the American Legion.

Another big project of the Eckhart Post will be the care of the honor roll, which was erected during the war on the lawn of the Eckhart Methodist Church. According to Charles K. Dyche, public relations officer, the honor roll will be moved with the consent of the Eckhart church from its present location and placed on a vacant lot adjoining the Legion Home. It will be remodeled and re-decorated.

The officers of the post are Harold Dudley, commander; Joseph DeMarino, adjutant; Harold Carter, finance officer; Charles K. Powers, past vice-commander of the Mountain District as the principal speakers. Conlon spoke on "Americanism and Comradship". Ten new rifles and a supply of amunition have already been ordered.

The post's program for the young people will include a junior baseball team, with James Piper, Sr., a veteran of World War I, as manager. All boys under 17 desiring to join the baseball team will report to the post headquarters in Eckhart Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Each applicant must have a birth certificate and a snapshot of himself. The team will be an affiliate of the nationwide junior baseball circuit sponsored by the American Legion.

Another big project of the Eckhart Post will be the care of the honor roll, which was erected during the war on the lawn of the Eckhart Methodist Church. According to Charles K. Dyche, public relations officer, the honor roll will be moved with the consent of the Eckhart church from its present location and placed on a vacant lot adjoining the Legion Home. It will be remodeled and re-decorated.

The officers of the post are Harold Dudley, commander; Joseph DeMarino, adjutant; Harold Carter, finance officer; Charles K. Scattered Stock Market Leaders Advance Although Trend Uncertain

Transfers of 1,340,000 shares compared with 1,530,000 the day before.

Hercules Powder was up 1¼ at 57 and Atlas Powder 3½ at 66¼ in the wake of a pleasing earnings compilation for the former. Western Union "A" added 1⅛ at 20⅝ as the company disclosed it was "in the black" during December after suffering losses for 11 months. Douglas Aircraft tacked on 1½ at 72½ and Dow Chemical 1¼ at 176.

Norfolk and Western conceded 1½ at 228½, Coca-Cola two at 157, Chrysler one at 97, Phelps Dodge one at 40, American Can 1¾ at 95 and Cerro De Pasco one at 33.

Among forward Curb movers were Hoe and Company "A," Le Tourneau, Detroit Steel Products and Kingston Products. Stumblers were American Gas, Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service and Aireon. Turnover here was 500,000 shares versus 560,000 yesterday.

Rail issues found the going progressively tougher after an early advance but gains and losses balanced closely at the finish in the bond market today.

Sales of $5,822,000 compared with $6,650,000 Wednesday.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market declined as much as 7/32 of a point.

Britton was indicted this term of court on the charge of carrying a revolver or pistol contrary to law, in connection with an altercation over possession of household furniture. The court is considering the sentence.

Leonard W. Hamilton, who was indicted at the July, 1946, term of court, charged with resisting arrest on July 16, 1946, pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor. His sentence was a fine and costs totaling $45.

Is it possible to put FRESH RAW LIVER IN DRY DOG FOOD?

yes! BRESKO

DOG FOOD NOW HAS IT

We have discovered a special new process, by which we cook fresh raw liver into the famous BRESKO, making it even more palatable and more nourishing than ever.

BRESKO is a correct blend of the needed meat meal vitamins and other essentials.

Don't confuse Fresh Raw Liver with Liver Meal. Fresh Raw Liver is vastly better since the valuable liver juices are preserved. Liver is invaluable for body and blood building in certain dietary deficiencies.

To give your dog the benefit of this essential food to the fullest degree, you must give him BRESKO. He'll like it so well that he'll beg you for more.

Scattered Stock Market Leaders Advance Although Trend Uncertain

Transfers of 1,340,000 shares compared with 1,530,000 the day before.

Hercules Powder was up 1¼ at 57 and Atlas Powder 3½ at 66¼ in the wake of a pleasing earnings compilation for the former. Western Union "A" added 1⅛ at 20⅜ as the company disclosed it was "in the black" during December after suffering losses for 11 months. Douglas Aircraft tacked on 1½ at 72½ and Dow Chemical 1¼ at 176.

Norfolk and Western conceded 1½ at 228½, Coca-Cola two at 157, Chrysler one at 97, Phelps Dodge one at 40, American Can 1¾ at 95 and Cerro De Pasco one at 33.

Among forward Curb movers were Hoe and Company "A," Le Tourneau, Detroit Steel Products and Kingston Products. Stumblers were American Gas, Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service and Aireon. Turnover here was 500,000 shares versus 560,000 yesterday.

Rail issues found the going progressively tougher after an early advance but gains and losses balanced closely at the finish in the bond market today.

Sales of $5,822,000 compared with $6,650,000 Wednesday.

Is it possible to put FRESH RAW LIVER IN DRY DOG FOOD?

DOG FOOD NOW HAS IT

We have discovered a special new process, by which we cook fresh raw liver into the famous BRESKO, making it even more palatable and more nourishing than ever.

BRESKO is a correct blend of the needed meat meal vitamins and other essentials.

Don't confuse Fresh Raw Liver with Liver Meal. Fresh Raw Liver is vastly better since the valuable liver juices are preserved. Liver is invaluable for body and blood building in certain dietary deficiencies.

To give your dog the benefit of this essential food to the fullest degree, you must give him BRESKO. He'll like it so well that he'll beg you for more.

Mrs. Joy Effland Named President

A ladies auxiliary unit to J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, was organized last night at a meeting in the post home, South Centre and Baltimore Streets. This is the first auxiliary of Amvets organized in Maryland and will be known as Unit No. 1. The local veterans' post is also the first Amvets unit in Maryland.

Mrs. Joy T. Effland has been elected president of the new unit, with Miss Freda Skelly, vice-president; Mrs. Jane Spangler, secretary and Mrs. Sarah Kelly, treasurer. Members of the executive committee, in addition to the officers include, Mrs. John Kington, Mrs. Margaret Pompei, Mrs. John W. Shannon, Miss Marlene Skelly, Miss Delores Skelly and Miss Helen Skelly.

The group plans a membership drive, Mrs. Effland said last night, and any wife, mother, sister or daughter of an Amvet is eligible for membership.

Regular meetings will be held each second and fourth Thursday of each month, it was decided last night. No date has been set for closing the charter application, and those who join now will be listed as charter members.

The organization will subscribe to state and national constitution and bi-laws for Amvets auxiliary units, Mrs. Effland stated.

William B. Orndorff, Amvets commander said last night he is pleased that there is so much interest in the formation of the auxiliary, and believes the new unit will be beneficial to the post, because it will create the interest of the women in affairs of the post, and the affairs of veterans. He said the post will work in harmony with the unit and they expect to aid each other in their objectives.

Somerset Bus Strike Reported At Deadlock

Pickets continued to patrol in front of the Somerset Bus Company office, Somerset, Pa., yesterday, while union and company officials reported "no developments" in the strike of drivers, mechanics and maintenance men.

A clarification of the union shop concessions sought for drivers and maintenance men was asked, and the union explained the company would be free to hire whomever it wished, but they must become affiliated with the union after 30 days of employment.

ing to stop work unless they were paid the new rate.

The Cumberland wage scale is the lowest for this area, a union official said. In Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh, he said, the rate is $2.25 while the Hagerstown rate is $2.26. Local companies, he said, have paid as high as $2.25 an hour for bricklayers they have brought here.

The 25 cent hourly increase would mean about a $50 jump in the price of an average brick home, about $25 for a brick veneer dwelling but only a slight increase in a chimney for frame houses, he said.

Granville C. Pittman, secretary of the Bricklayers Union, reported the following wage picture for the craft in recent years.

On December 5, 1928, the hourly rate was increased to $1.50 and stayed there until May 23, 1932 when the local voluntarily reduced the scale to $1.25. In January, 1941, wages were increased to $1.50 and in 1945, the War Labor Board granted an increase to $1.72½. The present $1.75 scale has been in effect since April, 1946.

One member of the local reported that the average bricklayer who works only in Cumberland does well to make $2,000 a year due to weather conditions and slack building periods.

A spokesman for Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, declined to comment yesterday on a reported request of electricians for a wage increase.

R. C. Simmons, business agent for the Laborers Union, said the local is expecting an increase but has set no deadline. He added that contractors have been asked to discuss the increase.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ten more tons of wastepapers were collected here yesterday, boosting to a total of 48 tons the amount picked up to date in this month's campaign. The drive ends today with collections in all sections south of Oldtown road.

"What Does Jewish Assimilation Mean?" will be the subject of Rabbi Maurice Feuer's sermon to be delivered tonight at 7:30 o'clock in B'er Chayim Temple. He will also preach at the Saturday morning service at 10 o'clock.

Miss Jane Grindle, reading instructor at Allegany High School, will leave Sunday to attend a reading clinic at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia. The course will be under the direction of Dr. Emmet Betz and will continue through Friday.

Central Fire Company answered two false alarms yesterday afternoon. The first was at 316 North Mechanic street and the second at the Capitol Restaurant, 52 North Mechanic street, firemen said.

himself about 10 o'clock that night, but the news was not confirmed officially until 5 o'clock the next morning. Some of the other guards told me about it soon after it happened."

The Cumberland soldier worked in the service department at the Celanese plant for three years before entering the Army in February, 1945. He went overseas the following October with the 88th "Blue Devil" Infantry Division, serving first in Italy and then on guard duty at the Yugoslav border.

After re-enlisting January 3, 1946, for one year, he returned to the states on a 30-day furlough, and was later assigned to guard duty at the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg in June, as a member of the 26th Infantry, First Division.

One of the most interesting sidelights on the war crimes trial, which ended October 1 with the sentencing of 22 top-ranking Nazi leaders, was the manner in which the proceedings were made available in four languages, Pfc. Lea said.

Describes Control Board

"Each defendant had a small control board with four dials, and wore earphones," he said. "By switching one of the dials, he could hear an interpreter talking in French, Russian, German or English."

Another Cumberland man was on guard duty at the trial, but left in September to come home, Pfc. Lea said, identifying him only as Robert McLane.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American prosecutor, and the Russian members of the court were in favor of sentencing all the Nazi defendants to hanging, and seemed disappointed when the court decreed the death penalty for only 12 of the 22, Pfc. Lea said.

The British and French judges, on the other hand, seemed inclined to be more merciful, in his opinion.

Pfc. Lea was next assigned to guard Nazi doctors being brought to trial on charges of using human beings for sadistic experiments.

He left Nuremberg December 12, but the return trip to Camp Kilmer, N. J., took nearly a month, because of engine trouble aboard ship and heavy storms in the Atlantic crossing.

Teachers Union Adopts Long Range Program

In addition to liberalized salary schedules for teachers in Allegany County public schools and the four teachers colleges in Maryland, Local 708, Teachers Union, AFL, has adopted a 10-point long range program for teachers. They are:

1. Reduction of the class room and teacher load to 30 pupils.
2. Academic freedom for teachers in professional and public matters.
3. A professional school program providing time during the day for teachers' meetings called by the administration.
4. Adequate sick leave.
5. Sabbatical leave for teachers who desire further study.
6. Just treatment of returned veterans who left the profession to go to war.

C. N. Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert, county commissioners, said yesterday county teachers will be paid the second part of a $300 increase when the 1947 county budget is prepared. The first payment of $75 was made in December and the second allotment is due next month.

The commissioners indicated that this increase will continue in effect next year. In practice it raised the salary range of $1,500 to $2,400 to the new figures, $1,800 to $2,700.

Donations will be sought at the LaSalle-Allegany game tonight, and collections were made last night at the Keyser-Fort Hill game here, the chairman said.

Members of the executive committee, in addition to the officers include, Mrs. John Kington, Mrs. Margaret Pompei, Mrs. John W. Shannon, Miss Marlene Skelly, Miss Delores Skelly and Miss Helen Skelly.

The group plans a membership drive, Mrs. Effland said last night, and any wife, mother, sister or daughter of an Amvet is eligible for membership.

Regular meetings will be held each second and fourth Thursday of each month, it was decided last night. No date has been set for closing the charter application, and those who join now will be listed as charter members.

The organization will subscribe to state and national constitution and bi-laws for Amvets auxiliary units, Mrs. Effland stated.

William B. Orndorff, Amvets commander said last night he is pleased that there is so much interest in the formation of the auxiliary, and believes the new unit will be beneficial to the post, because it will create the interest of the women in affairs of the post, and the affairs of veterans. He said the post will work in harmony with the unit and they expect to aid each other in their objectives.

The Cumberland soldier worked in the service department at the Celanese plant for three years before entering the Army in February, 1945. He went overseas the following October with the 88th "Blue Devil" Infantry Division, serving first in Italy and then on guard duty at the Yugoslav border.

After re-enlisting January 3, 1946, for one year, he returned to the states on a 30-day furlough, and was later assigned to guard duty at the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg in June, as a member of the 26th Infantry, First Division.

One of the most interesting sidelights on the war crimes trial, which ended October 1 with the sentencing of 22 top-ranking Nazi leaders, was the manner in which the proceedings were made available in four languages, Pfc. Lea said.

Describes Control Board

"Each defendant had a small control board with four dials, and wore earphones," he said. "By switching one of the dials, he could hear an interpreter talking in French, Russian, German or English."

Another Cumberland man was on guard duty at the trial, but left in September to come home, Pfc. Lea said, identifying him only as Robert McLane.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American prosecutor, and the Russian members of the court were in favor of sentencing all the Nazi defendants to hanging, and seemed disappointed when the court decreed the death penalty for only 12 of the 22, Pfc. Lea said.

The British and French judges, on the other hand, seemed inclined to be more merciful, in his opinion.

Pfc. Lea was next assigned to guard Nazi doctors being brought to trial on charges of using human beings for sadistic experiments.

He left Nuremberg December 12, but the return trip to Camp Kilmer, N. J., took nearly a month, because of engine trouble aboard ship and heavy storms in the Atlantic crossing.

The new "mechanical brain" calculating machine developed at Harvard in 1946 enables one man to solve in a single second multiplication problems running into billions.

Teachers Union Adopts Long Range Program

In addition to liberalized salary schedules for teachers in Allegany County public schools and the four teachers colleges in Maryland, Local 708, Teachers Union, AFL, has adopted a 10-point long range program for teachers. They are:

1. Reduction of the class room and teacher load to 30 pupils.
2. Academic freedom for teachers in professional and public matters.
3. A professional school program providing time during the day for teachers' meetings called by the administration.
4. Adequate sick leave.
5. Sabbatical leave for teachers who desire further study.
6. Just treatment of returned veterans who left the profession to go to war.

C. N. Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert, county commissioners, said yesterday county teachers will be paid the second part of a $300 increase when the 1947 county budget is prepared. The first payment of $75 was made in December and the second allotment is due next month.

The commissioners indicated that this increase will continue in effect next year. In practice it raised the salary range of $1,500 to $2,400 to the new figures, $1,800 to $2,700.

March Of Dimes Ball Held At Local Hotel

Over 75 couples attended the March of Dimes ball, held last night at the Southern Hotel in connection with the campaign to raise funds in the fight against infantile paralysis.

William R. Carscaden, county chairman, said that collections will be taken at Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools today, adding that other schools in the county have already held collections, through the co-operation of Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

Donations will be sought at the LaSalle-Allegany game tonight, and collections were made last night at the Keyser-Fort Hill game here, the chairman said.

A report on the amount raised in the county campaign will not be available for the next week or 10 days, he added.

The Frostburg March of Dimes dance will be held tomorrow night in St. Michael's Hall, Frostburg.

Takes Training Cruise

Robert Clark Smallwood, electrician's mate, second class USNR, son of Mrs. Edith M. Smallwood, 226 Harrison Street, Cumberland, has served aboard the battleship USS Wisconsin on a two week Naval Reserve Training cruise in the Caribbean area.

Smallwood, who entered the Naval service July 2, 1942, received training at the Naval Training School, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. He was released to inactive duty Nov. 6, 1945.

A million carmiles of repair-free operation are expected of the heavy-duty shock absorbers used on streamliner trains.

Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka asserted yesterday that the public's failure to report fires promptly is the greatest single factor in the nation's skyrocketing fire losses and warned Cumberlanders that prompt notification of fires is vital.

In many instances where there have been heavy losses of life and property, the fire departments did not know of the existence of the blaze until it was too late, he added.

Chief Hoenicka quoted the fire fighting axiom that "the first five minutes at a fire are worth the next five hours" and explained that if firemen know of a fire they can usually extinguish it before heavy damage results. The fire chief laid down the following rules for reporting blazes:

Call the fire department at once when fire breaks out. Learn your district and place the number in a prominent place near the telephone. If you can't find the number, simply tell your telephone operator, "I want to report a fire."

Always use the fire alarm box when abailable since there is less chance to misdirect the fire department. Learn where the alarm box for your section is located. Directions for its operation are explained on the outside. Someone should always stay by the box to direct the firemen, he added.

Avoid being trapped while you are telephoning an alarm. It's safer to use a neighbor's phone if available. If you do not hear a hum on the line, the telephne wires may have burned out.

Central Fire Company responds to all fires from the B. and O. tracks to Wills Creek and as far south as the Wineow street subway. The phone number is 1481.

South End firemen, who handle all calls south of Williams street, can be reached at 1405. West Side Company No. 3, phone 1411, is responsible for all West side calls. East Side company, phone 1407, protects property north of Williams street.

Officers Elected By Stockyard Group

According to the annual report made Wednesday night sales for the first year of operation of Cumberland Stockyards, Inc., totaled $550,000.

In addition to electing officers and four new directors, plans were considered for additional development of the organization.

Arthur P. Hoffa, Barton, was elected president; W. J. Johnson, Cumberland, vice-president; Hugh Stevenson, Ellerslie, treasurer; and L. B. Shaw, Barton, secretary.

The four new directors chosen are James H. Weimer, Mt. Savage; O. B. Callahan, Pattersons Creek, W. Va.; E. I. Pritchard, Frostburg; and W. H. Johnson, Cumberland. Holdover directors are Gay Stonestreet, Flintstone; H. J. Barton, Pinto; Marshall R. Porter, Eckhart, and G. R. Armstrong, Rawlings.

The board of directors was authorized to hold quarterly meetings.

Beer License Granted

A Class A light beer license was granted in Circuit Court Wednesday to Frank P. Mason, RFD No. 3, Valley road, near Cumberland.

Bonds Forfeited

Two motorist forfeited bonds totaling $12.90 Wednesday in Trial Magistrates Court when they failed to appear for hearing after being charged with violations.

John C. Lochner, Bedford, Pa., was charged with passing on a curve on Route 220 and forfeited $6.45 while Galen R. Peck, Meyersdale, forfeited a similar amount on charges of passing another car at the crest of a hill on Route 40. Troopers Robert Henline and G. M. Botruck made the arrests.

Frostburg Men Post Bond On Gaming Charge

Two Frostburg men who gave their names as William Keiling and Pasquale Sacco, were arraigned in Trial Magistrates Court Wednesday on charges of maintaining gaming device.

Both men, arrested on a warrant sworn to by County Investigator T. J. Boyle, waived preliminary hearings and posted bonds of $150 each for action of the grand jury.

The warrant charges that the pair "kept a slot machine in violation of the law." Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., set the bonds.

In Frostburg last night Chief of Police Benjamin Thomas said night prowlers entered Sacco's beer establishment on East Main street late Sunday night or early Monday morning, and stole $15 in nickels and pennies from a cash register. Various brands of cigarets and a small package of chewing gun also were taken by the intruders, Thomas said.

Additional Stadium Seats Discussed

Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller conferred yesterday with Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, regarding the possibility of enlarging the seating capacity of Fort Hill stadium to about 6,000 seats, an increase of about 1,500.

Kopp said if there is a "persistent demand" for more seats the Board of Education "will investigate the possibilities."

ABOUT COLUMNISTS

Many inquire of me concerning columnists, as they would inquire concerning the platypus or some other rare species of creature.

Being a columnist, I am delighted to reply in the fond but futile hope that I may erase some of the fantastic notions concerning my kind. I shall not attempt to deal with local columnists who toss off their eight hours per and enjoy themselves thereafter according to their peculiar tastes. I shall refer to those peculiarly afflicted, enslaved, strange mammals known as syndicated columnists who peddle their junk through some central market, preferably New York, like Bugs Bear, Brother Winchell, Pegler, Dorothy Thompson and Yours Truly.

Contrary to tradition, columnists have two legs just as you have. They also possess the usual assortment of ears, eyes, teeth (real or false) and whiskers which need to be shaved daily. They eat as you do if they have the price after playing the horses, betting on the fights or the numbers, indulging in stud poker and buying nylons for the little woman and attending to the other necessities of life. Which means that the average columnist's diet consists of coffee and scotch and belches, real or assumed.

Also contrary to tradition, a columnist does not write when the mood is on. He writes period. And generally speaking he has several darn mean editors behind him who will take his hide off if he doesn't.

A columnist does not circulate in the free and easy manner of a traveling salesman—although he has many of the habits thereof. A columnist knows no rest by day or night. He can, if he has a sufficiently large tumor on his brain, get far enough ahead to cover a vacation period. But the jinx to that is that if he has too large a tumor, he lands in a straight jacket pronto. Otherwise it taxes his brain capacity and plenty to keep up with his regular quota.

As a consequence, come holidays or vacation days, the enshackled columnist carries his typewriter or drawing board with him and takes his recreation if and when he has finished his daily stint. Which is usually after the rest of the folks are snoring.

Do not, however, waste any sympathy on a columnist. Columnists are born, not made. They would continue to write if they had neither contract nor compensation and were tied by the wrists and ankles and gagged in addition. Columning is something that happens in your blood like anemia. You can't help it. So you might as well syndicate it.

And the rewards are enormous. I do not refer to the pecuniary rewards. No pay check is large enough to compensate for the beating which a columnist gets. But one warm, straight from the heart fan letter will make him glow for a year.

People are a columnist's real reward. The love and faith of one lowly, simple person can boost his blood count higher than a dozen transfusions. Also the Brooklyn cheers which he frequently receives are a splendid tonic if he happens to be an egotistical guy, which few columnists are. For long before you become a columnist you have your vanity kicked out of you by experience.

And while we are speaking of fan mail, here's a tip. Many columnists never answer a fan letter unless it is outstanding in its content, but many others answer as many letters as is humanly possible, unless they are completely asinine. This particular writer aims to answer any and all fan letters although it may be months before it's done. For such letters are apt to be held by local papers before being sent to the syndicate and thence forwarded to the columnist who frequently lives 3000 miles away from headquarters.

If you have anything nice to say to or about a columnist, by all means tell him so. He needs that encouragement more than you can realize. But while you tell him so also write a note to his local newspaper and spread the good news. For the local newspaper is frequently the authority by which a columnist stands or falls. One letter to a local newspaper helps a columnist more than 500 gushy epistles to the author himself.

Don't write a columnist about a subject which is absolutely not in his province. For Instance, don't write Pegler or Bugs Baer about the cut of your new evening gown. They will probably deputize someone to come around and sink large sharp teeth in your shin or bite holes in your new kitchen linoleum. And you will deserve it.

Use common sense in writing to a columnist. Observe the limits of his policy.

AND ALSO BE BRIEF.

Send no columnist 19 pages concerning your latest fight with your mother-in-law. Remember that any nationally syndicated columnist reads from 150 to 1,500 letters per day and doesn't give a hoot about you or your mother-in-law. He or she may be a charming and sympathetic person but 19 pages on any subject is too much and too many.

Outside of these few tips, treat a columnist as you would treat any friendly neighbor. Disagree with him when and if you feel like it. He won't mind. He's a tolerant cuss. He has learned that tolerance through 20 or 30 years of hard knocks.

He is a hard driven guy whose daily stint would make a stevedore look like a lounge lizard. You may write one letter a month to Cousin Charlie. The columnist writes 50 letters a day or ten times as many and even then doesn't catch up with his fan mail, much less with his daily space.

PS—By all means, write to me. I need it. I need both your constructive and destructive criticism. The only thing I don't want is bleats from smartypants.

Adios, darlings. Hoping to hear from you by return mail and double hopes that it's friendly.

New Trees For Russia

LONDON—(AP)—Russian foresters planted one billion trees during 1946 in an area of 290,000 acres. Reforestation included planting the rubber-bearing plant beresklet in central and southern regions of European Russia, reports Tass.

Andrew Jackson was the first American President to ride on a team railroad.

'Bobbies' May Get Modernized Overhead

LONDON—(AP)—London's "bobbies" may lose their tall helmets, a characteristic of the London scene since 1864 when they replaced the old beaver top hat. The helmet was chosen as ideally combining a double function—covering the head and providing protection against blows and missiles.

For some time there has been feeling among the police that changes should be made in the design and quality of their uniform.

An open-neck tunic worn with collar and tie, and with a flat cap instead of a helmet, was recently demonstrated in Wiltshire and met with great approval. There is also a general desire for summer and winter weight trousers.

Saved For That Radio A Long Time, By Heck

ROCKFORD, Ill.—(AP)—William E. Parlee delivered a new radio to a rural customer, who said: "Wait a moment, and I'll pay you." The farmer opened a trap door, disappeared into the dark opening, and returned with a small, dirt-specked gunny sack which looked like it had been dug out of the ground. The bag yielded 255 silver dollars, some of them dating back to 1868.

'Horizon Mining' Urged In Britain

LONDON—(AP)—Coal-short Britain should utilize the German method of "horizon mining" to increase the nation's production, according to a Ministry of Fuel and Power committee just back from touring the Ruhr.

Prescribed by the committee for British mines in Ruhr-like terrain, "horizon mining" consists of sinking a shaft to a certain depth, and then driving cross-measure drifts at right angles.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY" Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30—If Nancy Sinatra wants to become a movie actress the gate is wide open, I mean the gate at 20th Century Fox. Henry Hathaway, the director of "Kiss Of Death," isn't looking for a great actress for the role of the gangster's wife. But he does want a sweet, unassuming little Italian girl—and he will ask Nancy to make a test. I don't, however, hold out much hope than Frankie will consent.

Wm. Powell

Vic Mature will be the hero — a crook who goes to prison rather than reveal the identity of his accomplices and then, when they let his wife (Nancy's role) starve to death, turns state's evidence.

That title, "Kiss of Death," clicked in my memory are first time I heard it. And then I remembered that when I interviewed Darryl Zanuck on the air, I referred to something as "The Kiss of Death."

Darryl said, "The Kiss of Death"—that's a swell title for a movie, "Louella," and that's how Lawrence Blaine's original, "Stool Pigeon," comes up with this new title.

Marlene Dietrich's first hit in this country, "The Blue Angel" will be re-made—but not in Hollywood. Mexico's Pan-American Company is planning the face lifting on "The Angel" in Mexico City starring Fortunic Bonanova and the Latin-American beauty, Maria Felix.

Everyone who comes back from Mexico City tells me that Senorita Felix is the easiest thing on the eyes since sun glasses were invented. As to Fortunic—we know how good he is—he is just completing "The Fugitive" with John Ford down there.

"Blue Angel" will be made in Spanish only—no English version.

I'm not surprised that Joan Crawford asked Jack Skirball to try to borrow McDonald Carey for "Portrait in Black." She must have seen the sneak of "Suddenly It's Spring." Of course, I've always been a Carey booster, even before he went into the service. He is so attractive and such a fine actor.

Speaking of Joan, she has put a little Conover model named Anette Martin under contract and is bringing her here to Hollywood to be tested, Warners have agreed to test her —natch.

While I was standing on the set of "Song Of The Thin Man," I saw a figure all bundled up playing a tuba. I took another look and it was Bill Powell who is back in his role of Nick Charles the detective. He was followed by a wire haired terrier.

I asked if the dog was Asta, but I was told it was just an offspring of Asta. The original dog is old aid gray now. Asta Sr. kept looking at the younger generation emote and acted, I thought, a little bored.

Bill looks wonderful and is in great form. It's always good to talk to him. Myrna Loy, who is playing her role of Nora, was not there the day I visited the set.

Chatter in Hollywood: A tip to my paper, the Chicago Herald American. Diana Lynn is flying to your town, and you might contact her and ask her if she is going to marry Bob Neill, rich young Texas millionaire.

He flew in to see Diana and is madly in love with her. This is her most serious romance since she was engaged to marry Henry Willson. You might ask her if the is engaged to the young man.

Very nice letter from James Baskett, the fine negro actor in "Song Of The South." He thanked me for giving him the Cosmopolitan citation of the month for his fine performance in "Song Of The South."

His Uncle Remus, I believe, is one of the few classics in motion pictures. He's been on the Amos N Andy show for years and plays the lawyer Gabby, a completely comedy role. So it is all the more remarkable that he shows so much feeling in the dramatic part of Uncle Remus, really the lead in Walt Disney's fine picture.

When he went to Disney's studio, it was to test for the Butterfly's voice. He still is that voice and several others.

"One Night Of Love," Grace Moore's beautiful picture, was discussed for re-making before her tragic death, but Harry Cohn so far hasn't found just the right girl. I asked him why he didn't re-issue it as it was but he said he didn't think it would be good taste, that it would seem like capitalizing on Grace's death.

While I respect Harry's opinion, I believe her friends would love to see Grace again, she was so lovely and so happy when she made that picture, and so pleased with it.

If Harry is determined on a remake, he should try to borrow Deanna Durbin. She could use a story like that. Or possibly Jane Powell, who sings like a bird and is so lovely, but I suppose it would be impossible to borrow her or Kathryn Grayson from M-G-M.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: After seven years separation, Katina Paxinou, her daughter Illeanna, and her husband, Alexis Minotis, are together here in Hollywood. Illeanna met her mother and father in New York. . . . Happy birthday to Eddie Cantor today. He admits to 55. Tonight, via the air waves, Jack Benny will help Eddie kid himself. . . . Octavus Roy Coren has checked into Hotel El Rancho Vegas to write a story for Cosmopolitan about the fabulous town of Las Vegas. . . . What goes with Marilyn Maxwell and Freddy De Cordova? They've been out together three nights running. That's equivalent to an engagement in Hollywood. . . . Mary Brian glimpsed dining with Michal North at the King's. What a difference that boy's new job at Warners has made of him, he's blossomed out so. . . . Roddy McDowall's 19-year-old sister, Virginia, a star pupil at Bliss Hayden, is out for a movie career. She's a very cute looking girl, too. . . . Rudy Vallee has applied for patents on a camera that takes 16 MM movies. He plans to install them in booths in amusement parks around the country. . . . That thief who stole $10,000 from the Palm Springs Tennis Club had a sense of humor when he carried out the whole safe. No fingerprints for him. The reason he got such a goodly haul was because of the weekend parties. . . . The Skouras brothers, Spyros, Charlie and George, entertained with a dinner party at the Doll's House in Palm Springs for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Montes of Mexico City. Mr. Montes owns a big chain of theatres. . . . Rumor is that Oleg Cassini put a drunk in his place in a New York night club recently. The drunk objected to Oleg's dark glasses — so off went the glasses and down went the offender. . . . Irene sails for Europe in May with Elliott Gibbons, her husband. She'll take in the fashion circles and buy materials. Another M-G-M lady executive Europebound is Lillie Messinger and her husband Alexis Thurn Taxis.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Two Mothers Have Different Problems Relating To Teen-Age Daughters

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

From two mothers come two different problems relating to their teen-age daughters and their boy friends.

In one of these instances, the daughter wrote the letter in behalf of herself and her mother. She said:

"My mother and I read your column every day, and we both respect your opinion very much. We hope you can settle this dispute.

"I am 15½ years of age, and I have been seeing a fellow who is 18 for quite a while. My family has met this fellow and like him very much. He has stayed at my home for weekends quite often. This fellow is now a junior at Yale. His college formals are coming along very shortly, and he has asked Mother if it was possible for me to come to New Haven for one or more of these dances.

"I am much more mature than the average girl of 15, and I think Mother is thinking of what the neighbors might say. I have an aunt who is 21, who is willing to accompany me to these dances. Do you think it proper for me to go?

"NORMA".

I don't see any reason in the world why you shouldn't go, Norma, if your mother knows and approves all details of the program you will be following while you are away, and any arrangements made for your entertainment if you are staying in New Haven overnight, as I assume you would be. I don't see, either, why the neighbors or anybody else would have cause for criticism if everything is done in a conventional way. I am quite sure you would never do anything that your mother would not approve.

As far as your 21-year-old aunt's chaperonage is concerned, I would personally feel that someone older than that should be responsible for any daughter of mine going to spend a day or two as the guest of a boy at college. It is not that I would question your aunt's own standards of conduct, in any way, but simply that I think a situation of that sort calls for a little more judgment and experience than a 21-year-old would be likely to have. She is too close to your own age—though no doubt she feels much older—to have the necessary detachment to help you make the right decisions if any questions should arise about what you should or should not do.

It seems to me that your boy friend, since he is in his junior year at Yale, should have friends in New Haven with whom he might be able to arrange to have you stay. This would be the simplest way of conventionalizing your visit. He would then call for you, and take you home, as though you were in your own home. If he does not have such friends, however, and cannot find a place for you with some family he knows, then I think your best plan would be to reserve a room at the local YWCA, where the women executives could help you with any advice or suggestions you might need.

I hope that your mother will let you go to the dance, and that you will have a very happy time.

The other problem to which I referred at the beginning comes in a letter from a mother who writes:

"I have a 14-year-old daughter who is very fond of a 16-year-old boy who goes to the same school she does. She tells me she has liked this boy for some months now, but I just found out about it three weeks ago.

"He calls up every day, and he gave her a bracelet for her birthday and a friendship ring for Christmas. She has been invited to his home for dinner by his parents, and now he called me up and would like to come to my home to meet my husband and myself. Is this proper?

"My daughter tells me he is very nice and decent. All he wants is my permission to come and see her once in a while and take her to a dance or the movies. I don't like her meeting him on street corners and dark hidden alleys, and still I don't know what to do.

"M. B."

The fact that this boy wants to meet you and have you know him shows that he is a gentleman and the sort of boy with whom you could trust your daughter. I very much doubt if he would ever ask her to meet him in any "dark hidden alley."

Of course she seems very young to you, to be going out with boys, but if you explain to him that because both of them are so young, you feel his invitations should be limited to afternoons or an occasional evening when there is no school the next day, I feel sure he will respond. Of course you will always expect your daughter to let you know when and where she is going with him, and you will set the time when she should be home again. The way the two of them carry out any few rules you lay down for them will certainly indicate how responsible they are, and you can act accordingly. But they sound like two very reliable young people to me.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Two Mothers Have Different Problems Relating To Teen-Age Daughters

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

From two mothers come two different problems relating to their teen-age daughters and their boy friends.

In one of these instances, the daughter wrote the letter in behalf of herself and her mother. She said:

"My mother and I read your column every day, and we both respect your opinion very much. We hope you can settle this dispute.

"I am 15½ years of age, and I have been seeing a fellow who is 18 for quite a while. My family has met this fellow and like him very much. He has stayed at my home for weekends quite often. This fellow is now a junior at Yale. His college formals are coming along very shortly, and he has asked Mother if it was possible for me to come to New Haven for one or more of these dances.

"I am much more mature than the average girl of 15, and I think Mother is thinking of what the neighbors might say. I have an aunt who is 21, who is willing to accompany me to these dances. Do you think it proper for me to go?

"NORMA".

I don't see any reason in the world why you shouldn't go, Norma, if your mother knows and approves all details of the program you will be following while you are away, and any arrangements made for your entertainment if you are staying in New Haven overnight, as I assume you would be. I don't see, either, why the neighbors or anybody else would have cause for criticism if everything is done in a conventional way. I am quite sure you would never do anything that your mother would not approve.

As far as your 21-year-old aunt's chaperonage is concerned, I would personally feel that someone older than that should be responsible for any daughter of mine going to spend a day or two as the guest of a boy at college. It is not that I would question your aunt's own standards of conduct, in any way, but simply that I think a situation of that sort calls for a little more judgment and experience than a 21-year-old would be likely to have. She is too close to your own age—though no doubt she feels much older—to have the necessary detachment to help you make the right decisions if any questions should arise about what you should or should not do.

It seems to me that your boy friend, since he is in his junior year at Yale, should have friends in New Haven with whom he might be able to arrange to have you stay. This would be the simplest way of conventionalizing your visit. He would then call for you, and take you home, as though you were in your own home. If he does not have such friends, however, and cannot find a place for you with some family he knows, then I think your best plan would be to reserve a room at the local YWCA, where the women executives could help you with any advice or suggestions you might need.

I hope that your mother will let you go to the dance, and that you will have a very happy time.

The other problem to which I referred at the beginning comes in a letter from a mother who writes:

"I have a 14-year-old daughter who is very fond of a 16-year-old boy who goes to the same school she does. She tells me she has liked this boy for some months now, but I just found out about it three weeks ago.

"He calls up every day, and he gave her a bracelet for her birthday and a friendship ring for Christmas. She has been invited to his home for dinner by his parents, and now he called me up and would like to come to my home to meet my husband and myself. Is this proper?

"My daughter tells me he is very nice and decent. All he wants is my permission to come and see her once in a while and take her to a dance or the movies. I don't like her meeting him on street corners and dark hidden alleys, and still I don't know what to do.

The fact that this boy wants to meet you and have you know him shows that he is a gentleman and the sort of boy with whom you could trust your daughter. I very much doubt if he would ever ask her to meet him in any "dark hidden alley."

Of course she seems very young to you, to be going out with boys, but if you explain to him that because both of them are so young, you feel his invitations should be limited to afternoons or an occasional evening when there is no school the next day, I feel sure he will respond. Of course you will always expect your daughter to let you know when and where she is going with him, and you will set the time when she should be home again. The way the two of them carry out any few rules you lay down for them will certainly indicate how responsible they are, and you can act accordingly. But they sound like two very reliable young people to me.

Keyser Sweeps Fort Hill Series, 47-39

1,300 See Clark's Undefeated Quint Take 14th In Row

Visitors Show Class; Blamer Gets 17 Points

A fast-breaking, classy passing, sharpshooting quintet from Keyser High School rolled its fourteenth consecutive victory of the season over Fort Hill High School last night on the Fort Hill court. A crowd of approximately 1,300 persons saw Coach Fred Clark's undefeated Golden Tornado sweep the series from the Sentinels to the tune of 47 to 39.

The only time Fort Hill had a look in was early in the fray when the Cavanaugh-coached outfit tied the visitors at 2-2, 3-3 and 5-5. Fred Blamer's fielder sent the Keyserites ahead at 7-5 and they remained out in front the rest of the game. Quarter scores were 10-9, 30-17 and 36-22.

Hold Lead Of 18 Points

Twice in the third period the Clarkmen held leads of 17 points at 34-17 and 36-19 and two minutes after the final period opened baskets by Tommy Quinn and Blamer sent Keyser's lead soaring to 18 points at 40-22. This represented the biggest lead piled up by the Keyserites during the evening. The Sentinels managed to outscore the invaders 17 to 11 in the final heat but the Golden Tornado had nothing to worry about at that stage in the ball game.

During one of the Keyser rallies the KHS cheer leaders led a yell which runs something like this:

"Fort Hill's got the horse and buggy but Keyser has the team."

That's just about how much better Keyser was than Fort Hill in last night's game.

The tall visitors seemed to do everything right. They outspeeded the home team and they shot just as accurately from outside as they did in close. The set shots meshed by Fred Blamer and William "Pickles" Jones were perfect and most of them came from about 20 feet out or from the sidelines. It was an all-around brilliant performance by "Tack" Clark's cagers, who have yet to play eight games, including tilts with Allegany here, next Tuesday; Piedmont, home, February 18, and Moorefield, home, February 25.

Blamer Gets 17 Points

Fred Blamer led the Keyser scoring parade with 17 tallies while Jones connected for five fielders and 10 points. Blamer's total included seven double-deckers, five of which came in the first half, and three free throws.

Outscored from the field, 21 to 13 goals, Fort Hill sank 13 of 19 free throws. Five of those one pointers were scored in the final period and Elmer Freeland accounted for four. The Sentinels' southpaw forward led his team with 12 points, Jimmie Manges garnered 10 and Milford Dean nine.

The officials, Roby and Gerard, plastered 14 personals on each team. Tommy Quinn, Keyser's aggressive guard, made his exit on five personals with the score 45-37.

Keyser's Reserves also took home the bacon in the preliminary game by the score of 29-28. Lineups:

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 30. (AP)—Blonde Jimmy Clark, 29-year-old "freshman" in professional golfing ranks, posted a 63 today to tie the course record and lead a par-shattering assault in the first round of the 72-hole $10,000 Tucson Open tournament.

More than 30 entries in the field of 148 crack amateurs and pros bettered the par 70 figure for the 6,500-yard El Rio Country Club Course.

Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, defeated the William Paca Club in an overtime battle, 28-25, and Lapp's Plumbers conquered Nierman's Jewelers, 31-20 in the Central YMCA Men's Senior League last night on the "Y" court.

The VFW-William Paca Club regulation game ended with the score 23-23 when Art McDade sank a field goal. Davis' goal broke the tie in the extra period but Barnes sank a charity throw and followed up with a field goal to gave the Vets victory.

Keyser Sweeps Fort Hill Series, 47-39

1,300 See Clark's Undefeated Quint Take 14th In Row

Visitors Show Class; Blamer Gets 17 Points

A fast-breaking, classy passing, sharpshooting quintet from Keyser High School rolled its fourteenth consecutive victory of the season over Fort Hill High School last night on the Fort Hill court. A crowd of approximately 1,300 persons saw Coach Fred Clark's undefeated Golden Tornado sweep the series from the Sentinels to the tune of 47 to 39.

The only time Fort Hill had a look in was early in the fray when the Cavanaugh-coached outfit tied the visitors at 2-2, 3-3 and 5-5. Fred Blamer's fielder sent the Keyserites ahead at 7-5 and they remained out in front the rest of the game. Quarter scores were 10-9, 30-17 and 36-22.

Hold Lead Of 18 Points

Twice in the third period the Clarkmen held leads of 17 points at 34-17 and 36-19 and two minutes after the final period opened baskets by Tommy Quinn and Blamer sent Keyser's lead soaring to 18 points at 40-22. This represented the biggest lead piled up by the Keyserites during the evening. The Sentinels managed to outscore the invaders 17 to 11 in the final heat but the Golden Tornado had nothing to worry about at that stage in the ball game.

During one of the Keyser rallies the KHS cheer leaders led a yell which runs something like this:

"Fort Hill's got the horse and buggy but Keyser has the team."

That's just about how much better Keyser was than Fort Hill in last night's game.

The tall visitors seemed to do everything right. They outspeeded the home team and they shot just as accurately from outside as they did in close. The set shots meshed by Fred Blamer and William "Pickles" Jones were perfect and most of them came from about 20 feet out or from the sidelines. It was an all-around brilliant performance by "Tack" Clark's cagers, who have yet to play eight games, including tilts with Allegany here, next Tuesday; Piedmont, home, February 18, and Moorefield, home, February 25.

Blamer Gets 17 Points

Fred Blamer led the Keyser scoring parade with 17 tallies while Jones connected for five fielders and 10 points. Blamer's total included seven double-deckers, five of which came in the first half, and three free throws.

Outscored from the field, 21 to 13 goals, Fort Hill sank 13 of 19 free throws. Five of those one pointers were scored in the final period and Elmer Freeland accounted for four. The Sentinels' southpaw forward led his team with 12 points, Jimmie Manges garnered 10 and Milford Dean nine.

The officials, Roby and Gerard, plastered 14 personals on each team. Tommy Quinn, Keyser's aggressive guard, made his exit on five personals with the score 45-37.

Keyser's Reserves also took home the bacon in the preliminary game by the score of 29-28. Lineups:

Lapp Plumbers: Ray Lapp, Ted Durbin, Buddy Giles, Donald Parker, Alison Twigg, Paul Labor, Wm. Jewell, Robert Knierman, Ray Wiemer.

Ridgeley Legion: James Phillips, Dave Moreland, Jack Groves, Douglas Moon, Kenneth Carder, Robert Zimmerman, Jack Murriel, Bill Shuck, Jesse Riggleman, Tuck Spence, Bob Thompson, Wyllis Smelzer, B. Phillips.

DODGERS ACQUIRE SESSI FROM CARDS

BROOKLYN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Outfielder Walter Sessi, whose only 1946 home run gave the champion St. Louis Cardinals a vital late season victory, was acquired by the Brooklyn Dodgers today for the waiver price.

Sessi, a husky gentleman from Finleyville, Pa., alternated between first base and the outfield during his pre-war minor league career but was used as a pinch hitter by the World Champion Cardinals. He appeared in only 15 games and collected but two hits for a .143 average.

However, one of his hits came in dramatic fashion off Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants. With the Cards trailing, 2-1, one man on base, two out and two strikes on the batter, Sessi broke up the game with a home run.

Although the home run was hit against New York, it actually cost the Dodgers the pennant. If it had not been for that victory, the season might not have finished in the first tie in history.

Guarantee Not Posted

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Al Weill, manager of heavyweight Arturo Godoy, said tonight that the $10,500 guarantee the Chilean boxer is supposed to get for meeting Joe Louis in Mexico City February 5, has not yet been posted in this country and that unless the money arrives soon his fighter will not take part in the exhibition.

Merrill May, Former Cumberland Player, Will Manage Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Merrill (Pinky) May, former infielder of the Philadelphia National League team, accepted terms today as playing manager of the Albany Senators of the Eastern Baseball League.

May will succeed James (Rip) Collins who resigned last fall to become pilot of the San Diego Club in the Pacific League.

May played third base for five years prior to entering the navy in October, 1943.

May starred as an outfielder with the Cumberland Colts of the Middle Atlantic League in 1932. He appeared in 86 games, fielded .968 and turned in a batting average of .264. The 1932 team was Cumberland's last in organized baseball.

Hugh Mulcahy Given Release

Twirler Negotiates With Four Teams

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Hugh Mulcahy, major league baseball's first entry into the armed services, today obtained his unconditional release from the Philadelphia Phillies and announced he is neigotiating with four other clubs "because I feel a change will do me good."

Mulcahy, right hander who returned to the Phillies in the 1945 season to win one game and lose three after serving four and a half years in the army, requested his release from his home in Beaver, Pa. The request was granted in a telegram sent by Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phillies.

"I knew the Phillies were not banking on me much for this season," Mulcahy told the Associated Press, "and I am sure I still can be a winning pitcher."

The twirler said he has been engaging in road work for the last week and has only to get his arm in shape to be ready for the baseball season. He declined to name three of the clubs he has been in contact with, but did mention the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Denying reports that his pitching arm had bothered him throughout last year, Mulcahy said he experienced some difficulty in pitching during the beginning of spring training "but after a month something snapped in my shoulder and I didn't have any trouble after that."

Mulcahy first came to the Phillies in 1935 from Albany in the Eastern League as a protege of former Phillies' coach Jimmy Wilson. In 1937 he equalled Christy Matthewson's National League mark of 56 games worked in one year.

His best year was 1940, when he won 13 and lost 22 games.

He was called by his draft board on March 5, 1941, and served until Aug. 26, 1945. Last year he pitched in 16 games for the Phillies, winning two and losing four.

Dobbs Chosen Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Glenn Dobbs, one-time Tulsa University great and more recently halfback star of the Brooklyn Professional Dodgers, was named by the coaches of the All - American Conference today as the loop's most valuable player in 1946.

The coaches, attending the loop's mid-winter meetings here, had one vote each, with the stipulation that no coach could name one of his own players.

Five of the pilots picked the passing-running ace of the Brooklyns. The sixth—Cliff Battles of the Dodgers—named Otto Graham, halfback of the league champion Cleveland Browns. The San Francisco and Baltimore Coaches did not attend the meeting.

Greenleaf Seeks Damages

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, today filed an amended $300,000 damage suit against the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company, charging the firm barred him from the 1946 pocket billiards tournament held here recently.

Greenleaf, who now lives in Lancaster, Pa., originally filed suit Jan. 3 against the company for $100,000. He now seeks triple damages under the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

Davis, Blanchard Seek Furloughs To Play Pro Ball

Final Decision Rests With War Department

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, Army's three-time All-America backfield stars, have elected to shelve their military careers temporarily—along with a third teammate, end Barney Poole—to cast their lot with the professionals in quest of gridiron gold.

This was disclosed today by the War Department, which announced in Washington that all three players have asked for four-month furloughs from army duty next fall in order to play professional football—unprecedented requests which at this moment are under consideration.

The announcement created a flurry of excitement among club owners of the All-America Conference, meeting here in annual session, and immediately touched off a series of maneuvers likely to reach a new high in the running battle between that loop and the rival National League.

No indication could be found in the brief announcement to hint what the War Department's final decision would be. The three players are scheduled for graduation from the military academy at West Point in June with commissions as second lieutenants.

Blaik Declines Comment

The academy itself took a position of official silence, with Head Coach Earl Blaik declining comment and Col. Ned Moore, head of the public relations office, indicating there would be no statement until after the War Department reached its decision. The players were not available for comment.

But words flew thick and fast at the All-America Conference meeting. Davis, one of the fastest halfbacks ever developed, was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers of the All-America loop and by the Detroit Lions of the National League. Blanchard, hard-driving fullback with plenty of speed for a 210-pounder, was picked by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National League and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the All-America circuit.

In a matter of minutes, President Bill Cox of the Dodgers went into a huddle with Anthony J. Morabito, head of the 49ers, and Morabito announced the Dodgers had agreed to relinquish their rights to Blanchard in favor of the San Francisco Club thus giving the 49ers a free hand to deal with both members of the great double-barreled backfield combination.

In Detroit, meanwhile, a spokesman for the Lions said they were "keenly interested" in making a similar deal with Pittsburgh in order to try for both Blanchard and Davis but conceded that "Pittsburgh also is after our rights to Davis in hope it can get both the army aces in Steeler uniforms."

As for Davis, the Detroit official declared "we are prepared to make him just as good an offer—or even better—than the San Francisco 49ers." Only a few days ago, the Lions outbid the 49ers for Clyde Leforce, signing the Tulsa star to a two-year contract.

At Pittsburgh, a spokesman for the Steelers described the War Department announcement as a "surprise move" and declared:

"The idea was apparently the boys' own, as we did not initiate it. We'd certainly like to get Blanchard, but it's all up to the War department."

Davis and Blanchard have indicated a desire to remain together if they play professional football. To get them together in the National League in 1947, it would be necessary for the clubs to waive a rule which stipulates that new players must remain with the teams that draft them for one year before going to another.

DODGERS ACQUIRE SESSI FROM CARDS

BROOKLYN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Outfielder Walter Sessi, whose only 1946 home run gave the champion St. Louis Cardinals a vital late season victory, was acquired by the Brooklyn Dodgers today for the waiver price.

Sessi, a husky gentleman from Finleyville, Pa., alternated between first base and the outfield during his pre-war minor league career but was used as a pinch hitter by the World Champion Cardinals. He appeared in only 15 games and collected but two hits for a .143 average.

However, one of his hits came in dramatic fashion off Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants. With the Cards trailing, 2-1, one man on base, two out and two strikes on the batter, Sessi broke up the game with a home run.

Although the home run was hit against New York, it actually cost the Dodgers the pennant. If it had not been for that victory, the season might not have finished in the first tie in history.

Guarantee Not Posted

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Al-Weill, manager of heavyweight Arturo Godoy, said tonight that the $10,500 guarantee the Chilean boxer is supposed to get for meeting Joe Louis in Mexico City February 5, has not yet been posted in this country and that unless the money arrives soon his fighter will not take part in the exhibition.

Merrill May, Former Cumberland Player, Will Manage Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Merrill (Pinky) May, former infielder of the Philadelphia National League team, accepted terms today as playing manager of the Albany Senators of the Eastern Baseball League.

May will succeed James (Rip) Collins who resigned last fall to become pilot of the San Diego Club in the Pacific League.

May played third base for five years prior to entering the navy in October, 1943.

May starred as an outfielder with the Cumberland Colts of the Middle Atlantic League in 1932. He appeared in 86 games, fielded .968 and turned in a batting average of .264. The 1932 team was Cumberland's last in organized baseball.

Hugh Mulcahy Given Release

Twirler Negotiates With Four Teams

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Hugh Mulcahy, major league baseball's first entry into the armed services, today obtained his unconditional release from the Philadelphio Phillies and announmed he is neigotiating with four other clubs "because I feel a change will do me good."

Mulcahy, right hander who returned to the Phillies in the 1945 season to win one game and lose three after serving four and a half years in the army, requested his release from his home in Beaver, Pa. The request was granted in a telegram sent by Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phillies.

"I knew the Phillies were not banking on me much for this season," Mulcahy told the Associated Press, "and I am sure I still can be a winning pitcher."

The twirler said he has been engaging in road work for the last week and has only to get his arm in shape to be ready for the baseball season. He declined to name three of the clubs he has been in contact with, but did mention the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Denying reports that his pitching arm had bothered him throughout last year, Mulcahy said he experienced some difficulty in pitching during the beginning of spring training "but after a month something snapped in my shoulder and I didn't have any trouble after that."

Mulcahy first came to the Phillies in 1935 from Albany in the Eastern League as a protege of former Phillies' coach Jimmy Wilson. In 1937 he equalled Christy Matthewson's National League mark of 56 games worked in one year.

His best year was 1940, when he won 13 and lost 22 games.

He was called by his draft board on March 5, 1941, and served until Aug. 26, 1945. Last year he pitched in 16 games for the Phillies, winning two and losing four.

Dobbs Chosen Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Glenn Dobbs, one-time Tulsa University great and more recently halfback star of the Brooklyn Professional Dodgers, was named by the coaches of the All - American Conference today as the loop's most valuable player in 1946.

The coaches, attending the loop's mid-winter meetings here, had one vote each, with the stipulation that no coach could name one of his own players.

Five of the pilots picked the passing-running ace of the Brooklyns. The sixth—Cliff Battles of the Dodgers—named Otto Graham, halfback of the league champion Cleveland Browns. The San Francisco and Baltimore Coaches did not attend the meeting.

Greenleaf Seeks Damages

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, today filed an amended $300,000 damage suit against the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company, charging the firm barred him from the 1946 pocket billiards tournament held here recently.

Greenleaf, who now lives in Lancaster, Pa., originally filed suit Jan 3 against the company for $100,000. He now seeks triple damages under the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

Davis, Blanchard Seek Furloughs To Play Pro Ball

.... By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, Army's three-time All-America backfield stars, have elected to shelve their military careers temporarily—along with a third teammate, end Barney Poole—to cast their lot with the professionals in quest of gridiron gold.

This was disclosed today by the War Department, which announced in Washington that all three players have asked for four-month furloughs from army duty next fall in order to play professional football—unprecedented requests which at this moment are under consideration.

The announcement created a flurry of excitement among club owners of the All-America Conference, meeting here in annual session, and immediately touched off a series of maneuvers likely to reach a new high in the running battle between that loop and the rival National League.

No indication could be found in the brief announcement to hint what the War Department's final decision would be. The three players are scheduled for graduation from the military academy at West Point in June with commissions as second lieutenants.

Blaik Declines Comment

The academy itself took a position of official silence, with Head Coach Earl Blaik declining comment and Col. Ned Moore, head of the public relations office, indicating there would be no statement until after the War Department reached its decision. The players were not available for comment.

But words flew thick and fast at the All-America Conference meeting. Davis, one of the fastest halfbacks ever developed, was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers of the All-America loop and by the Detroit Lions of the National League. Blanchard, hard-driving fullback with plenty of speed for a 210-pounder, was picked by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National League and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the All-America circuit.

In a matter of minutes, President Bill Cox of the Dodgers went into a huddle with Anthony J. Morabito, head of the 49ers, and Morabito announced the Dodgers had agreed to relinquish their rights to Blanchard in favor of the San Francisco Club thus giving the 49ers a free hand to deal with both members of the great double-barreled backfield combination.

In Detroit, meanwhile, a spokesman for the Lions said they were "keenly interested" in making a similar deal with Pittsburgh in order to try fog both Blanchard and Davis but conceded that "Pittsburgh also is after our rights to Davis in hope it can get both the army aces in Steeler uniforms."

As for Davis, the Detroit official declared "we are prepared to make him just as good an offer—or even better—than the San Francisco 49ers." Only a few days ago, the Lions outbid the 49ers for Clyde Leforce, signing the Tulsa star to a two-year contract.

At Pittsburgh, a spokesman for the Steelers described the War Department announcement as a "surprise move" and declared:

"The idea was apparently the boys' own, as we did not initiate it. We'd certainly like to get Blanchard, but it's all up to the War department."

Davis and Blanchard have indicated a desire to remain together if they play professional football. To get them together in the National League in 1947, it would be necessary for the clubs to waive a rule which stipulates that new players must remain with the teams that draft them for one year before going to another.

PROFITABLE WORK FOR YOUNG MEN IN JAPAN

ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

You've heard of the fighting 1st Cavalry Division — first to reach Manila, first in Tokyo. Its men wear Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Kwajalein and Leyte.

Today, they're in Japan, and if you are otherwise qualified you can be one of them!

Sports, entertainment and travel opportunities are highly developed in this division's area. Luxurious hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses and ball parks provide more choice of pastime than is enjoyed by the average civilian at home.

High overseas pay (20% above domestic base pay), excelelnt medical and dental base pay), excellent medical and dental retirement plan make this opportunity too good to miss.

Young men who can meet prescribed standards, and who enlist for 3 years, are entitled to designate the 1st Cavalry Division (Mechanized) at time of enlistment. Initial training given before departure from U. S. Get full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 111 Union St., Cumberland, Md.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our only son, Jimmie Smith Lantz, who left us two years ago today, Jan. 31, 1945.
Memories are all we have left now,
But they bring a sweet abiding peace.

DADDY AND MAMMA, PAPA AND LILLIE.

In loving memory of George Fadley, who passed away two years ago today, January 30, 1945.

The way you would often grin and play
With little children along the way,
How I miss you, George, you will never know,
But it seems the best must always go.

Death Takes A Holiday

ISLE OF MAN — (AP) — Britain's "keep death off the road" campaign won a complete victory in 1946 on this little island of 220 squares miles. Officials reported that not a single one of the island's 50,000 people was killed in an automobile accident.

According to American Iron and Steel Institute estimates, the automotive industry received a fourth of total sheet and strip steel shipped in the first seven months of 1946.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Philosopher's Disease

Galem Drake, the American Broadcasting Company's answer to Kate Smith, is a courageous young man who presumes to tell housewives how to raise their children and how not to handle their husbands, a risky way to earn a living. Apparently the ladies don't take offense because he's presented (1:30 p. m. Mon.-Fri.) by the Housewives Protective League.

Mr. Drake dishes up his advice in a style of prose that has become not only fashionable but obligatory among the philosophers of the air waves. That is, he rambles along like a bartender, frequently leaving sentences hanging unfinished in the air and keeping well within the vocabulary bounds of his most limited listeners. His pronunciation is as shaggy as the next man's and his phrases are as familiar as the carpet in the front hall.

John Crosby

Not long ago, for instance, Mr. Drake got upset over a letter from a mother who wanted to know whether it was a smart idea to punish children by locking them in the closet. "How far below the belt can you hit?" demanded Mr. Drake indignantly. "You wanna give the kid a nice case of claustrophobia so he'll be scared to ride in elavators the rest of his life? Then go ahead—lock him in the closet. You'll fix it." He went on to castigate "the stem-winding jerks" who threatened to call the police when their children didn't behave. "In most neighborhoods, the corner cop is the best friend a kid has. To alieniate that guy is a dirty trick."

That's a characteristic sample both of the advice Mr. Drake hands out and the style in which it is delivered. The advice, you'll notice, is pretty good. About the best you can say for the prose is that it's coherent. You may be wise as an owl on these philosophical programs but your speech had best remain consistently inelegant or the housewives will dismiss you as a smarty-pants. At least, I can only suppose that is the theory under which Mr. Drake operates. It sounds like a questionable theory but it seems to work.

Mr. Drake, who refuses to allow anyone to photograph him for fear the housewives might be disillusioned by his youth, follows the white line as closely as possible. Yet, in spite of his efforts to remain just folks, he can't avoid sounding a little smug and sometimes even a little arrogant. It's one of the occupational hazards of the philosophy profession. You can't bandy around sweeping generalities day after day without beginning to sound that way.

Most philosophers, I suspect, begin to look that way, too. The only philospher I ever knew—an amateur who lives in Westchester—became so strikingly philosophical in appearance that his wife couldn't endure him. Pretty soon they were in the divorce courts and now their three kids have to shuttle back and forth between them. All three are losing weight and Bobby, the youngest, has developed a tic. It's rather a shame since their father still possesses one of the finest collections of generalities on marital relations and child care that I know.

To get back to Mr. Drake, his half hour is not entirely spent in philosophy. He also likes to tell stories of a "Believe It Or Not" nature, most of which happened many years ago. Recently he told about Dr. Emmons, an inventor who sold small but steady quantities of gold to the United States mint. Presently the Federal authorities got suspicious about the source of the gold. Dr. Emmons told them he made it out of silver and was amiable enough to give them the general outlines of the process. There was widespread alarm at this threat to the monetary system but nothing much ever came of the process. Dr. Emmons died about forty years ago and no one has ever duplicated his feat. I'm not sure I believe this story but Drake swears it's true and I offer it only as an example of what you'll hear on the Drake program.

Incidentally, the advertising on this program is above reproach. The Housewives Protective League is an organization of several hundred woman scattered around the country who voluntarily test all the products—and there are quite a few of them—advertised by Mr. Drake. Each of the women is given a list of the claims the manufacturer makes about his product. The housewives decide whether the claims are fair, misleading or just downright lies. The commercials are written around what the women think about the product, not what the company thinks.

This results in extraordinarily modest advertising. The soaps don't attract a lot of young men; they just get things clean. The catsup won't keep your husband home nights but it tastes good. I'm probably ahead of my time, but this form of down-to-earth advertising puts me in such a friendly mood that I buy the stuff.

GI Coolers Become London Bed Warmers

LONDON—(AP)—Thousands of GI canteens are being sold in a London department store to help keep shivering, electricity-rationed Britishers warm in bed.

"We're selling them as fast as we get them," said an elegant assistant, marshaling a lengthy queue in front of a pile of flasks which made the department store look strangely like a quartermaster's dump.

"People want them for hot water bottles," he added. "The canvas cases keep them beautifully warm all night, and they are going like hot cakes. The hotels are buying them by the thousands to air the beds."

Austria Develops Plastic Shoes

VIENNA—(AP)—A revolutionary type of footwear, made of plastic and guaranteed to withstand approximately 1,800 miles of walking, has been developed by Austrian industry.

The shoes are to be mass-produced and sold for the usual cost of leather shoes. A wide variety of styles is planned.

Chief drawback is that plastic has no pores and, unlike leather, offers no ventilation for the feet. Summer style shoes will probably feature open toes for both men and women.

Death Takes A Holiday

ISLE OF MAN — (AP) — Britain's "keep death off the road" campaign won a complete victory in 1946 on this little island of 220 squares miles. Officials reported that not a single one of the island's 50,000 people was killed in an automobile accident.

According to American Iron and Steel Institute estimates, the automotive industry received a fourth of total sheet and strip steel shipped in the first seven months of 1946.

RADIO IN REVIEW

Philosopher's Disease

Galem Drake, the American Broadcasting Company's answer to Kate Smith, is a courageous young man who presumes to tell housewives how to raise their children and how not to handle their husbands, a risky way to earn a living. Apparently the ladies don't take offense because he's presented (1:30 p. m. Mon.-Fri.) by the Housewives Protective League.

Mr. Drake dishes up his advice in a style of prose that has become not only fashionable but obligatory among the philosophers of the air waves. That is, he rambles along like a bartender, frequently leaving sentences hanging unfinished in the air and keeping well within the vocabulary bounds of his most limited listeners. His pronunciation is as shaggy as the next man's and his phrases are as familiar as the carpet in the front hall.

John Crosby

Not long ago, for instance, Mr. Drake got upset over a letter from a mother who wanted to know whether it was a smart idea to punish children by locking them in the closet. "How far below the belt can you hit?" demanded Mr. Drake indignantly. "You wanna give the kid a nice case of claustrophobia so he'll be scared to ride in elavators the rest of his life? Then go ahead—lock him in the closet. You'll fix it." He went on to castigate "the stem-winding jerks" who threatened to call the police when their children didn't behave. "In most neighborhoods, the corner cop is the best friend a kid has. To alieniate that guy is a dirty trick."

That's a characteristic sample both of the advice Mr. Drake hands out and the style in which it is delivered. The advice, you'll notice, is pretty good. About the best you can say for the prose is that it's coherent. You may be wise as an owl on these philosophical programs but your speech had best remain consistently inelegant or the housewives will dismiss you as a smarty-pants. At least, I can only suppose that is the theory under which Mr. Drake operates. It sounds like a questionable theory but it seems to work.

Mr. Drake, who refuses to allow anyone to photograph him for fear the housewives might be disillusioned by his youth, follows the white line as closely as possible. Yet, in spite of his efforts to remain just folks, he can't avoid sounding a little smug and sometimes even a little arrogant. It's one of the occupational hazards of the philosophy profession. You can't bandy around sweeping generalities day after day without beginning to sound that way.

Most philosophers, I suspect, begin to look that way, too. The only philospher I ever knew—an amateur who lives in Westchester—became so strikingly philosophical in appearance that his wife couldn't endure him. Pretty soon they were in the divorce courts and now their three kids have to shuttle back and forth between them. All three are losing weight and Bobby, the youngest, has developed a tic. It's rather a shame since their father still possesses one of the finest collections of generalities on marital relations and child care that I know.

To get back to Mr. Drake, his half hour is not entirely spent in philosophy. He also likes to tell stories of a "Believe It Or Not" nature, most of which happened many years ago. Recently he told about Dr. Emmons, an inventor who sold small but steady quantities of gold to the United States mint. Presently the Federal authorities got suspicious about the source of the gold. Dr. Emmons told them he made it out of silver and was amiable enough to give them the general outlines of the process. There was widespread alarm at this threat to the monetary system but nothing much ever came of the process. Dr. Emmons died about forty years ago and no one has ever duplicated his feat. I'm not sure I believe this story but Drake swears it's true and I offer it only as an example of what you'll hear on the Drake program.

Incidentally, the advertising on this program is above reproach. The Housewives Protective League is an organization of several hundred woman scattered around the country who voluntarily test all the products—and there are quite a few of them—advertised by Mr. Drake. Each of the women is given a list of the claims the manufacturer makes about his product. The housewives decide whether the claims are fair, misleading or just downright lies. The commercials are written around what the women think about the product, not what the company thinks.

This results in extraordinarily modest advertising. The soaps don't attract a lot of young men; they just get things clean. The catsup won't keep your husband home nights but it tastes good. I'm probably ahead of my time, but this form of down-to-earth advertising puts me in such a friendly mood that I buy the stuff.

GI Coolers Become London Bed Warmers

LONDON—(AP)—Thousands of GI canteens are being sold in a London department store to help keep shivering, electricity-rationed Britishers warm in bed.

"We're selling them as fast as we get them," said an elegant assistant, marshaling a lengthy queue in front of a pile of flasks which made the department store look strangely like a quartermaster's dump.

"People want them for hot water bottles," he added. "The canvas cases keep them beautifully warm all night, and they are going like hot cakes. The hotels are buying them by the thousands to air the beds."

Austria Develops Plastic Shoes

VIENNA—(AP)—A revolutionary type of footwear, made of plastic and guaranteed to withstand approximately 1,800 miles of walking, has been developed by Austrian industry.

The shoes are to be mass-produced and sold for the usual cost of leather shoes. A wide variety of styles is planned.

Chief drawback is that plastic has no pores and, unlike leather, offers no ventilation for the feet. Summer style shoes will probably feature open toes for both men and women.

Builders Resist Labor Demands For Wage Boosts

Bricklayers And Iron Workers Ask $2 Rate

The reported determination of Cumberland area contractors to hold the line on building costs and their concerted action in opposing demands for wage increases by two American Federation of Labor building craft unions may precipitate a crisis in the construction industry here next week.

Contractors reported that both Local 568, International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and Local 6, Bricklayers' Union, have notified them that wages for the crafts will be increased from $1.75 to $2 an hour effective Saturday, February 1.

The contractors have signed a petition asserting they will pay present rates prevailing in the Cumberland area but no more and have notified the locals to that effect, a spokesman said.

Contractors report they want to keep the price of homes down as low as possible in an effort to stimulate home construction and assert that any increase now, in the face of a general decrease in the cost of living is not justifiable.

May Change Program

In recent weeks, several local contractors have worked in close harmony with the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation to try to work out a building project here which will provide low-cost houses for veterans. A survey convinced contractors that a housing program is needed, and they have encouraged the housing group to proceed with its plans, realizing that such a project will provide steady work for local building tradesmen for many months.

It was indicated last night by an officer of the Veterans Housing Group that if wages are increased now, the whole program will probably have to be re-vamped, or the corporation will find it necessary to engage out of town contractors who can provide workmen at a price that will keep the proposed houses in the low cost bracket.

The carpenters recently, after studying the Veterans' Group plans, extended their present wage basis for several months, hoping this would help keep the costs of these houses within the estimates of the Housing Group, and to encourage them to proceed.

Since the designer of the project has calculated his costs on existing labor rates in all building trades, an increase in wages now will add just that much to the cost of each house and probably delay the project, he said yesterday.

One contractor said the local firms who made the pact had suggested that the matter be deferred until May. He added that the cost of wood is already decreasing.

E. L. Simon, business agent of the Iron Workers Union, said the local has notified the George F. Hazelwood and John I. Vandegrift companies that the local has set the wage scale at $2 per hour, effective Saturday, and added that if the firms do not pay that wage they will not get men.

Gives Wage Picture

He added the local petitioned the War Production Board for the increase in October, just before that agency went out of business, and then negotiated directly with the contractors here.

Simon said the rate for his craft has been $1.75 per hour in this area in spite of the fact that outside contractors who come in here have been paying up to $2.25 for iron workers.

The local, numbering about 110, has jurisdiction over part of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia and Simon said that when there are not enough workers available here workers are imported from outside the local and paid at the wage prevailing in their districts. Pittsburgh, he said, pays $2, Washington, $2.25 and Harrisburg, Pa., $2.15.

Stoppage Is Threatened

A spokesman for the Bricklayers Union confirmed the union demand for the $2 rate and a spokesman for a well known contractor said the union definitely said they were go-

Teachers' Group, Kopp Hold 5-Hour Salary Discussion

The legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association, Nelson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association and Charles L. Kopp, schools superintendent held a five-hour discussion on teachers salaries yesterday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Following the meeting in the Board of Education offices, Kopp said the discussion was preliminary in nature, and the results will not be revealed until the next meeting of the Allegany County Teachers Association which will be Saturday, February 8.

The association earlier this year appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and was granted a bonus that is expected to amount to $300. However, the grant applied to the present term of school only.

Since the bonus approval teachers, and other interested persons, have been campaigning for a state approved salary increase. Kopp has frequently indicated that he favors a raise for all teachers.

Local 708, Allegany County Teachers Union, AFL, Wednesday night adopted a program calling for a salary scale ranging from $2,400 for instructors with bachelor degrees to $4,000 for those with masters. Kopp, declined to comment on Union program, however, and said he has received no offical report of any action taken by the group.

He also declined to discuss the range of proposed salaries considered at the association meeting yesterday, declaring that anything discussed at the meeting was preliminary in nature and will be subject to change once it is presented to the organization membership when it meets.

H. C. Swearingen Re-Elected Head Community Chest

Two New Officers Selected By Group

Henry C. Swearingen was re-elected president of the Cumberland Community Chest yesterday afternoon along with two new officers, and Mrs. Gerard Everstine, who will serve another year as treasurer.

The new officers are Earl C. Robertson who will succeed Charles E. Bramble as vice-president and Mrs. William M. Somerville was elected to succeed Harold W. Smith, as secretary of the organization.

In addition to the four officers, who were installed following the election, five members of the executive committee were also elected. They include James W. Bishop, Frederic W. Eller, Roy W. Eves, Judge George Henderson, and Clarence Lippel.

The five members will serve on the executive committee along with the four officers who automatically become committee members by election to office.

A financial report submitted by Mr. Swearingen showed that all chest agencies had adequate funds for operating and held no unpaid bills as of January 1.

The financial statement given by Mrs. Everstine showed receipts for a period including the recent campaign and month of November totaling $45,306, and receipts for December totaling $5,809.58.

Dispersements during the same periods amounted to $4,762.56 for agency allotments, $311.50 for administrative expenses and $4,121.07 for campaign expenses totaling $9,195.13. The bank balance was given as $41,920.45.

A statement on campaign collections also showed that 70 per cent of the 1946-47 pledges have been collected representing $51,105.56 collected of the $72,727 pledged.

Delinquency Is Discussed By Kopp

A child is not born a delinquent, he becomes one, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County schools; said in an address on "Juvenile Delinquency", at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA yesterday at noon.

Mr. Kopp asked three questions —"What is delinquency?" "What are its causes?" and "What is its cure?" He spoke on each briefly asserting that according to history delinquency goes back to the time when Cain killed Abel.

The superintendent asserted that the background of a child has a lot to do with his behavior and that he has different viewpoints at various ages.

Four areas of influence were described by Mr. Kopp—1 age, when definite characteristics are developed; 2—family situation, which strongly influenced children; 3—behavior of the child in the society in which it is thrown and 4—of community influence, some organized and others unorganized.

As to the cure Mr. Kopp was frank to admit that he does not know the answer, but asserted emphatically that "we Americans have not begun to really meet the problem of educating our children, and are not making the concerted effort that should be made to make responsible citizens out of our children."

Walter T. Kline, who came here from Romney, W. Va., to succeed John F. Rodman, as head of the Transportation Department of Potomac Edison Company, was inducted into the club as a new member, with the introduction being made by William Claus, of the Club's Kiwanis Education Committee.

Owner Nabs Youth As Latter Enters Stolen Automobile

Kennell Stops Flight With Flying Tackle

A Corriganville youth, nabbed by the owner of a stolen car as he entered the vehicle, was held in City Jail last night and police said he was locked up for questioning in connection with the theft of the machine.

At the police station, the youth, booked as James Kennedy, about 19, attempted to flee, according to Desk Sgt. John E. Sherry, but was stopped in his tracks by Officer Arthur Kennell's flying tackle.

The automobile of Norman Geatz, 11 South Smallwood Street, was reported stolen from its parking place on North Mechanic Street, near Market, at 8:10 p. m., police said, but was marked "recovered" at 9 o'clock after the owner spotted the car on Frederick street near the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal.

Geatz went to Shober's restaurant after his car was taken and while there saw it being driven south on North Mechanic street, police said, adding he followed the car down Mechanic street, and noticed it parked across from the bus station.

On the belief that the person who took the car would return, Geatz hid in the back of the machine to wait for him, police related. As a man entered the front of the car, Geatz grabbed him. Then three or four young men in the vicinity held the man, later identified as Kennedy, while Geatz went to police headquarters for an officer, police said. Officer Kennell was sent to the scene to take Kennedy to headquarters.

At headquarters, Kennedy was booked and searched before being taken to a cell when he suddenly made a break for the front door, Sgt. Sherry said, but Officer Kennell stopped him with a flying tackle.

Police said Kennedy now is on federal probation after being tried in federal court on a charge of transporting a stolen car across a state line.

Cumberland Asked To Raise $6,500 For Greek Relief

Representatives of the local Greek community met last night together with a number of citizens, and made preliminary plans for Cumberland's participation in the 1947 nation-wide campaign for the Greek War Relief Association, Inc., to aid the millions of Greeks still suffering as a result of the war.

Harold R. Fletcher, president of Peoples Bank, was selected as local chairman of the campaign, and the group accepted a local goal of $6,500.

Various plans were discussed as to means of raising the local quota, and numerous suggestions were offered. It was decided that further discussion will be necessary, before a final method will be adopted, although several programs are under advisement, Fletcher said.

It was revealed that the Greek War Relief Association, is a non-profit corporation, under the general chairmanship of ex-president Herbert Hoover. It includes men and women of every creed and every nationality, in more than 970 U. S. urban and rural communities. The national goal is $12,000,000.

This amount of money is needed to provide food, medicine, clothing, shelter, hospitalization and immediate care for 2,000,000 under-nourished Greek children, 375 of whom are orphans; plus thousands of adults in great need of assistance.

Fletcher said he has been studying the plight of people in Greece and was amazed to learn that "this little nation had 24,000 soldiers killed in action; 400,000 Greeks starved or were executed; there are now over 375,000 orphans, 2,000,000 undernourished children and over half a million suffering from Tuberculosis.

After liberation of Greece from the Axis two years ago, UNRRA and GWRA took over the major relief and rehabilitation tasks in the little democracy. UNRRA terminates its career this year, despite the fact that relief needs for Greece's children and sick are at an alltime high.

Pete Drendrinos, Gus Anthony, Michael Valandas, Anthony D. Antonakos, Louis P. Soterakos, James Crom, Peter Koumanis and other local Greek citizens said they have been in communication with friends and relatives in the native country. Conditions are very bad there, they explain, and they give sincere and impressive expression of their feeling for plight of the country. For the past five or six years, the members of the local Greek community have collected money among themselves to aid their stricken countrymen.

Juvenile Council Is Instituted By Junior Order

National Official Presents Charter

"The establishment of a Juvenile Council in Cumberland, is a step forward and a great factor in nationwide efforts to eliminate juvenile delinquency," E. Willis Lamoreau, Baltimore, member of the National Control Board of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, said last night as he presented a charter to James W. Chenowith, 12-year-old first president of the new juvenile group.

The ceremony was held in the Junior Order Hall, Polk street, with about 200 members of the Junior Order, the Juveniie Council and guests attending.

Lamoreau continued, the Juvenile Councils, now being organized throughout the country are designed to "take the lads off the streets" and give them something worthwhile to do. The Councils, under the direct supervision of an Advisory Committee of each sponsoring Junior Order, will provide supervision for a program of recreation, education, entertainment and general activity which will help train boys for future leadership in their community, he stated.

Chenowith accepted the Charter in behalf of the Juvenile Council's 72 charter members.

There are two other similar organizations in the state, both in this county. Juvenile Council No. 1, sponsored by Valley Council No. 26, Jr. OUAM at Lonaconing has 153 members. Seventeen guests from that Council were present last night. Juvenile Council No. 3, has been instituted at Frostburg, sponsored by Mountain City Jr. OUAM No. 1. It has 170 members.

The local Council was instituted by C. P. Saylor, Hollidaysburg, Pa., national representative of the Benevolent department. Dent B. Rice, 130 Polk street, vice-councellor of the Jr. OUAM was master of ceremonies.

J. F. Zimmerman, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Frostburg, gave the invocation and Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of First Methodist Church pronounced the benediction. There was a musical program including instrumental duets by the Hiser brothers and vocal and piano solos by Mrs. Gertrude Rice and Miss Anne Fisher.

Besides Chenowith, the following officers will serve the first six months term.

Meetings will be held each Wednesday from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. at the Junior Order Hall.

Cumberland Soldier Returns Home From Guard Duty At Nazi Trial

Pfc. Lea Served In Nuremberg

Most Germans, especially the young women, still worship Hitler and believe he is living in hiding, according to Pfc. Aaron Lea, 20, who came home to Cumberland several days ago on terminal leave, after serving as a guard during the war crimes trial at Nuremberg, Germany, last year.

Pfc. Lea, only son of Mrs. Myrtle Lea, 530 North Mechanic street, expects to receive his discharge on February 10 after which he will return to work at the Celanese plant.

The stocky, light-haired young soldier recalled the tense excitement the night of last October 15, when Hermann Goering arrogant leader of Hitler's Luftwaffe, committed suicide in his cell at Nuremberg, by poisoning.

Was On Guard Duty

"I was on guard duty in the document room when it happened," Lea said. "Newspaper reporters were all over the place. Goering poisoned

Brother, Sister Hurt As Bicycle And Car Collide

Condition Of Boy Reported As Poor

A 12-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother were admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered when the bicycle they were riding collided with an automobile on Mt. Savage road near the Wellersburg road intersection.

The boy, reported to be in poor condition in the hospital, was listed as David Twigg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Twigg, Mt. Savage road. He was suffering from compound fractures of the right arm above and below the elbow and a compound fracture of the right leg above the knee.

His sister, Joan, suffered a fractured right leg. Her condition was reported to be good.

State Trooper Glen D. Folk, who is investigating, said Howard Cecil Crowe, 50, Mt. Savage, was driving toward Mt. Savage and noticed the children riding toward him on a bicycle after he rounded a curve.

Joan was operating the bicycle in a weaving fashion and the boy was riding on the bicycle with her, Folk said Crowe told him.

The children, Folk related, were thrown to the right side of the road, but the demolished bicycle hung on the bumper and was carried approximately 60 feet.

Crowe told officers he was not going fast, Folk said, adding that there were no skid marks on the road.

Crowe stopped and with the children was brought to Allegany Hospital by Ira R. Karns, Hollidaysburg, Pa., a passing motorist.

Cab Driver Makes Reply To Charge By Ministers

Some ministers fail to obtain many weddings to perform because their churches impose restrictions on them, Edward R. Willison, Court House taxi stand operator, said yesterday in replying to a ministers' committee's charges that unethical marriage practices exist in Cumberland.

"Some ministers will not marry couples who have been divorced," Willison said. "Others question the age qualifications of younger couples, and some have 72-hour waiting periods after a license is issued."

While he was not mentioned by name in a story released Wednesday by a committee of the Ministerial Association, Willison said he was aware they were referring to him. He said he would like to point out that he pays $200 a year in insurance, city fee and chauffeur's licenses to maintain his cab business at the Court House and is a taxi driver hauling all types of fares.

Actually, there are between 50 and 60 cab drivers who bring fares to the Court House, Willison said. Wednesday, 26 couples obtained licenses to be wed, and of the 26 he only carried four, he added.

"I'm no loiterer", Willison said "No one is a loiterer when he pays $200 a year to maintain a business."

Willison said he is of the opinion the ministers are not being just when they single him out for criticism since taxi operation is a legitimate business and represents his livelihood.

Court House attaches pointed out that Willison does not maintain a watch at the bus stations and railroad terminals for young couples as some drivers have done. Recently, it was reported, Court judges had occasion to sharply criticize one driver who had been operating from a terminal, with the Court stating that reports had been received that he had been advising out-of-state couples to declare themselves as Marylanders in an effort to obtain waivers.

Willison said that the ministers also were apparently criticizing Hugh J. Kelly, 75, who was given the right to work in the Court House by Police Commissioner William V. Keegan, after he failed to obtain his old age pension.

Kelly rides with couples occasionally in directing them, Willison said. On many days he only has one job or not any, the driver declared.

Willison also said that his experience has shown that a majority of young couples coming here want to be married as soon as possible and do not wish delays.

Police Fear U. S. Pigeon Will Die

City Police are confronted with the problem of what to do with a United States carrier pigeon that had the misfortune to suffer an undetermined injury and is now roosting in the squad room "just waiting to die."

Officer Carl Stouffer found the pigeon Wednesday night on Davidson street and explained that it was lying on the ground unable to fly. . .or even walk. He brought it to headquarters where a loft was provided and all of the "unskilled" help possible given.

Yesterday afternoon police announced sadly that the "pretty bluish white" bird had drunk a few drops of water in the morning, but refused any of the bird seed and corn purchased by two of the officers who are deeply interested in seeing the bird recover.

A serial number was taken from the band around the pigeon's leg and police said it was identified as a U. S. Carrier bird, but added no message was found when the bird was picked up.

The only statement police had last night was "it looks like it's going to die."

Winfield H. Adam Is Named Boys' Secretary At "Y"

Appointment To Be Effective Tomorrow

Winfield Hill Adam, Towson, who served in the United States Maritime Service during the war, has been appointed program and boys' secretary at Central YMCA, Robert L. Sisson, general secretary, announced last night.

The appointment, effective February 1, was made at a meeting of the executive and personnel committees at the "Y" yesterday afternoon, with Adolf Blunk, newly elected president of the "Y" and chairman of the executive committee, presiding. Edward R. Allan is chairman of the personnel committee.

Adam, a native of Paterson, N. J., was graduated from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., in 1939. He took a year of graduate work in theology at Oberlin College, Oberlin, O., after which he served at the Baltimore YMCA as young men's and membership secretary from 1940 until 1942.

Serving as chief purser aboard troopships of the War Shipping Administration, Adams held the rank of lieutenant (junior grade) and made eight cruises to various world ports. He was placed on an inactive basis in November, and returned to Towson, where his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Adams, and their 19-month-old son, David Hill, are residing.

Adam will assist Sisson in carrying on YMCA programs, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Oscar I. Bergstrom as associate general secretary last May 13. Bergstrom, who is now general secretary at the Bristol, R. I., YMCA, was in the class ahead of Adam at Springfield College.

Other committee members attending yesterday's meeting were Lloyd Rawlings, Roy W. Eves, James W. Bishop and Miles G. Thompson.

Trucking Company Sued For $10,000

A suit for damages for $10,000 in the death of Robert E. Dorsey, of Keyser, W. Va., against Thomas Dailey, trading as Dailey Trucking Company was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by William L. Wilson, Jr., ancillary administrator of the estate of Robert E. Dorsey.

The document explains that Dorsey was killed in a truck accident September 26, 1945 on State Highway No. 9, in Morgan County, W. Va., while he was riding with Howard L. Broadwater who drove a truck owned by Dailey. The truck ran off the road while traveling at a high speed, the petition states, and Dorsey died after the truck hit a tree.

Dorsey left a widow, Mrs. Flo Dorsey and five children, Robert E. Dorsey, Jr., Joseph, Eugene Janice and Sandra, who would receive any damages awarded by the court.

Suit was also filed by Thomas H. Taylor, against Donald Watson and Ernest Wilson, for $500 damages to Taylor's car when a collision between the car and a truck owned by Watson and operated by Wilson, collided on Vale Summit road, December 24, 1945. Taylor's car was being driven at the time by Aldon P. Brasure.

A divorce decree has been signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster, granting a divorce to Bernice L. Crutchley from Alfred C. Crutchley and giving her the custody of four minor children. Crutchley was ordered to pay her $90 per month for the support of the children.

Bill of complaint was filed by Emily G. Simmons vs. Lawrence J. Simmons.

A petition for a partial divorce was filed for Shirley Mae Swan, a minor, by her mother, Mrs. Grace Pearl Groves, against Kenneth Douglas Swan. The court ordered the husband to pay $40 counsel fees and $20 a week to the wife pending a hearing.

Accused Kidnaper, Victim Released On $1,000 Bond

Georgia Police Say Warrant Was Mailed

Edward Morris, Staunton, Va., arrested here Wednesday night on a kidnaping charge, along with Wilson Whitlow, crippled Commerce, Ga., youth, identified as the abducted victim, were released yesterday afternoon on a joint bond of $1,000 following a habeas corpus hearing in Circuit Court.

Hope D. Starke, Jackson County, Ga., solicitor general, declared last night that the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Whitlow, want him returned at any cost, and added "the neighbors are aroused over the crippled boy being inveigled away from home."

Sgt. Eugene Hollis, Georgia State Police, said a warrant charging Morris with kidnaping Whitlow was mailed to Cumberland police yesterday morning at 1:45 o'clock, but may be delayed by bad weather, since it was sent via air mail.

Causing a youth under the age of 18 to leave home by inveigeling him to accompany a person is a violation of the law in Georgia, Sgt. Hollis declared, and added that the boy left directly against the consent of his parents.

Boy Says He's 18

The boy's parents gave his age as 16, Sgt. Hollis said, but local police asserted Wednesday night that Whitlow, who has been working with a crew of 15 others as a magazine salesman under Morris, gave his age as 18.

The joint bond under which Morris and Whitlow were released was issued because when a joint habeas corpus proceeding is taken into court, it necessitates that the $1,000 be posted before either man can be released, and also requires that both men appear for the hearing.

A warrant charging Morris with being a "fugitive from justice," was sworn to by Lt. Detective R. Emmett Flynn, Cumberland Police Department, so the two men could be held until the warrant charging Morris with kidnaping arrives from Georgia, police declared.

During the hearing yesterday, Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson would not allow Edward J. Ryan, who represented the pair at the hearing, to present any evidence concerning the kidnaping, but said a second hearing will be held Monday after the warrant arrives, to determine if there is "good and sufficient cause" for holding Morris and Whitlow.

Both men were taken into custody Wednesday night at the Olympia Hotel, North Mechanic Street, after local police were notified that they were wanted in Georgia.

Immediately following the arrest, Morris and J. B. Reinhardt, another overseer of the crew of salesmen who were working in the city, termed the charge absurd, and said Whitlow's grandparents had given their consent before the boy left home on December 12 to join the crew.

Georgia authorities said that the boy's parents gave their consent for him to go to Macon, Ga., with Morris "for a few days," but added that he has traveled through a number of southern states without returning home. Sgt. Hollis said that the parents had received a couple of letters and a post card from Morris and their son since he left home, and about three weeks ago the youth sent $7 home.

Ryan declared yesterday that Whitlaw denied that he had been forced or inveigled to leave home, and said the youth admitted he was with Morris of his own free will.

Morris in an interview, declared that he met Whitlow on the street in Commerce and offered him a job, but said that he spent several hours at the Whitlow home talking to the boy's grandparents before they finally departed.

Worked In Several States

He said the boy was poorly dressed when he joined the salesmen's staff, and that he has earned between $40 and $50 a week since he began taking subscriptions. Morris admitted that they have traveled through several states, but said the boys are constantly under his supervision, and have never been in any trouble.

During the hearing, Ryan raised a question that may prove a knotty problem to local judicial authorities when he said, "Georgia can't decide who is governor of the state, who will sign the extradition papers." Judge Henderson said if such a

Telephone Service May Be Restored This Afternoon

Telephone service on 85 lines that have been out of order because of cable failure since early yesterday morning probably will be restored this afternoon, company officials said last night.

Crews, working through the night, were handicapped when a wooden plug in a city water main gave way and water flooded the hole in which repairmen were working at the intersection of South Centre and Pershing streets.

Water was fountaining several feet into the air above the ditch at 11:30 p. m. A pump could not work fast enough to clear the hole of water, but city workers were preparing late last night to shut off the flow of water in the pipe, which serves that immediate section.

Telephone company officials indicated that water may have seeped out around the plug and into the cable, causing a short circuit which resulted in cable failure.

Pershing street between Liberty and Centre streets, and South Centre between Union and Baltimore streets were closed because of workmen attempting to make repairs.

Service on Cumberland and Fayette streets and some parts of North Centre, North Liberty and South Centre streets began failing sometime after 1 a. m. yesterday and eventually affected 120 lines, according to officials of the company, but they were able to restore service on 30 of those lines last night.

Builders Resist Labor Demands For Wage Boosts

Bricklayers And Iron Workers Ask $2 Rate

The reported determination of Cumberland area contractors to hold the line on building costs and their concerted action in opposing demands for wage increases by two American Federation of Labor building craft unions may precipitate a crisis in the construction industry here next week.

Contractors reported that both Local 568, International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and Local 6, Bricklayers Union, have notified them that wages for the crafts will be increased from $1.75 to $2 an hour effective Saturday, February 1.

The contractors have signed a petition asserting they will pay present rates prevailing in the Cumberland area but no more and have notified the locals to that effect, a spokesman said.

Contractors report they want to keep the price of homes down as low as possible in an effort to stimulate home construction and assert that any increase now, in the face of a general decrease in the cost of living is not justifiable.

May Change Program

In recent weeks, several local contractors have worked in close harmony with the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation to try to work out a building project here which will provide low-cost houses for veterans. A survey convinced contractors that a housing program is needed, and they have encouraged the housing group to proceed with its plans, realizing that such a project will provide steady work for local building tradesmen for many months.

It was indicated last night by an officer of the Veterans Housing Group that if wages are increased now, the whole program will probably have to be re-vamped, or the corporation will find it necessary to engage out of town contractors who can provide workmen at a price that will keep the proposed houses in the low cost bracket.

The carpenters recently, after studying the Veterans' Group plans, extended their present wage basis for several months, hoping this would help keep the costs of these houses within the estimates of the Housing Group, and to encourage them to proceed.

Since the designer of the project has calculated his costs on existing labor rates in all building trades, an increase in wages now will add just that much to the cost of each house and probably delay the project, he said yesterday.

One contractor said the local firms who made the pact had suggested that the matter be deferred until May. He added that the cost of wood is already decreasing.

E. L. Simon, business agent of the Iron Workers Union, said the local has notified the George F. Hazelwood and John I. Vandegrift companies that the local has set the wage scale at $2 per hour, effective Saturday, and added that if the firms do not pay that wage they will not get men.

Gives Wage Picture

He added the local petitioned the War Production Board for the increase in October, just before that agency went out of business, and then negotiated directly with the contractors here.

Simon said the rate for his craft has been $1.75 per hour in this area in spite of the fact that outside contractors who come in here have been paying up to $2.25 for iron workers.

The local, numbering about 110, has jurisdiction over part of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia and Simon said that when there are not enough workers available here workers are imported from outside the local and paid at the wage prevailing in their districts. Pittsburgh, he said, pays $2, Washington, $2.25 and Harrisburg, Pa., $2.15.

Stoppage Is Threatened

A spokesman for the Bricklayers Union confirmed the union demand for the $2 rate and a spokesman for a well known contractor said the union definitely said they were go-

Teachers' Group, Kopp Hold 5-Hour Salary Discussion

The legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association, Nelson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association and Charles L. Kopp, schools superintendent held a five-hour discussion on teachers salaries yesterday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Following the meeting in the Board of Education offices, Kopp said the discussion was preliminary in nature, and the results will not be revealed until the next meeting of the Allegany County Teachers Association which will be Saturday, February 8.

The association earlier this year appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and was granted a bonus that is expected to amount to $300. However, the grant applied to the present term of school only.

Since the bonus approval teachers, and other interested persons, have been campaigning for a state approved salary increase. Kopp has frequently indicated that he favors a raise for all teachers.

Local 708, Allegany County Teachers Union, AFL, Wednesday night adopted a program calling for a salary scale ranging from $2,400 for instructors with bachelor degrees to $4,000 for those with masters. Kopp, declined to comment on Union program, however, and said he has received no offical report of any action taken by the group.

He also declined to discuss the range of proposed salaries considered at the association meeting yesterday, declaring that anything discussed at the meeting was preliminary in nature and will be subject to change once it is presented to the organization membership when it meets.

The new officers are Earl C. Robertson who will succeed Charles E. Bramble as vice-president and Mrs. William M. Somerville was elected to succeed Harold W. Smith, as secretary of the organization.

In addition to the four officers, who were installed following the election, five members of the executive committee were also elected. They include James W. Bishop, Frederic W. Eller, Roy W. Eves, Judge George Henderson, and Clarence Lippel.

The five members will serve on the executive committee along with the four officers who automatically become committee members by election to office.

A financial report submitted by Mr. Swearingen showed that all chest agencies had adequate funds for operating and held no unpaid bills as of January 1.

The financial statement given by Mrs. Everstine showed receipts for a period including the recent campaign and month of November totaling $45,306, and receipts for December totaling $5,809.58.

Dispersements during the same periods amounted to $4,762.56 for agency allotments, $311.50 for administrative expenses and $4,121.07 for campaign expenses totaling $9,195.13. The bank balance was given as $41,920.45.

A statement on campaign collections also showed that 70 per cent of the 1946-47 pledges have been collected representing $51,105.56 collected of the $72,727 pledged.

Delinquency Is Discussed By Kopp

A child is not born a delinquent, he becomes one, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County schools; said in an address on "Juvenile Delinquency", at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA yesterday at noon.

Mr. Kopp asked three questions —"What is delinquency?" "What are its causes?" and "What is its cure?" He spoke on each briefly asserting that according to history delinquency goes back to the time when Cain killed Abel.

The superintendent asserted that the background of a child has a lot to do with his behavior and that he has different viewpoints at various ages.

Four areas of influence were described by Mr. Kopp—1 age, when definite characteristics are developed; 2—family situation, which strongly influenced children; 3—behavior of the child in the society in which it is thrown and 4—of community influence, some organized and others unorganized.

As to the cure Mr. Kopp was frank to admit that he does not know the answer, but asserted emphatically that "we Americans have not begun to really meet the problem of educating our children, and are not making the concerted effort that should be made to make responsible citizens out of our children."

Walter T. Kline, who came here from Romney, W. Va., to succeed John F. Rodman, as head of the Transportation Department of Potomac Edison Company, was inducted into the club as a new member, with the introduction being made by William Claus, of the Club's Kiwanis Education Committee.

Owner Nabs Youth As Latter Enters Stolen Automobile

Kennell Stops Flight With Flying Tackle

A Corriganville youth, nabbed by the owner of a stolen car as he entered the vehicle, was held in City Jail last night and police said he was locked up for questioning in connection with the theft of the machine.

At the police station, the youth, booked as James Kennedy, about 19, attempted to flee, according to Desk Sgt. John E. Sherry, but was stopped in his tracks by Officer Arthur Kennell's flying tackle.

The automobile of Norman Geatz, 11 South Smallwood Street, was reported stolen from its parking place on North Mechanic Street, near Market, at 8:10 p. m., police said, but was marked "recovered" at 9 o'clock after the owner spotted the car on Frederick street near the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal.

Geatz went to Shober's restaurant after his car was taken and while there saw it being driven south on North Mechanic street, police said, adding he followed the car down Mechanic street, and noticed it parked across from the bus station.

On the belief that the person who took the car would return, Geatz hid in the back of the machine to wait for him, police related. As a man entered the front of the car, Geatz grabbed him. Then three or four young men in the vicinity held the man, later identified as Kennedy, while Geatz went to police headquarters for an officer, police said. Officer Kennell was sent to the scene to take Kennedy to headquarters.

At headquarters, Kennedy was booked and searched before being taken to a cell when he suddenly made a break for the front door, Sgt. Sherry said, but Officer Kennell stopped him with a flying tackle.

Police said Kennedy now is on federal probation after being tried in federal court on a charge of transporting a stolen car across a state line.

Cumberland Asked To Raise $6,500 For Greek Relief

Representatives of the local Greek community met last night together with a number of citizens, and made preliminary plans for Cumberland's participation in the 1947 nation-wide campaign for the Greek War Relief Association, Inc., to aid the millions of Greeks still suffering as a result of the war.

Harold R. Fletcher, president of Peoples Bank, was selected as local chairman of the campaign, and the group accepted a local goal of $6,500.

Various plans were discussed as to means of raising the local quota, and numerous suggestions were offered. It was decided that further discussion will be necessary, before a final method will be adopted, although several programs are under advisement, Fletcher said.

It was revealed that the Greek War Relief Association, is a non-profit corporation, under the general chairmanship of ex-president Herbert Hoover. It includes men and women of every creed and every nationality, in more than 970 U. S. urban and rural communities. The national goal is $12,000,000.

This amount of money is needed to provide food, medicine, clothing, shelter, hospitalization and immediate care for 2,000,000 under-nourished Greek children, 375 of whom are orphans; plus thousands of adults in great need of assistance.

Fletcher said he has been studying the plight of people in Greece and was amazed to learn that "this little nation had 24,000 soldiers killed in action; 400,000 Greeks starved or were executed; there are now over 375,000 orphans, 2,000,000 undernourished children and over half a million suffering from Tuberculosis.

After liberation of Greece from the Axis two years ago, UNRRA and GWRA took over the major relief and rehabilitation tasks in the little democracy. UNRRA terminates its career this year, despite the fact that relief needs for Greece's children and sick are at an alltime high.

Pete Drendrinos, Gus Anthony, Michael Valandas, Anthony D. Antonakos, Louis P. Soterakos, James Crom, Peter Koumanis and other local Greek citizens said they have been in communication with friends and relatives in the native country. "Conditions are very bad there, they explain, and they give sincere and impressive expression of their feeling for plight of the country. For the past five or six years, the members of the local Greek community have collected money among themselves to aid their stricken countrymen.

Juvenile Council Is Instituted By Junior Order

National Official Presents Charter

"The establishment of a Juvenile Council in Cumberland, is a step forward and a great factor in nationwide efforts to eliminate juvenile delinquency," E. Willis Lamoreau, Baltimore, member of the National Control Board of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, said last night as he presented a charter to James W. Chenowith, 12-year-old first president of the new juvenile group.

The ceremony was held in the Junior Order Hall, Polk street, with about 200 members of the Junior Order, the Juvenile Council and guests attending.

Lamoreau continued, the Juvenile Councils, now being organized throughout the country are designed to "take the lads off the streets" and give them something worthwhile to do. The Councils, under the direct supervision of an Advisory Committee of each sponsoring Junior Order, will provide supervision for a program of recreation, education, entertainment and general activity which will help train boys for future leadership in their community, he stated.

Chenowith accepted the Charter in behalf of the Juvenile Council's 72 charter members.

There are two other similar organizations in the state, both in this county. Juvenile Council No. 1, sponsored by Valley Council No. 26, Jr. OUAM at Lonaconing has 153 members. Seventeen guests from that Council were present last night. Juvenile Council No. 3, has been instituted at Frostburg, sponsored by Mountain City Jr. OUAM No. 1. It has 170 members.

The local Council was instituted by C. P. Saylor, Hollidaysburg, Pa., national representative of the Benevolent department. Dent B. Rice, 130 Polk street, vice-councellor of the Jr. OUAM was master of ceremonies.

J. F. Zimmerman, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Frostburg, gave the invocation and Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of First Methodist Church pronounced the benediction. There was a musical program including instrumental duets by the Hiser brothers and vocal and piano solos by Mrs. Gertrude Rice and Miss Anne Fisher.

Besides Chenowith, the following officers will serve the first six months term.

Associate officers are Charles Hinze, president; Earl E. Royce, vice-president; Donald Shade, junior past president; Paul Landis treasurer; Vernon P. Shrout, warden; John C. Walker, outer sentinel; and Robert F. Swauger, inner sentinel.

Meetings will be held each Wednesday from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. at the Junior Order Hall.

Cumberland Soldier Returns Home From Guard Duty At Nazi Trial

Pfc. Lea Served In Nuremberg

Most Germans, especially the young women, still worship Hitler and believe he is living in hiding, according to Pfc. Aaron Lea, 20, who came home to Cumberland several days ago on terminal leave, after serving as a guard during the war crimes trial at Nuremberg, Germany, last year.

Pfc. Lea, only son of Mrs. Myrtle Lea, 530 North Mechanic street, expects to receive his discharge on February 10, after which he will return to work at the Celanese plant.

The stocky, light-haired young soldier recalled the tense excitement the night of last October 15, when Hermann Goering arrogant leader of Hitler's Luftwaffe, committed suicide in his cell at Nuremberg, by poisoning.

Was On Guard Duty

"I was on guard duty in the document room when it happened," Lea said. "Newspaper reporters were all over the place. Goering poisoned

Condition Of Boy Reported As Poor

A 12-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother were admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered when the bicycle they were riding collided with an automobile on Mt. Savage road near the Wellersburg road intersection.

The boy, reported to be in poor condition in the hospital, was listed as David Twigg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Twigg, Mt. Savage road. He was suffering from compound fractures of the right arm above and below the elbow and a compound fracture of the right leg above the knee.

His sister, Joan, suffered a fractured right leg. Her condition was reported to be good.

State Trooper Glen D. Folk, who is investigating, said Howard Cecil Crowe, 50, Mt. Savage, was driving toward Mt. Savage and noticed the children riding toward him on a bicycle after he rounded a curve.

Joan was operating the bicycle in a weaving fashion and the boy was riding on the bicycle with her, Folk said Crowe told him.

He added that Crowe said he swerved to the left as he neared the bicycle but that the wheel collided with his front bumper and grill.

The children, Folk related, were thrown to the right side of the road, but the demolished bicycle hung on the bumper and was carried approximately 60 feet.

Crowe told officers he was not going fast, Folk said, adding that there were no skid marks on the road.

Crowe stopped and with the children was brought to Allegany Hospital by Ira R. Karns, Hollidaysburg, Pa., a passing motorist.

Cab Driver Makes Reply To Charge By Ministers

Some ministers fail to obtain many weddings to perform because their churches impose restrictions on them, Edward R. Willison, Court House taxi stand operator, said yesterday in replying to a ministers' committee's charges that unethical marriage practices exist in Cumberland.

"Some ministers will not marry couples who have been divorced," Willison said. "Others question the age qualifications of younger couples, and some have 72-hour waiting periods after a license is issued."

While he was not mentioned by name in a story released Wednesday by a committee of the Ministerial Association, Willison said he was aware they were referring to him. He said he would like to point out that he pays $200 a year in insurance, city fee and chauffeur's licenses to maintain his cab business at the Court House and is a taxi driver hauling all types of fares.

Actually, there are between 50 and 60 cab drivers who bring fares to the Court House, Willison said. Wednesday, 26 couples obtained licenses to be wed, and of the 26 he only carried four, he added.

"I'm no loiterer", Willison said "No one is a loiterer when he pays $200 a year to maintain a business."

Willison said he is of the opinion the ministers are not being just when they single him out for criticism since taxi operation is a legitimate business and represents his livelihood.

Court House attaches pointed out that Willison does not maintain a watch at the bus stations and railroad terminals for young couples as some drivers have done. Recently, it was reported, Court judges had occasion to sharply criticize one driver who had been operating from a terminal, with the Court stating that reports had been received that he had been advising out-of-state couples to declare themselves as Marylanders in an effort to obtain waivers.

Willison said that the ministers also were apparently criticizing Hugh J. Kelly, 75, who was given the right to work in the Court House by Police Commissioner William V. Keegan, after he failed to obtain his old age pension.

Kelly rides with couples occasionally in directing them, Willison said. On many days he only has one job or not any, the driver declared.

Willison also said that his experience has shown that a majority of young couples coming here want to be married as soon as possible and do not wish delays.

Police Fear U. S. Pigeon Will Die

City Police are confronted with the problem of what to do with a United States carrier pigeon that had the misfortune to suffer an undetermined injury and is now roosting in the squad room "just waiting to die."

Officer Carl Stouffer found the pigeon Wednesday night on Davidson street and explained that it was lying on the ground unable to fly. . .or even walk. He brought it to headquarters where a loft was provided and all of the "unskilled" help possible given.

Yesterday afternoon police announced sadly that the "pretty bluish white" bird had drunk a few drops of water in the morning, but refused any of the bird seed and corn purchased by two of the officers who are deeply interested in seeing the bird recover.

A serial number was taken from the band around the pigeon's leg and police said it was identified as a U. S. Carrier bird, but added no message was found when the bird was picked up.

The only statement police had last night was "it looks like it's going to die."

Winfield H. Adam Is Named Boys' Secretary At "Y"

Appointment To Be Effective Tomorrow

Winfield Hill Adam, Towson, who served in the United States Maritime Service during the war, has been appointed program and boys' secretary at Central YMCA, Robert L. Sisson, general secretary, announced last night.

The appointment, effective February 1, was made at a meeting of the executive and personnel committees at the "Y" yesterday afternoon, with Adolf Blunk, newly elected president of the "Y" and chairman of the executive committee, presiding. Edward R. Allan is chairman of the personnel committee.

Adam, a native of Paterson, N. J., was graduated from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., in 1939. He took a year of graduate work in theology at Oberlin College, Oberlin, O., after which he served at the Baltimore YMCA as young men's and membership secretary from 1940 until 1942.

Serving as chief purser aboard troopships of the War Shipping Administration, Adams held the rank of lieutenant (junior grade) and made eight cruises to various world ports. He was placed on an inactive basis in November, and returned to Towson, where his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Adams, and their 19-month-old son, David Hill, are residing.

Adam will assist Sisson in carrying on YMCA programs, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Oscar I. Bergstrom as associate general secretary last May 13. Bergstrom, who is now general secretary at the Bristol, R. I., YMCA, was in the class ahead of Adam at Springfield College.

Other committee members attending yesterday's meeting were Lloyd Rawlings, Roy W. Eves, James W. Bishop and Miles G. Thompson.

Trucking Company Sued For $10,000

A suit for damages for $10,000 in the death of Robert E. Dorsey, of Keyser, W. Va., against Thomas Dailey, trading as Dailey Trucking Company was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by William L. Wilson, Jr., ancillary administrator of the estate of Robert E. Dorsey.

The document explains that Dorsey was killed in a truck accident September 26, 1945 on State Highway No. 9, in Morgan County, W. Va., while he was riding with Howard L. Broadwater who drove a truck owned by Dailey. The truck ran off the road while traveling at a high speed, the petition states, and Dorsey died after the truck hit a tree.

Dorsey left a widow, Mrs. Flo Dorsey and five children, Robert E. Dorsey, Jr., Joseph, Eugene Janice and Sandra, who would receive any damages awarded by the Court.

Suit was also filed by Thomas H. Taylor, against Donald Watson and Ernest Wilson, for $500 damages to Taylor's car when a collision between the car and a truck owned by Watson and operated by Wilson, collided on Vale Summit road, December 24, 1945. Taylor's car was being driven at the time by Aldon P. Brasure.

A divorce decree has been signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster, granting a divorce to Bernice L. Crutchley from Alfred C. Crutchley and giving her the custody of four minor children. Crutchley was ordered to pay her $90 per month for the support of the children.

Bill of complaint was filed by Emily G. Simmons vs. Lawrence J. Simmons.

A petition for a partial divorce was filed for Shirley Mae Swan, a minor, by her mother, Mrs. Grace Pearl Groves, against Kenneth Douglas Swan. The court ordered the husband to pay $40 counsel fees and $20 a week to the wife pending a hearing.

Accused Kidnaper, Victim Released On $1,000 Bond

Georgia Police Say Warrant Was Mailed

Edward Morris, Staunton, Va., arrested here Wednesday night on a kidnaping charge, along with Wilson Whitlow, crippled Commerce, Ga., youth, identified as the abducted victim, were released yesterday afternoon on a joint bond of $1,000 following a habeas corpus hearing in Circuit Court.

Hope D. Starke, Jackson County, Ga., solicitor general, declared last night that the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Whitlow, want him returned at any cost, and added "the neighbors are aroused over the crippled boy being inveigled away from home."

Sgt. Eugene Hollis, Georgia State Police, said a warrant charging Morris with kidnaping Whitlow was mailed to Cumberland police yesterday morning at 1:45 o'clock, but may be delayed by bad weather, since it was sent via air mail.

Causing a youth under the age of 18 to leave home by inveigeling him to accompany a person is a violation of the law in Georgia, Sgt. Hollis declared, and added that the boy left directly against the consent of his parents.

Boy Says He's 18

The boy's parents gave his age as 16, Sgt. Hollis said, but local police asserted Wednesday night that Whitlow, who has been working with a crew of 15 others as a magazine salesman under Morris, gave his age as 18.

The joint bond under which Morris and Whitlow were released was issued because when a joint habeas corpus proceeding is taken into court, it necessitates that the $1,000 be posted before either man can be released, and also requires that both men appear for the hearing.

A warrant charging Morris with being a "fugitive from justice," was sworn to by Lt. Detective R. Emmett Flynn, Cumberland Police Department, so the two men could be held until the warrant charging Morris with kidnaping arrives from Georgia, police declared.

During the hearing yesterday, Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson would not allow Edward J. Ryan, who represented the pair at the hearing, to present any evidence concerning the kidnaping, but said a second hearing will be held Monday after the warrant arrives, to determine if there is "good and sufficient cause" for holding Morris and Whitlow.

Both men were taken into custody Wednesday night at the Olympia Hotel, North Mechanic Street, after local police were notified that they were wanted in Georgia.

Immediately following the arrest, Morris and J. B. Reinhardt, another overseer of the crew of salesmen who were working in the city, termed the charge absurd, and said Whitlow's grandparents had given their consent before the boy left home on December 12 to join the crew.

Georgia authorities said that the boy's parents gave their consent for him to go to Macon, Ga., with Morris "for a few days," but added that he has traveled through a number of southern states without returning home. Sgt. Hollis said that the parents had received a couple of letters and a post card from Morris and their son since he left home, and about three weeks ago the youth sent $7 home.

Ryan declared yesterday that Whitlaw denied that he had been forced or inveigled to leave home, and said the youth admitted he was with Morris of his own free will.

Morris in an interview, declared that he met Whitlow on the street in Commerce and offered him a job, but said that he spent several hours at the Whitlow home talking to the boy's grandparents before they finally departed.

Worked In Several States

He said the boy was poorly dressed when he joined the salesmen's staff, and that he has earned between $40 and $50 a week since he began taking subscriptions. Morris admitted that they have traveled through several states, but said the boys are constantly under his supervision, and have never been in any trouble.

During the hearing, Ryan raised a question that may prove a knotty problem to local judicial authorities when he said, "Georgia can't decide who is governor of the state, who will sign the extradition papers." Judge Henderson said if such a

Telephone service on 85 lines that have been out of order because of cable failure since early yesterday morning probably will be restored this afternoon, company officials said last night.

Crews, working through the night, were handicapped when a wooden plug in a city water main gave way and water flooded the hole in which repairmen were working at the intersection of South Centre and Pershing streets.

Water was fountaining several feet into the air above the ditch at 11:30 p. m. A pump could not work fast enough to clear the hole of water, but city workers were preparing late last night to shut off the flow of water in the pipe, which serves that immediate section.

Telephone company officials indicated that water may have seeped out around the plug and into the cable, causing a short circuit which resulted in cable failure.

Pershing street between Liberty and Centre streets, and South Centre between Union and Baltimore streets were closed because of workmen attempting to make repairs.

Service on Cumberland and Fayette streets and some parts of North Centre, North Liberty and South Centre streets began failing sometime after 1 a. m. yesterday and eventually affected 120 lines, according to officials of the company, but they were able to restore service on 30 of those lines last night.
